$1,000,000 DRY FUND PROVOKES FIGHT IN HOUSE

Plan for 500 More Agents Denounced.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—What is likely to prove the hottest wet and dry fight in this session of congress was shaping up today around the annual appropriation bill carrying funds for the prohibition bureau of the department of justice.

The bill as reported to the house today from the appropriations committee provides an increase of $2,369,500 for the next fiscal year, making possible the employment of 500 new prohibition agents as well as 188 other prohibition officers and employés.

In a minority report from the appropriations committee Representative Fiorello H. Tinkham [Rep., Mass.] asserted that "unless human nature has radically changed, the 500 additional enforcement officers will add a new measure to the corruption, lawlessness, and perjury now generally connected with the enforcement of prohibition, and must increase the present resentment of and contempt for law and government and the disrespect for the administration of justice in the United States."

Wets Plan Attack.

Conferences of house wets resulted in a tentative program to launch attack upon the bill when it comes up for consideration in the house the latter part of the week. The wets will offer amendments along the following lines:

To reduce the amount of the appropriations for the prohibition bureau by eliminating funds for new prohibition agents.

To provide that no part of the funds shall be used for the establishment of speakeasies and other illegal places for the entrapment of prohibition violators or for the purchase of liquor or other unlawful acts as a means of getting evidence.

To provide that no part of the funds shall be used for propaganda or political purposes.

Debate on the bill, which carries a total of $135,739,668 for the departments of state, justice, commerce and labor, will run for several days. Final passage probably will not come before next week.

Wickersham Report Due.

In the meantime the Wickersham commission's report is likely to reach congress. Its advent will make the prohibition question an acute issue. The Wickersham commission is to hold a meeting tomorrow and it is likely that the report will be forwarded to congress by President Hoover by the end of the week. It was learned at the White House that the President is working on a message to accompany the report. He has been advised of its essential features.

The wets, whose maximum strength in the present house is not much more than one-fourth of the total membership, expect to meet defeat on all of their amendments to the appropriation bill. They propose, however, to put up a lively fight, with a view to making a record of the results of ten years of prohibition from their viewpoint.

As a basis for their arguments they have available the transcript of a vigorous cross-examination of Attorney General William D. Mitchell, Assistant Attorney General G. A. Youngquist, and Prohibition Director Amos Woodcock by Representative Tinkham in executive session before the subcommittee of the house appropriations committee, which approved the pending bill. The testimony was made public today with the reporting of the bill to the house.

$11,000,000 Is Allotted.

The amount appropriated for the bureau of prohibition in the bill reported today is $11,369,500. The bureau was in separation from the industrial alcohol bureau, when prohibition enforcement was shifted from the treasury to the department of justice July 1, has had an appropriation of $8,960,000.

Items in the total to be appropriated for the next fiscal year include $7,[illegible] for employés in the field and $[illegible] for employés in the District of Columbia, $1,680,295 for travel expenses, $316,500 for special and miscellaneous current expenses, $228,000 for supplies and materials, $225,151 for rents of buildings, $191,200 for repairs and alterations, $160,500 for temporary employés and special payments, $112,000 for the transportation of things," and $50,000 for dissemination of information.

Of the increase of $2,369,500 the sum

SCHMIDT ENTERS MAYORAL RACE; BARRETT STICKS

6 G. O. P. Candidates Enliven Contest.

BY PARKE BROWN.

George K. Schmidt, city controller in the Thompson cabinet, announced himself last night as the sixth entrant for the Republican nomination for the mayoralty.

His announcement was issued at 9 p. m. Two hours earlier Controller Schmidt sent word from his bed, where he has been treating a severe cold for several days, that the circulation of a nominating petition in his name was without his knowledge or consent.

This message was followed by another saying that a delegation had just arrived at the Schmidt residence and that a more formal statement than the mere disclaimer of the petition might be issued later. Then followed a typewritten declaration of the controller's candidacy.

New Flock of Rumors.

The other five candidates already in the race are Thompson, Judge John H. Lyle, Charles V. Barrett, Ald. Arthur F. Albert, and Thomas J. Houston. With the exception of Houston each of these has a part of the organized Republican forces of the city behind him, each of the big factions being aligned with some one of those four, and Schmidt's announcement immediately aroused a new flood of rumors that this or that candidate was about to withdraw.

One of these was that Thompson followers, who feel he will not remain in the race, determined to get behind a member of his cabinet in order to have an ace in the hole if the mayor withdraws. Another was that a number of German-Americans, dissatisfied with the chances of Ald. Albert, had determined to run Schmidt in the hope that Ald. Albert would retire.

Still another rumor was that Thompson's own advisers had brought Schmidt into the race in order to take the German-American vote away from Ald. Albert and thereby lessen his chances of defeating Thompson. This theory appears to fit the unauthorized circulation of a petition for George F. Harding, one of Judge Lyle's most powerful supporters.

Barrett Stands Pat.

There also was mention of a possibility that Barrett would withdraw, but almost simultaneously with the Schmidt announcement came a statement from Barrett declaring himself in the race to the finish.

The Barrett statement follows:

"Any suggestion that I am to withdraw from the mayoralty contest is unauthorized. I was the first to announce my candidacy. I stated in my announcement that it was my purpose to eliminate Thompsonism from our city, to drive the gangster, gunman, and racketeer out, to administer our municipal government honorably, efficiently, and sanely, and to restore Chicago's good name.

"There has been no change in the situation. The issues are unchanged. My objectives are the same and I will continue the fight until these ends are accomplished.

Purpose Is Defeated.

"Since my declaration others have found the courage to take a similar stand and other candidates have filed for the Republican nomination with the same avowed purposes. Without questioning their sincerity, their candidacies have tended to defeat the purposes of those opposed to Thompsonism and will aid the present mayor in perpetuating himself in office.

"I love Chicago. It is my wish to serve my native city. I have tried sincerely to bring about a consolidation of those elements of the Republican party which have taken a position similar to mine. I was willing to do this even though it involved a sacrifice of my own ambitions, provided some one with the proper background, ability, and integrity could be presented to properly govern our city.

"My efforts were in vain and I have determined to continue the fight."

The Schmidt Announcement.

Controller Schmidt is president of the Prudential State Savings bank. He was born in Chicago but received part of his education in Germany. He is 61 years old.

"Within the last few months numerous public and semi-public organizations have been urging me to become a candidate for the office of mayor of the city of Chicago," said the controller in his announcement.

"I have been reluctant to accede to their requests in the hope that the Republican party of Chicago would se-

WHICH IS THE MORE EFFECTIVE WAY TO PROTEST AGAINST HIGH TAXES?

To go to the polls and select the most honest and capable man—

Or to wait and kick to the tax collector?

HE LEARNS ABOUT THE WEAKNESSES OF STRONG BOXES

Many years ago Charles Prochaska formed a strong dislike for banks and finally he decided to build his own "bank"—a chest of oak so strong that no robber could open it, and lined with lead to make it so heavy that no one could carry it away.

The years wore on. The nickels and dimes saved from his wages as a laborer grew into hundreds of dollars. Then Prochaska's wife died. That was six years ago.

His daughter, Mary, now 19 years old, took her mother's place as the housekeeper in the home at 2002 South May street, but Prochaska was not satisfied with his meals. Mary, he said, was always cooking new fangled dishes she learned to make at school.

So, two weeks ago, he advertised for a cook, and when Anna Matich, 31 years old, appeared and offered to demonstrate her skill in the kitchen Prochaska was so pleased both with her cooking and her attractive appearance that he engaged her without bothering to ask for references or even her home address.

Yesterday Prochaska went to the box to get carfare while Anna was dusting in his bedroom. "O, what a beautiful box," she observed. Prochaska remarked that there was $600 in it.

When he returned both Anna and the box that couldn't be moved were gone.

LAKE MICHIGAN DELAYS ARRIVAL OF COLD WAVE

Lake Michigan, which provides cooling breezes in midsummer and helps protect Chicago against blizzards in winter, last night again came to the aid of the city and was delaying the arrival of a scheduled "moderate cold wave."

W. P. Day, the weather man, late last night said that lower temperatures already were being felt to the south as well as the north and west of Chicago, and that a shift in the wind would result in a drop to about 10 degrees above zero here by this morning.

At 9 o'clock last night, however, the thermometer stood at 24 degrees, which was 2 degrees higher than the low point for the earlier part of the day set at 9 a. m. Partly cloudy weather preceded by snow flurries is predicted for today, while tomorrow will be fair and rather cold.

Norway to Abolish Food and Drink Taxes in Cafes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway, Jan. 13.—The new budget presented to parliament today requires $101,520,000, an increase of $351,000. It is proposed to abolish on July 1 the tax on food and drinks in cafés and restaurants, which is unpopular with foreign tourists. This loss will be replaced by higher taxes on state sales of alcohol and wines. There is also a proposed reduction of 20 per cent in state railway fares. The budget provides the unemployment fund be increased by $135,000.

Back Hoover, Lucas Tells G. O. P. Chiefs

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—A Washington dispatch to the New York World says Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, has written Republican precinct leaders throughout the country appealing to them to defend the President and to join the committee in "an aggressive, active, determined campaign from this day until the polls close in 1932."

The letter was dated the day before Christmas.

Prevents Money Panic.

The letter as quoted by the World says, in part:

"President Hoover, experienced in ways of business and expert in handling big things, in spite of the world-wide depression and unemployment has sustained the American scale of wages, maintained the American standard of living, prevented a nation-wide money panic, and kept thousands of men and women at work in every community who would otherwise have been listed among the unemployed.

"The past year, however, has disclosed a well-laid plan by the Democrats to embarrass the Republican administration and discredit the President of the United States, and there has been no letup in Raskob's 'smear Hoover' campaign. To win in 1932 the Democrats must destroy the Republican leader. By subtle innuendo and insidious propaganda, which is being carried on by Raskob's organization in every community in the United States, they hope to break down the people's confidence in Herbert Hoover and thereby elect a Democrat in 1932.

Keep Truth Before People.

"As precinct leader you can give great assistance to your party and your administration if you will keep your precinct organization active throughout the year. Talk to your neighbors. Stand up for your party. Defend the President. Keep the truth before the people. We are looking to you to protect the Republican party in your precinct.

"The national committee will carry on an aggressive, active, determined campaign from this day until the polls close in 1932. With your assistance—your advice—before the people, victory will be ours."

Smith Asks Apology.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential candidate in 1928, today demanded from the Republican national committee "an apology and reparation" for permitting its executive director, Robert H. Lucas, to circulate 800,000 copies of the "Al Smith—Raskob Idea of Happiness" circular in Nebraska and other states during the last campaign. The circulars were adorned with a picture of a barroom.

Former Gov. Smith's demand was made public in a letter which Senator Robert F. Wagner, Tammany Democrat, introduced before the Nye senatorial campaign committee today.

EVANSTON JUDGE HOLDS OPEN HOUSE FOR AUTO SPEEDERS

Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter of Evanston court yesterday gave the first of a series of receptions for well known residents of the north shore towns. There were four guests yesterday and three paid fines for violating the traffic laws.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase of Lake Forest was the first to answer Magistrate Porter's summons. The arresting policeman said she slowed down to 30 miles an hour at a stop sign. She paid a $3 fine.

Mrs. Arthur C. Sullivan of Winnetka, sister-in-law of Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan, paid a $5 fine for speeding. Cornelius P. Van Schaack Jr., son of the wholesale druggist of Wilmette, was fined $50 for speeding. It was his seventh offense. Three months ago his license was revoked on account of speeding. It was recently returned to him.

William Hamilton Noyes of Winnetka, nephew of Britton I. Budd, president of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, forgot to appear in court and forfeited a $25 bond. He showed up a few hours later and was granted a continuance until tomorrow. The charge was speeding.

There were more arrests yesterday. Those arrested included Miss Mirjane Strong of Highland Park, daughter of William G. Strong, Chicago attorney; Mrs. Herman Katz of Wilmette, wife of the secretary of the United Mills company; Milton J. Hardacre Jr., son of a Highland Park banker, and Mrs. Eugene R. Farney, wife of the general manager of the Rudolph Wurlitzer company, music house.

Fire Causes $10,000 Loss in Apartment Building

Half a hundred woman and girl tenants of the Lake-Ellis apartment building at 4051 Ellis avenue were routed from their beds and rooms early this morning by fire which broke out in the basement. The blaze spread to the elevator shaft and did little damage beyond scorching the walls of the shaft and adjoining corridors. M. L. Kincaid, 43 years old, and Miss Nina Fay, 40 years old, were trapped in their rooms on the fourth floor and were carried down ladders by Fireman William Kearney of truck 15.

South Parks to Ask Bonds for New Drive

Several bond issue proposals, totaling more than $5,000,000, will be submitted to the voters at the mayoralty primary February 24 by the south park commissioners. It was learned yesterday that the commissioners voted at a meeting last week to submit the proposals.

One of the bond issues, if adopted, would extend the outer drive nearly four miles, from Jackson park to Calumet park. Another would widen Marquette road. A third is for miscellaneous park improvements.

It was also learned that a fourth issue is likely to be submitted for the construction of the Randolph street viaduct. Preparation of this proposition for submission to the voters is now in the hands of attorneys for the board.

Drive to Cost $2,500,000.

The outer drive extension will cost approximately $2,500,000, according to information obtained yesterday. The proposal provides for the filling in of the lake and the construction of a new drive on the made land from 67th street to 95th street.

The Marquette road issue involves approximately $1,000,000 and calls for the widening of the thoroughfare from 28 feet to about 40 feet from Jackson park to Marquette park.

The issues will also provide for the boulevarding of Yates avenue from Jackson park to Trumbull park and the same improvement for the so-called Southeastern boulevard, a system of streets of which Jeffery avenue is the main artery. Preparation of this issue is also in the hands of the board's attorneys.

$1,600,000 for Parks.

Approximately $1,500,000 is allotted to miscellaneous park improvements. These include, among other items, the construction of a field house at Madden park, a shelter at James R. Mann park, and a field house in the Seventh Ward park.

The lake front extension, of which the outer drive development is of outstanding importance, was started in 1920 under the Burnham, or Chicago, plan. However, the Burnham plan covered park improvement only as far as Jackson park. When the outer drive was built connecting Grant and Jackson parks it became apparent that the drive should be extended to Calumet park, also under the jurisdiction of the south park commissioners, at 95th street and the lake.

Should the proposed extension be approved by the voters it will, upon the completion of the outer drive link bridge connecting the south parks with the Lincoln park system, provide about twenty miles of continuous lake front boulevard.

HEAD OF SECRET SIX RESPONDS TO JURY APPEAL

Members of the special grand jury impaneled to investigate the police department asked President Anton J. Cermak of the county board yesterday for an appropriation of $50,000 with which to do the work. The jurors yesterday heard testimony that 260 speakeasies were found in the loop by an investigator, who said he believed there were 200 or 300 more he didn't find. The jury also sought information about a colored policeman who was discharged three times and reinstated after each discharge.

Appeal to Cermak.

The jurors had just started their inquiry when they discovered the lack of funds. Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, in charge of the investigation, told them he couldn't function without money for hiring investigators. He has authority to select a number of policemen for this task, but he said he prefers civilians. The jury, therefore, summoned President Cermak to the afternoon session.

Mr. Cermak said that as a member and as president of the county board he would vote for the appropriation if the money could be found. He said, however, that the appropriation would have to be approved by a majority of the 15 county commissioners. He told the jurors that the county is in bad financial circumstances, but that he would try at a meeting tomorrow to provide a working fund.

C. A. C. May Supply Cash.

In the event the county board fails to supply the necessary funds, it is planned to appeal to the Association of Commerce to furnish the money. Col. Robert I. Randolph, president of the association, who is at Biloxi, Miss., was informed of the emergency and indicated the investigation will not fail because of lack of finances. He said:

"It is the duty of the county board to raise the money. But if the board does not do its duty the investigation will not lack funds.

"I will be back in Chicago Sunday to confer with Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court. By that time we shall have the $100,000 back that we loaned for the Loesch investigation."

Police Called for Quiz.

Capt. Willard Malone, Lieuts. David Schwartz, Louis Klatzco, Joseph Hughes, together with Detectives Adolph Weber, Walter Graeber, Richard Sheehy, Guy Willoughby, George Martrick, and Roy Kindt, all of the central police district, were called to the jury room, but the testimony was not heard, owing to the appearance of Cermak. They were told to appear later.

Presumably they are to be questioned about the statement of C. A. Harned, an investigator employed by the secret six committee of the Association of Commerce, who said he had been assigned to make a survey of speakeasies and handbooks in the loop or central district, which is under the command of Capt. Malone.

Alexander G. Jamie, chief investigator for the secret six, said he was not making a general survey of drinking conditions in the city, as has been reported, nor were his men making "buys" in an effort to obtain evidence. He had undertaken one phase of an investigation at the request of State's Attorney Swanson, he said, adding "and right now my slate is clean and I have nothing more to do with the police inquiry."

The Policeman's Case.

Maj. Carlos Ames, president of the civil service commission, was a witness during the morning session. He said he had nothing to do with the case of Policeman James H. Williams, colored, whose record was before the jury. The record is as follows:

Appointed to police department on Oct. 27, 1922.

Authority granted for cancellation of discharge and for registration of his name on reinstatement register June 3, 1924.

Ordered discharged by Civil Service Commissioners Finn and Pelka Sept. 24, 1925.

Petition for rehearing allowed and order of discharge set aside and placed on reinstatement list Oct. 30, 1925.

Discharged on Jan. 27, 1926.

Petition for rehearing allowed, discharge set aside, placed on reinstatement list by Commissioners Houston, Carey, and Danemark July 31, 1928.

Reinstated Jan. 23, 1929.

Maj. Ames said he did not take office until late in 1929. Commissioner Edward Denemark, called before the jury, said he didn't remember the case. Maj. Ames said he would ask an opinion of the corporation counsel as to whether Williams may now be discharged. The charges preferred against Williams, and on which he lost his job three times, were inefficiency and neglect of duty, stealing an automobile, and rape.

Maj. Ames said he changed the system of giving efficiency marks to policemen for promotion tests. In the past the commissioner had the sole power to give whatever efficiency marks he desired and as this marking carried a weight of 50 points out of 100 for the whole examination, the commissioner virtually had control of all promotions. Maj. Ames said he had inaugurated a system which all the superior officers of the candidate for promotion have a voice in the marking. In the future efficiency markings are to be given every three months, regardless of promotional examinations.

The jury heard testimony that William Brennan, a street car conductor desirous of becoming a policeman, gave $200 to Peter Tuohy, a motorman, to use his influence with politicians. Tuohy promised to refund the money and he was dismissed with a warning to mind his own business, it was said.

TERRY TO FACE LYLE

Judge John H. Lyle of the Felony court, who has been warring against gunmen, racketeers, and hoodlums, will have a chance at Terry Druggan, one of the original violators of the Volstead act, this morning. Druggan will appear in Judge Lyle's court on an old contempt of court charge. Attorneys representing the beer boss, who on Monday pleaded guilty in the federal court to income tax violations and is waiting sentence, notified Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and James Brown that Druggan will appear this morning to answer the contempt charge.

The charge grows out of the many ailments from which Terry suffered while the authorities were trying to bring him to justice. On one occasion Druggan sent word to Judge Lyle that he was ill in his suite at the Morrison hotel. The judge had the suite raided and found that Terry was not at home. This, it was charged, constituted contempt of the court.

"I feel confident that I will be able to show Judge Lyle that Druggan is guilty of contempt, even though he has filed a sworn petition denying the charges," said Prosecutor Brown.

Two well known hoodlums appeared before the judge yesterday, one on robbery charges and the other on a charge of vagrancy. Sam Battaglia, member of the "42" gang, who took part in a New Year's eve shooting affray with the police, was held in $400,000 bonds and his case was continued to Feb. 15. He is held on five charges of robbery and three of assault to murder. Battaglia was shot during the fight with the police at a North Clark street restaurant.

Asks Cash for Bail.

The arraignment of Rocco Fanelli, public enemy, who was arrested after the shooting of his brother-in-law, James Belcastro, called by the police the "king of the bombers," brought about a discussion of whether a city check should be taken as bail for him. Attorney John Johntry, representing Fanelli, offered to post the city check, which he said he held in lieu of some bonds turned over by him.

"I don't like to have the city posting bonds for a hoodlum, and yet I don't like to refuse to honor the city's check," said Judge Lyle. "You'd better get the check cashed and bring back the money."

Judge Lyle fixed bail at $80,000 for Jerome Baptist, colored, who was held on four charges of robbery. Jack Antrim, 29 years old, was ordered held to the grand jury on a charge of murdering his common law wife, Mary Judkins.

Lyle Replies to David.

Speaking before the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Banking at its annual banquet at the Palmer house last night, Judge Lyle replied to the attack on him made by Judge Joseph B. David in the Criminal court. Judge Lyle, who did not use Judge David's name, said:

"The judge who has been most bitter in his criticism of me has perhaps turned loose more criminals and gunmen than any other on the bench in Cook county. It has become quite the custom for me to hold so-called public enemies to the grand jury on high bond, only to have one of my colleagues upstairs reduce it and put them back on the street."

ROCKET FROM SHIP GIVES FALSE CLEW TO LOST OCEAN FLYERS

LISBON, Jan. 13.—(AP)—A bit of hope for the safety of Lieut. William S. MacLaren and Mrs. Beryl Hart, missing since they left Bermuda Saturday noon in the seaplane Tradewind for the Azores, was dashed tonight.

Portuguese admiralty officials ordered an eager search today when they received reports from New York that the plane was alleged to have fallen into the sea about 20 miles off Mosteiros point, off San Miguel island, one of the Azores group.

Villagers were said to have seen the plane diving for the water, but the San Miguel wireless station, to which the report was attributed, informed the government tonight that the object which fell was only a rocket fired from a British cruiser engaged in gunnery practice nearby.

Admiralty officers ordered the destroyer Ibo to the spot when they first learned of the Mosteiros point rumor, but withdrew it after hearing from San Miguel.

In the meantime the steamer Nuolja and other ships continued to search for the American flyers, who sought to fly from the United States to Paris with the first trans-Atlantic pay load.

GEO. K. SCHMIDT ENTERS RACE AND NEW RUMORS FLY

Mayoralty Campaign Gets More Complicated.

lect a candidate upon whom all conscientious and loyal Republicans of this splendid city could center their efforts of support and hope, and one who would possess the business qualifications needed to represent the second largest city in the United States.

"It now appears that there is no one candidate who can say that the business men and Republicans of Chicago will support him as a party candidate; so, regardless of my personal desires, it appears as if I now must submit to the urgings of the numerous organizations, my many friends, and consent to have my candidacy placed before the Republican voters in the same manner as I consented to become the city controller about two years ago, when the city was in the worst financial chaos any city was ever placed in.

Points to Public Record.

"This consent on my part is given with the sincere belief that the knowledge and experience gained as an alderman, a county commissioner, a member of the board of assessors, vice president of the board of local improvements of your great city, as well as the work performed by me as the city's chief fiscal officer during the last two years of financial turmoil, have provided me with a thorough knowledge of what the city needs.

"My work as the city's chief fiscal officer, in conjunction with the various civic organizations who have been instrumental in the last year in effecting legislative relief, has given me the ground work to develop certain definite plans that should be followed by the city's chief executive, which plans I most assuredly would consider my duty to put into effect if I were elected to this great office."

Lyle Tells of Crime Battle.

Judge Lyle, who now is supported by the Harding, Snow and Brundage forces, refused again last night to reply to charges directed against him by Ald. Albert and speakers from the Deneen camp. These charges were repeated by Ald. Albert and Andrew W. Gatenby at a business men's luncheon at the Edgewater Beach hotel. But in an address before the American Institute of Bankers at the Palmer house in the evening Judge Lyle ignored them. He limited his remarks to the war against crime.

"Judge Lyle has used the crime situation as a straw man," said Ald. Albert at his noon gathering, "to boost himself politically while, as a matter of fact and public record, not on of the twenty-six public enemies listed by the Chicago Crime commission is now serving a sentence in jail as a result of Judge Lyle's action.

"The crime situation, however, is not the only one which demands a candidate of honesty, force, and conviction. There are many constructive problems now before the people of Chicago, problems demanding early and economic solution."

Shows Sanitary Records.

Gatenby, recently made chief clerk of the board of review, displayed to the luncheoon crowd photostats showing that Judge Lyle's law firm received money from the sanitary district in 1923 and 1924, the payments totaling $7,200 in those two years. He also displayed reproductions of court records and copies of campaign pamphlets showing Judge Lyle at various times supported Robert E. Crowe for state's attorney, Charles V. Barrett for the board of review, and Joseph P. Savage for county judge.

Albert headquarters also distributed copies of a statement by Attorney Nathan William MacChesney, a Deneen lieutenant, indorsing Albert.

Organize on West Side.

Lyle headquarters occupied itself chiefly with organization matters. It was announced that State Representative Albert J. Mancin has opened Lyle headquarters for the 27th ward at 1616 West Madison street. The committeeman for this ward is William M. Garrison, city purchasing agent, who is with Thompson.

It also was announced that a Lyle headquarters will be opened this week in the 30th ward, where the committeeman, Edward F. Moore, deputy commissioner of public works, is with Thompson. This work is to be continued until there are Lyle bases of operation in every ward where the committeemen are lined up with other candidates.

Ties Her Feet and Hands Before Leaping Into Bay

Mattapoiset, Mass., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Miss Lillian Fritz, socially prominent New Bedford girl, tied her hands and feet before leaping into Buzzard's Bay. Her body was recovered today about 50 feet from the pier on which some of her garments were found yesterday. One silk stocking bound her feet and the other her hands.

NEW ATTORNEY TRIES TO ENTER BROTHERS' CASE

Another Declares Captive Is Not Lingle Slayer.

New or additional attorneys will be engaged in the defense of Leo V. Brothers, charged with the murder of Alfred Lingle, it was indicated yesterday.

Brothers, who fled to Chicago after he had murdered another man in plain view of witnesses on the streets of St. Louis, has been indicted for the Lingle murder and is awaiting trial.

A group of four lawyers had appeared up to yesterday as counsel for Brothers, retained by the prisoner's mother, Mrs. Rose Cordell Jessen of St. Louis. The lawyers are Robert E. Cantwell Sr., Tyrrell Krum, Louis Piquett, and Robert E. Ward.

Another Attorney Appears.

Yesterday another attorney, Joseph P. Power, appeared at the jail, asking to see Brothers. Attorney Krum happened to be in the jail at the time and was notified that Power wished to see Brothers. Krum went in to see the prisoner first, and when he returned to the clerk's office he said Brothers did not wish to see Power.

Attorney Power angrily protested that Krum had induced Brothers to deny him an interview.

"I just came here to help," Power told Krum. "I wanted to deliver some message to Brothers, but now that you have acted in this manner I'll show you that I'll be in the case."

What Jail Slip Shows.

Power had presented a slip, filled out in accordance with the jail rules, in which it was stated that he had been sent to Brothers by L. Elzas. Krum said that Brothers knew Elzas and indicated that Elzas had connections of some sort with Brothers on the south side.

Interviewed later, Mr. Power declared that Elzas was a fictitious name. He verified that he had been retained in Brothers' behalf, but declined to say by whom.

Another attorney, W. W. O'Brien, who has handled many defenses for notorious criminals and gangsters, was reported to have been approached by friends of Brothers with requests to take charge of the defense.

"I have nothing to say at this time," Mr. O'Brien said when asked about the reports. "I may have something in a few days."

Brothers' mother, accompanied by Mrs. Betty Cook, a sweetheart of Brothers, visited the prisoner yesterday. Later Mrs. Jessen left for St. Louis, saying that she would return with funds for the defense. Mrs. Cook, who is divorced from her first husband and estranged from a second, declined to comment on her visit with Brothers.

Attorney Cantwell, who years ago retired from practice but recently reentered the profession, said yesterday after a visit with Brothers that he, Cantwell, had been a witness to the murder of Lingle, that he saw the murderer, and it was not Brothers.

"The murderer had a cauliflower ear," Cantwell said. "I did not get a good look at his face, but I saw his back and the back of his head plainly, and I took particular note of the deformed ear. I was an amateur wrestler myself years ago. I saw the slayer as he jumped the railing at the east end of the tunnel."

Roche Replies to Cantwell.

Chief Investigator Pat Roche, when apprised of the elderly lawyer's statement, remarked that Cantwell had never before come forward with the information that he had seen the murder. Cantwell said he had not done so because he wished to avoid being involved.

The lawyer also declared that Brothers had been subjected to third degree methods after his capture on Dec. 21. For four days, Cantwell said, Brothers had not been permitted to sleep.

"His captors kept him chained in the bathroom of the hotel suite where he was held, chained hand and foot, beat him with a rubber hose, which leaves no bruises as evidence, and pushed him around every time he dozed off," Cantwell asserted. "In spite of this, Brothers assures us, they never got a single admission of guilt from him in the Lingle case."

Cantwell also declared, despite the efforts of his associates to restrain him, that Brothers had been operated upon the day before the killing of Lingle, and that he must have been swathed in bandages on the day of the murder.

ITCHEN TESTED CONOMY PARES COUNTY BUDGET

Women on Board Spot Revenue Wastes.

By KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

The county commissioners settled to yesterday behind guarded doors the county building to tackle the most job of their fiscal year. They ve draft a budget which will shave or five million dollars off the which department heads say will need for Cook county's 1931 ...

L. Jacobs, county efficiency engi- was there to explain—and they him busy doing it—that there be $21,000,000 to spend and no ... He was patient, directing his marks most often to the four women bers, who, he appeared to assume, naturally be less well informed their masculine colleagues.

Women Ask Questions.

The women, Miss Amelia Sears, Mrs. ard J. Fleming, Miss Mary McEn- , and Mrs. Glenn Plumb, fired ...tions in eager succession at the ency engineer, and it was noted though the women did the asking men listened carefully to the an- ... Seven of the eleven men on board, as well as the four women, new members.

The entire board was sitting as a ... committee under the chairman- of Emmett Whealan, one of the veterans of the board.

The questions asked by the women dicated that their experience as ...wives and social service workers useful in their search for county ...

Getting Down to Cases.

The budget estimate revealed an ... of $85,000 for telephone service. ...el J. O'Connor, assistant deputy ...troller, said the telephone company ...e service at half rates, so the $85,... represented $170,000 worth of serv- ...

"That ought to be cut in half," ...nnor asserted. "In my opinion, least 75 per cent of the telephoning ...e from this building is not on ...nty business—nor by county em- ...ees. It's the friends who wander ...nd use the phones for social pur- ...es that get the benefit."

"Get the telephone company to ...e a test—and then we'll talk about ..." said Miss Sears.

"Will the company do that?" some- ...dy wanted to know.

"Certainly," she retorted. "They'll ...your phone and tell you how many ...ls are made to get the baseball ...es, and how many times you call ...your grandmother——"

"Why not have pay station phones ...in here?" interjected Miss Mc- ...ney. "I'd just as soon use them ...my own calls, and it surely would ...e the county thousands. We ...dn't have to pay for promiscuous ...es by outsiders."

The Postage Stamp Leak.

The second item which drew the ...of the women was a postage fund ...0,000. Chairmen Whealan and ...nnor admitted that it was too ..., and revealed that a central mail- ...g bureau, established over a year ..., had been practically ignored. ...ny personal letters going out of the ...nty building are mailed at the ex- ...se of the county, they added.

"Why isn't the bureau used as it's ...posed to be?" queried Mrs. Flem- ...g. Nobody could give any reason. ...s. Fleming then suggested that an ...er be sent out directing the heads ...departments to have their mail col- ...ted and sent through the cancella- ...g machine.

"There! Twenty thousand dollars ...ved!" commented Miss Sears, with ...smile and a wave of both hands. ...e men chuckled with her.

Later Mrs. Fleming came to the de- ...se of the office of public defender ...response to the criticism of O'Con- ...r that it was created on an under- ...nding that the expense would be ...0 for the first three months, but ...a bill for $7,500 had been paid.

Learning About Funds.

"There are revolving funds and con- ...ngent funds and numerous other pro- ...sions and ramifications to become ac- ...quainted with, and the women follow ...diously every point.

"They learn, among other things, ...hat the highway tax brings in much ...ore revenue than the board can ex- ...end each year, while other funds are ...lean and hungry in comparison.

"Here we have something like ...even million dollars for highways an- ...nually," O'Connor explains. "That ...ould be about 200 miles of highway ...a year, at $35,000 a mile, and we ...ought make a start on building that ...much."

"Then why aren't taxes lowered?" ...Miss Sears wants to know.

O'Connor goes into the technical- ...ties of the situation, his point being ...that at the present rate of this tax ...Cook county will eventually wipe out ...its road bond indebtedness."

It was practically conceded at the ...session that salary raises for 1931 ...will be suspended to keep the budget ...within its bounds.

Nearing 5 o'clock, Mrs. Fleming ...places her hat and dons it. Beside ...her Charles Weber speaks up with, ..."Mr. Chairman, I think some of the ...ladies are wanting to get away, so I ...move we adjourn."

"Is that so!" choruses an indignant ...quartet of soprano voices. "Speak ...for yourself, don't blame us."

AND EVEN MR. WORK COULD HARDLY FIND FAULT ABOUT THIS

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Police witnesses testified today that George Bolin went berserk during a bridge game in the home of John Ashley. They said he knocked down Mrs. Ashley, punched Mr. Ashley to the detriment of his eyes and nose, smashed a half dozen chairs and kicked all the windows out of the lower floors.

Then he walloped the nose of Police Captain Joseph Jossart, who is 6 feet 6 and weighs 300 pounds.

"Your honor," he said, "you can't find this man guilty."

Acker conferred a moment with George.

"Your honor," he said, "my client declares he led the ace of spades after that suit had been played twice. His partner laid down a deuce of diamonds, a trump. The trick was taken by the next player with a five trump. Any one knows my client's partner should have played at least a ten. Such bridge, your honor, would justify almost anything.

"Further, my client states the host served drinks. And the drinks, if the court will glance at the police captain, were potent. My client weighs but 140 pounds.

"We rest, on contributory causes of inferior liquor presented by the host, and rotten bridge played by the hostess. Let the damage fall where it may."

The court set Bolin free.

ROBS GIRL THEATER CASHIER.

Miss Helen Becket, 25 years old, 4643 Lake Park avenue, cashier of the Frolic theater, 951 East 55th street, was threatened by a Negro gunman last night and forced to give up more than $50, the evening's receipts.

NEW GET RICH QUICK SCHEME UNDER INQUIRY

A get rich quick scheme has caused federal and state authorities to start investigations in Boone and Winnebago counties, it was learned last night.

Said to have been originally launched two years ago by a factory employé of Belvidere, it has coaxed money from many farmers, clerks, and workers in the manufacturing plants of Rockford. The chamber of commerce of Rockford is said to have been responsible for the investigations now under way.

No complaints have been made by any of the investors, nor have any warrants been issued for the promoters. The scheme is described as quite simple as concerns the investor. He gives the promoter, say, $500; the promoter gives him his note for $750 and within 30 days pays him cash. Generally the investor "reinvests" the money. Thus, the scheme keeps going as long as there are new investors.

VICTIMS ACCUSE 3 PRISONERS OF 18 ROBBERIES

Eighteen robberies have been charged to three men arrested Monday evening in an apartment at 3823 Ellis avenue by Stanton avenue police, it was learned last night. In addition one of the women victims says they assaulted her when they looted her apartment at 1522 South Michigan avenue, of $1,900 in wearing apparel on New Year's eve.

The men are Sam Lamargo, 21 years old, 636 South Ashland avenue; Joseph Levigne, 19 years old, 3538 South Wells street, and Joseph Gagliano, 24 years old, 3823 Ellis avenue.

They have been identified among others by the Misses Ann McLaughlin and Ann Williams of 4859 Cottage Grove avenue.

'WHOOPEE GIRL'S' MYSTERY DEATH STIRS CAPITAL

Beulah Limerick Case Has Echo in Senate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—Special.]—Washington, wont to twist its mouth in scorn at Chicago's crime, is smacking its lips over its own murder mystery, the killing of Beulah Limerick, who at 20 had been married and divorced, was posing as the wife of one man, and was "dating" with half a dozen others. The ingredients of the case are these:

Beulah went dancing Dec. 30 at a party given by the Sky-Line Whoopee club, of which she was an officer. She returned home alive or was carried home dead and was placed in the bed of her flat, some time before dawn of the 31st.

Her brother, Vernon, called up her mother at half past 8 that morning and remarked that "Beulah's dead." There was a call for an ambulance and calm acceptance of the fact that she had died from a natural cause, a hemorrhage.

The body, with face freshly rouged and powdered, and the bobbed hair curled over the forehead, was taken to an undertaker's. An assistant pushed back the hair and discovered a bullet hole in the back of the girl's head.

More Mysteries Follow.

Police rushed to her flat, found three men there: Vernon, the brother; Richard Reed, who had posed as her husband; and William Paddy, her dance partner of the night before. All three were ordered to the police station, but Reed hurried to the home of Beulah's mother, Mrs. Dora Limerick.

Several hours later the police returned to the flat and found a shell from a .25 caliber gun. It was lying on the floor in front of the stove and so near the bed that the detectives felt sure they would have seen it had it been there at the earlier visit.

Then they rounded up guns. From the table drawer in the corner they took a .38 caliber one, and in Reed and Paddy's locker, at their place of business, they found three others. None fitted the shell.

Today, two weeks after the killing, Martha Bargfrede, young married woman friend of Beulah's, remarked that Mrs. Limerick, the mother, had cautioned her not to mention "the gun in the stove." So the police explored the stove this afternoon.

Half Melted Gun Found.

And, half buried beneath the ashes, they found a gun, so melted that they fear that the bureau of standards, to which it was immediately turned over, can make no absolute identification.

Meanwhile, the list of suspects continues to grow. Four men are in custody. They are Vernon Limerick, the brother; Reed; Paddy, her escort, who was in her flat for some time after the two were driven home from the dance, and Policeman Robert F. Langdon, who was on patrol near her home the morning of the murder and who is known to have visited her house several times.

Langdon has been in trouble before on rum charges. Beulah's relatives insist that he "had made life unbearable for her" and that she intended moving to new quarters the very day of her death, in order to escape his attentions.

Diary Is Revealing.

Beulah's diary, begun about four months ago and ended Dec. 10, casts some light on the energetic way in which she pursued the motto of the Sky-line Whoopee club—"Always be Gay."

It starts off Sept. 8 this way: "Starting my diary with a thrill—— came over. He was so sweet to Martha and I. We went downtown and then to Alexandria. —— took us. Came home and went with ——. We have just about come to the parting of the ways. Had some wine and beer."

Sept. 9—"O, gee! I'm still thrilled. Went to Mount Ranier. Had a wonderful time. Gave me so much hope for my club and new members."

Sept. 10—"Gosh! I hope our club will be a success. Had a letter from —— also one from ——. Of course I listened to —— and —— said he liked the wine."

And on and on, with the record crowded with names of boys and dates. On Oct. 16 she says this: "Our big night. Our real party. —— came over. —— kissed me. Not bad. Better than I expected. I may find him interesting."

More Thrills and Boys.

On Oct. 18, she recalls, "What a night," and hopes that a new-found beau is "silly as he seems," and that he will be "as harmless as the others." On Nov. 30 she returns to keeping a diary after quite a lot of "thrills." She is puzzling over her affection for still another new friend because "he is such a damn liar and so goofy that he interests me."

But what interests the senators of the United States, through their subcommittee on police and fire of the District of Columbia, is this entry on Dec. 7: "O, my! Cops visited us again."

Senator Robert D. Carey, chairman of the subcommittee, in asking the district police commissioner to confer with him on the Langdon angle of the murder, reminded the chief that there is still pending a resolution calling for an investigation of the whole police department.

Dead Girl's Girl Friend.

Martha Bargfrede, who worked with Beulah as an usher, and played with her on parties, admitted that her own husband had quarreled with her because of her fondness for Beulah's home.

Almost as important as finding the gun in the cook stove was the discovery that Beulah's trunk, containing a packet of ardent love letters, and her toilet case, holding all the cosmetics with which the dead girl's face may have been painted and powdered, had been removed from the flat. Mrs. Limerick, when questioned about it, said it had been done because the rooms, now unoccupied, might be looted. Detectives in charge of the case regard the removal of the cosmetics as highly important.

TRANSIT OUT AS MAYORAL ISSUE, POLITICIANS SAY

Mayor Thompson has signed the ordinance, passed by the city council last Saturday, which extends the time from Jan. 28 to May 22 in which the new transportation company may accept the indeterminate franchise approved by the voters last July 1.

To this both Democratic and Republican politicians attach significance because they believe that the transportation question—as a major issue—was thereby lifted out of the mayoralty campaign.

The reason for extending the time period is understood to be because the franchise provides that it cannot be accepted until the surface and elevated lines have been consolidated. The financial plan for consolidating the lines has not been formally accepted by the protective committees representing the security holders in the existing companies.

As a preliminary to that action the security holders must have 30 days' notice of the plan, and that period does not expire until the latter part of January. After that the merger cannot be effected until the surface lines are out of receivership.

SIKH RUNS AMOK; KILLS WIFE OF BRITISH OFFICER

Then Swings His Sword on 2 Daughters, 7, 5.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LAHORE, India, Jan. 13.—A former Sikh soldier ran amok with a sword here today, invaded the home of Capt. H. G. C. Curtis of the British army, and fatally slashed Mrs. Curtis and then cut down her two daughters, aged 7 and 5.

The Sikh, following his arrest in the hills, made a startling confession of disaffection in the Indian army. Followers of Mahatma Gandhi's congress party, he told police, early last year joined the reserve battalion of the Punjab regiment for the express purpose of killing British army officers. No opportunity, he said, arose during his three months' service and following his discharge he received a three months' sentence for his activities with the congress volunteers. He said he regretted that he had not shot himself after today's outrage, and declared that there were plenty of men in his village prepared to commit a similar crime.

Captain and Sergeant Slain.

It is recalled that on Dec. 9 the captain of the Tenth battalion of the Punjab regiment and an Indian sergeant were murdered by a lance corporal, who afterward committed suicide in the Lahore cantonment.

Today's tragedy occurred while Mrs. Curtis was sitting on the veranda of her bungalow in the British cantonment. The Sikh, shouting "I am a congress wallah," dashed at her. Mrs. Curtis' left arm was almost severed when she raised it to ward off the first blow. The second blow fell between the fingers of her right hand, splitting the hand to the wrist. Rushing outside where the two Curtis girls were playing with a bicycle, the Sikh cut down one with a blow on the head. The child's heavy sun helmet saved her from instant death. Upon the other girl he inflicted severe wounds in the head and leg. The native then made a dash for the open country, where he was chased and captured by servants. Mrs. Curtis died in a hospital following amputation of her arm.

Moslems Serve Ultimatum.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 13.—An eleventh hour crisis at the Indian round table conference was threatened today by a demand from the Moslem members that no grant of dominion status or federal government should be given to India unless safeguards for all minorities, particularly the Moslems, are contained in the new constitution.

The demand followed an all night meeting in Aga Khan's rooms at the Ritz hotel, which at times threatened to develop a split among the Moslems themselves.

The Moslem members, who had been inclined to compromise with the Hindus, bitterly attacked Sir Mohamed Shafti and Dr. Shafaat Ahmed Khan, for insisting on separate electorates and other privileges for the Moslems, and accused them of spoiling the chances for a compromise. Finally, however, it was agreed that Aga Khan, Sir Mohamed Shafti, and Mohamed Ali Jinnah should see Prime Minister MacDonald and request him not to make any statement on dominion status or federal government for India unless he linked it with a settlement of the Hindu-Moslem quarrel.

LAUNCH "WHITE WAY" PLAN FOR RANDOLPH ST.

Lighting System Is Described.

A transformation of Randolph street in the loop into a "great white way" by illuminating it in a manner comparable to State street and New York's Broadway was planned yesterday by the Randolph Street Lighting association during a meeting at the Hotel Sherman.

A new system of powerful white lights will be installed in the theater district between Wells street and Michigan avenue, according to the plans, and, later, may be extended west to the North Western railroad station. Four or five ornamental light standards will be placed in each block, each supporting two 1,500 watt lights.

Seek Support of Owners.

Members of the association were instructed to start immediately to get property owners to sign for the plan. The cost, estimated at $12.54 a front foot for the first five years will be borne entirely by the property owners with the exception of the stretch fronting the city hall and county building.

"As Randolph street is narrower than State street, I believe the new lights will make it brighter than the latter," said David W. Kahane, executive secretary of the association. "Then, too, Randolph street has more signs on it that add to the illumination. We hope to get the signatures of the property owners and word from the city and county that they will pay their share in time so that the system can be installed in the spring."

Cost Drops in Sixth Year.

The district to be lighted contains 3,200 front feet of property, which, at an assessment of $12.54 a front foot, will total $40,128 a year. After the first five years, when the installation will be paid for, the cost will be reduced to $7.76 a front foot, according to Mr. Kahane.

The association, which has been considering the plan for some time, is headed by Frank Bering, general manager of the Hotel Sherman. Karl Eitel of the Bismarck hotel is treasurer.

JUDGE ASKS LESS GAB, MORE LAW IN SANITARY CASE

Tells Attorneys to Give Written Citations.

Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court yesterday ordered the attorneys for the defense and prosecution in the sanitary district graft conspiracy case against Timothy J. Crowe and seven other former trustees and officials of the district, to speed up their arguments on the motions to quash the indictments. He ordered the attorneys to prepare briefs giving him Supreme court citations to support their contentions.

Judge David did not definitely commit himself on what his action would be, but he indicated that he considered the first two counts of the indictment complied with the law. The remaining seven counts may not be good, he intimated, and said that he would have to "hear a whole lot" from the state on the subject.

One Count Is Sufficient.

If the judge holds only one count of the indictment to be good, it will be sufficient to bring the defendants before a Criminal court jury or a judge on a hearing.

It was pointed out that quashing of some of the counts might narrow the evidence of the state, but would not be a bar to trial of the defendants.

During the course of the arguments yesterday the question of the defendants waiving a jury trial came up, and Judge David said:

"I have known some of these defendants for years. It is not a pleasant task to sit in judgment of my life long friends. However, I will not shirk my duty. In my fourteen years of experience I have found that juries rarely make mistakes in fact."

Attorneys Defend Services.

While the defendants in the criminal prosecution were attempting to dodge trial by having the indictment quashed, some fifty-five attorneys, who appeared on the district pay rolls during the Crowe régime, were before Judge Thomas Taylor Jr., defending themselves against charges brought by the Chicago Bar association in disbarment proceedings.

Judge Taylor is acting as a commissioner for the Supreme court in the disbarment proceedings.

Attorney Elmer J. Whitty, first assistant counsel for the sanitary district, was the chief witness. Under questioning of Attorney Willard R. Matheny of the bar association, Attorney Whitty said that the attorneys named did not engage in trial work, but prepared cases and secured evidence in connection with Mississippi valley claim suits.

Cashier Brings Records.

John Musa, cashier of the district, produced the district pay roll records except as to the last half of May, 1927, which are missing. The records were not introduced in evidence. Attorney Lawrence J. Fenlon, senior assistant attorney for the district, testified that he saw most of the defendant lawyers around the sanitary district offices at one time or another, but did not know what work they performed.

ONLY TWO OFFICERS ABLE TO ATTEND G. A. R. CEREMONY

Only two officers of Columbia post, No. 706, Grand Army of the Republic, were able to attend the installation of officers held yesterday by the post in conjunction with the Columbia Woman's Relief corps, No. 175. Gen. James E. Stuart, 89 year old veteran, of 3144 Monroe street, who was to be installed as junior vice commander, was confined to his home with rheumatism. Frank Steiskal, commander, is ill.

Seven members of the post remain. Last year three attended the ceremony. Those present yesterday were W. H. Davis, who was a commander 25 years ago, and C. B. Plattenburg.

Dr. Davis, who is 89 years old, described his service briefly: "With the Army of the Potomac all the way from Bull Run to Appomattox," he said.

Mr. Plattenburg, who is 87, was an ensign in the navy, Mississippi squadron. "I fit some, even if I was in the navy," he said, his eyes sparkling.

Comrades from other posts attended the installation. Miss Addie Chapin, daughter of a deceased member, was installed as secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. Lillian Craske Leavitt was installed as president of the woman's relief corps.

BELLE TIRES SO OF THESE VISITS BY DRY AGENTS

Miss Livingstone Talks of Leaving Gotham.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Belle Livingstone, founder and chairman of the greens committee of the "58th Street Country club"—the place with nineteen nineteenth holes—threatened this afternoon to leave New York flat for Paris or Chicago or "some other civilized place" if dry agents kept on snooping about her literary oasis.

The prohibition agents have been crowding Belle, there is no getting around it, for this morning she found herself in a police station cell for the third time in almost as many months. Being an old campaigner she remembered to take a silken pillow and a downy coverlet from her bedroom before she went for her ride, and all in all it might have been worse. A United States commissioner held her in $5,000 bail for a further hearing. Five of her employés also were held in $1,000 bail each.

Bring Sleuths from Chicago.

It was necessary to bring in prohibition sleuths from Chicago to get Belle this morning and take it from the hostess herself, it was a "dirty trick."

Miss Livingstone's "country club" is in a brownstone house where earnest thirsts from south and east of Central park are catered to in an ambitious manner. The raid this morning really was started last December when a prohibition agent assumed the name of "Donald Wright" and wrote Belle a letter from Chicago in which he stated he wanted to come to New York and meet the right people. He asked for membership in the "club" and offered the proper credentials. "Mr. Wright" showed up the other day bringing with him another big spender, "George H. Hanover, Troy trolley magnate."

Pinch After 16 Highballs.

According to the cash register, "Mr. Wright" and his companion were just draining their sixteenth highball this morning when they decided to pull a pinch. The "Chicago spender" arose and announced the place was in the process of being sloughed and advised the 100 more or less honest drinkers to beat it. They did.

Simultaneously with "Mr. Wright's" edict eight other agents, also attired evening clothes, arrived. A buzzer buzzed in the Livingstone private quarters where the Belle of Bohemia was relaxing in a pair of red pajamas. Belle made for the roof, but let her tell it:

"I escaped over the roof, but, like Lot's wife, I turned to look back. But, instead of being turned into a pillar of salt, I was turned into the patrol wagon."

In court today Belle confessed the John Laws never would have got her if she had not happened to remember the night air might give her influenza.

Brushes Up on Vernacular.

"Those agents were pretty good at chasing women. One of the two looking around the place said, 'What'll we do with the Janes?' Now, I ask you, what are Janes?"

"Don't you really know?" some one asked Miss Livingstone?

"Cross my heart and die, I don't, honey."

"Well, Janes is slang for girls."

"Is that so? Well, that's nothing to call a woman of my age I'd quit this town for Paris, but no one can say Belle Livingstone is a quitter. I'm so permanent I'm thinking of having my name carved over that nice, airy cell they always give me. This is a grand way to keep from growing old."

"Suppose they convict you and send you to prison?"

"Well, I'd have lots of time then to finish my book—"'With Livingstone in Darkest America.'"

NAB EX-CONVICTS AS AUTO THIEVES; CAR IS WRECKED

Two men who broke into a garage and stole an automobile were captured last night after a chase by a Warren avenue flivver squad. The prisoners are Joseph Wiley, 24 years old, 3418 5th avenue, on parole from the Chester asylum for the criminal insane, and William McCarthy, 22, 2032 Washington boulevard, a former inmate of Pontiac reformatory.

Policemen George Berg and James Keating saw the pair backing out of an alley in 5th avenue, and then sped away on the policemen's commands to halt. A dozen shots were fired by the pursuers, and the chase finally ended at Homan avenue and Adams street when the fugitives crashed their machine into a vacant building. Wiley was seized as he fled on foot. McCarthy was arrested at his home later.

CLARA BOW HAS WEEPY DEBUT AS ROBBED WOMAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 13—[Special]—Tender telegrams addressed to Clara Bow by three of her most recent admirers became a part of the evidence admitted today in the trial of Clara's former secretary, Daisy De Boe, accused of using the famous "It" girl's bank account as her own to the tune of some $16,000.

The telegrams were placed in evidence before Superior Judge William Doran and a middle aged mixed jury, while Clara was on the stand as the prosecution's ace witness.

The telegrams to Clara were addressed by Dr. Earl Pearson, Texas physician; Harry Richman, New York entertainer, and Rex Bell, movie cowboy. Deputy District Attorney David Clark, in introducing the telegrams, said the prosecution intended to prove that other articles than clothes and money—presumably love messages—were filched from Clara by Daisy.

Clara's Acting Effective?

Miss Bow put a lot of histrionics into her appearance as a witness. She crossed and uncrossed knees, proving that short skirts are still the court room mode for Hollywood actresses with pretty legs; she dabbed at her face with a tiny handkerchief; she glowered at Daisy; she coughed weakly and looked wilted; she sniffed smelling salts; she flared out at Daisy's attorney and she beamed at times at a crowded court room, which beamed right back. At one time, Clara interrupted the prosecutor to chill Daisy with the remark: "That's right, Daisy, go ahead and sneer."

The actress was on the stand nearly all day. She identified checks which, she said, were drawn on the "Clara Bow special account," but made out by Daisy, not herself.

"Daisy was the only one allowed, besides me, to draw on that account and she was permitted to draw for one thing only, and that was her weekly salary of $75," Miss Bow declared.

Checks and a Motor Car.

The state then introduced checks and through the witness secured the assertion that Miss DeBoe had drawn on the special account for $16,000, many times the amount of her salary. Some of the checks indicated that Miss DeBoe bought herself clothes, an automobile and even drew on Clara's account to deposit money in her own account. Miss Bow identified thirty-seven checks as unauthorized. The state had filled an entire corner of the room with fur coats, gowns, lingerie, jewelry and other feminine finery, which, it is charged, Miss DeBoe obtained by misuse of the Bow bank account, and from time to time Clara was called on to identify the various articles.

The temperamental star had a particularly intense fit of sobbing when she identified a silver toilet set presented the actress by her secretary, although paid for, it is charged, with Miss Bow's money.

"She gave it to me for my birthday," sobbed Clara, "and I thought she was being sweet and kind to me."

The testimony of bank officials cast some light on what a movie star spends. The amount checked out of the Clara Bow account in two years was $199,907.

On cross-examination Nathan Freedman, Miss DeBoe's attorney, compelled Clara to admit that several checks amounting to over $500 had gone for the purchase of liquor for Clara's home.

Rex Bell, Clara's current sweetheart, came to court with her. The bailiffs allowed Rex to take his ten gallon hat into the courtroom, but made him take off his spurs and leave them outside on the grounds they were deadly weapons.

TO CLARA, FROM THE BOYS

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Telegrams alleged to have been stolen from Clara Bow by Daisy De Boe, her former secretary now on trial for larceny, were made public in court today. They were identified as coming from Harry Richman, New York entertainer; Dr. Earl Pearson, Texas physician, and Rex Ball, movie cowboy. They follow:

"Hollywood, Oct. 18, 1929.

"To Clara Bow, San Francisco.

"Be a good girl and don't stay out too late with the boys. All Frisco is not large enough for my love.

"HARRY."

"New York, Jan. 1, 1930.

"Lake Tahoe, Sept. 8, 1930.

"Dear Sweetheart Darling Baby, I do miss you, and this is only a beginning now to the New York trip.

"REX."

"New York, Nov. 20, 1929.

"To Clara Bow, Swan Lodge Hospital.—Grief stricken by message. In harbor twelve hours before landing. Received your wire this instant. Rest well, darling, have nurse. Keep me informed. EARL."

"Boston, April 7, 1929.—An elegant gift like you, none other superior. Love and loneliness. EARL."

"New York, March 31, 1929.—Swiftly my love flies back to you, my own sweet darling. EARL."

"October 21, 1929, Los Angeles.—To Clara Bow, San Francisco: Dear darling, sweet to hear word from you. Homestead not same. Steam room won't steam since you left. I love you, I love you, I love you.

"HARRY."

GIRL KIDNAPED, HELD PRISONER AND ATTACKED

The story of a 16 year old girl that she was kidnaped by two men Monday afternoon, held prisoner for twenty-four hours in their room at 29 South Aberdeen street, and raped resulted in the arrest early this morning of Louis Belli, 28 years old, as one of the abductors. Arrest of the second man is expected.

An hour after her release the girl, Dorothy Syx, 658 West Grand avenue, notified police of her imprisonment. Detectives William Kennedy and Frank Walsh of the Des Plaines street station secreted themselves at the Aberdeen street address, and shortly after midnight their vigil ended when they seized Belli as he entered his room. He denied the girl's charges, but she identified him and he was held.

VATICAN ORGAN WARNS PUBLIC TO SNUB ART EXHIBIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 13.—The Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, tonight warns Catholics to stay away from the quadrennial art exposition which Premier Mussolini opened last week.

The Osservatore Romano declares that the nude statues and paintings found in every room of the exhibit, and the daring way in which certain figures are handled and the unorthodox treatment of religious themes, make the show a danger to any one's morals.

The editorial is so strongly worded that it is belived here to mark the beginning of a campaign to veil the nudity of innumerable works of art in the Roman galleries.

RANDOLPH 8500 WINNETKA 160—NO TOLL

ACTION NEAR ON DRY REPEAL AND REMAPPING BILL

Assembly Will Get Both This Week.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Reapportionment and state prohibition repealer measures are ready for launching this week before the legislature which returns tomorrow. Representative Thomas J. O'Grady of Chicago plans to offer in the house as bill No. 1 a bill repealing the Illinois search and seizure act. It has been twice passed by the house in the last two sessions and has twice been stopped by the senate. The program is to press action upon it at the earliest possible date after committees have been appointed and the assembly settles down to business.

The main battle is expected to come in the senate, which for years has been politically dry, and in view of the two to one referendum vote in November for repeal and the Democratic landslide on top of it on a wet platform the Association Opposed to Prohibition holds that the repealer has votes enough in prospect to pass.

Drys Concentrate on Senate.

The Anti-Saloon league is preparing to concentrate on the senate. At its semi-annual meeting today the Rev. George B. Safford, state superintendent, told his audience that he was confident that "friends of prohibition" are in a majority in the senate. The drys discussed plans to put on a dry demonstration in Springfield on the eve of the legislature's voting on any repeal bill, but took no definite action.

The McDermott repealer is No. 1 on the senate calendar. It is the same as the O'Grady bill which the house in past sessions has voted for twice.

The battle over remapping the state into legislative and congressional districts is due to get into action with a resolution from Senator Tom Courtney instructing the legislative reference bureau to map out a tentative plan of new districts based on the 1930 census. Courtney plans to introduce it Thursday morning and press it to a vote the next week.

Census Figures Show Inequalities.

Final revised census figures on Illinois counties received today emphasize the lopsidedness of the districts due to the growth and shifts of population. The figures which were sent on by J. E. Vesely, director of business research of the Chicago Association of Commerce, show the following:

Sixty-two of Illinois' 102 counties have less population than ten years ago.

Fifty-six counties have less population than thirty years ago when the present districts were formed, and when Illinois had a population of 4,821,550. It is now 7,630,654. But the districts are the same.

Downstate regions of rapid growth are shown to be restricted in representation as is Cook county. In the East St. Louis district 157,715 residents have one senator and three representatives. In the Mattoon district 73,101 residents have a senator and three house members.

The home district of Gov. Emmerson, who last week in his message to the legislature suggested limiting Cook county in the assembly, is slipping. It has been diminishing for thirty years. The final figures show the Mount Vernon senatorial district in 1930 had a population of 77,026, one of the four smallest in the state. Ten years ago it had 81,360. Thirty years ago, when the present districts were fashioned, it had 92,310 population.

Will Be Basis for Argument.

Indications are that this fading of the governor's home district, as against great growths elsewhere—as in the Alton district, which grew from 80,772 thirty years ago to 158,236 at present—will be dwelt upon with emphasis when the argument starts against the administration plan to limit suffrage in the legislative branch of government.

An idea of the distortion prevailing in the downstate districts, let alone Cook county, which, with 52 per cent of the population, has only 19 of the 51 senatorial districts, may be gained from the following table:

41—Joliet	202,730
50—Cairo	170,581
47—Alton	158,236
49—East St. Louis	157,775
8—Waukegan	154,544
45—Springfield	145,973
10—Rockford	146,491
34—Mattoon	73,101
32—Monmouth	75,494
16—Pontiac	76,142
46—Mount Vernon	77,026
12—Freeport	78,732
51—Metropolis	82,375
26—Bloomington	88,606

Nowhere downstate is the disparity better illustrated than in the adjoining 50th and 51st districts, in the toe of the state. In the 51st a resident of Metropolis or Golconda has twice as much voice at Springfield as in the 50th is given a resident of Cairo or Mound City, a few miles down the Ohio river.

3,065 PEOPLE TRY SUICIDE IN VIENNA AND 1,019 SUCCEED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Jan. 13.—Three thousand and sixty-five people attempted suicide in this once gay capital and 1,019 succeeded during 1930, according to the annual "suicide report" issued by the chief of police tonight.

There were more attempts by women than by men, but 603 men succeeded, whereas only 416 women were successful. The chief of police attributes this "to the hysterical way in which the women attempt suicide, only slightly injuring themselves," whereas the males do the job thoroughly.

Despair born of the hopelessness in trying to earn their bread and butter in this topsy-turvy post-war capital is the cause of most of the Viennese suicides. Many belonged to the old upper class.

J. E. Wood, Vaudeville Magician, Shoots Himself

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 13.—(AP)—J. E. Wood, 56, for many years a magician on vaudeville circuits, was found shot to death in his garage here today. He had been despondent for several weeks.

PARK OFFICIAL BACKS MICHIGAN AVE. LIGHT PLAN

Weege Urges Progressive Traffic Signals.

H. Otto Weege, general superintendent of Lincoln park, yesterday expressed the opinion that progressive traffic signal lights on Michigan avenue between Oak and 22d streets would reduce materially the time required by traffic in covering the distance between the two points. The present traffic signals are synchronized and they are operated under three jurisdictions, Lincoln park, the city, and the south parks.

The Chicago Association of Commerce, the Chicago Motor club, and other civic bodies have urged the installation of a coördinated system of progressive lights to expedite traffic. They assert that under the present system traffic is held up every few blocks by stop lights and that under the progressive system traffic could proceed over the entire distance without meeting a red light.

Sees Benefit to Traffic.

"I and our electrical department are reasonably certain that progressive lights would expedite traffic," Mr. Weege said, "and if the merits claimed by the exponents of the progressive system are true motorists would be served greatly by its installation. The Lincoln Park board is anxious to help traffic wherever possible and if the cost of installing a progressive system is not too great I am sure it will be willing to coöperate in putting it in operation."

Success in Cleveland.

From Cleveland comes information that progressive control lights have been found highly satisfactory there. Progressive lights are in operation on Carnegie avenue, Cleveland's main traffic artery, between East 22d street and East 107th street. This avenue has six lanes and during rush hours four lanes are used by motorists going to or from work.

The Cleveland lights have been set to permit a speed of 35 miles an hour. Vehicles traveling less than 35 miles an hour must remain in the lane nearest the curb. Prior to the installation of the lights the Carnegie avenue speed limit was 25 miles an hour and motorists had to stop frequently at cross streets.

Coming to Chicago

MRS. AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN.

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Lady Chamberlain, wife of Sir Austen Chamberlain, British statesman, arrived today on the liner Aquitania, accompanied by her son, Joseph A., a lieutenant in the Coldstream guards. After a visit in New York they will go to Philadelphia and Chicago before returning to England.

Mr. Coit Is Given Every Chance to Hit the Hay

J. Clarke Coit, president of the United States Radio and Television company, has often expressed his desire to sleep in the hay in memory of his boyhood days on the farm. Yesterday Coit and Wheeler Sammons, president of the Utah Radio Products company, left for New York on a business trip. Sammons reached the train first. When Coit arrived his stateroom resembled a stable with great piles of hay on the bed and a huge bale standing in the corner. Coit said, "I can hardly restrain myself until bedtime."

EXONERATED IN WIFE'S DEATH.

Thomas Sage, 46 years old, who had been charged with manslaughter as a result of the death of his wife, Anna, 33 years old, in their home at 64 West Erie street, following a New Year's drinking party, was exonerated yesterday by a coroner's jury. The jury found she died from natural causes.

MAYOR AND CHIEF GUILTY OF RUM LAW EXTORTION

Mayor Joseph Muczunski and Chief of Police Stefan Znuda, both of Phœnix, in the southern part of the county, were convicted of extortion last night by a jury before Judge Joseph Burke of the Criminal court. They were accused of exacting $200 from two men on threats of prosecution for alleged violation of the liquor law.

The complainants are Daniel Paladino of Phœnix and Thomas Mauzhaiotis of Park Ridge, president of the General Fruit Packing corporation, 715 South Halsted street. They charged that they were arrested June 22 last, when Mauzhaiotis sold Paladino 20 barrels of frozen grapes.

Paladino and Mauzhaiotis were told by Mayor Muczunski and Chief Znuda, they testified, that they could buy their release for $200. The alternative, they were advised, was prosecution on prohibition charges. Mauzhaiotis and Paladino refused, obtained release on bail, and notified the state's attorney's office. They were advised to complete the negotiations. They did so, paying $200 in marked bills which were found in the Phœnix officials' possession.

PROMISE MADE BY SMALL BASIS OF PAROLE PLEA

Board Asked to Release Young Perry.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Ira D. Perry, Chicago draftsman, appeared before the pardon board here this afternoon and charged former Gov. Small and three of his associates with breaking faith on a promise to secure the release of Ira D. Perry Jr. from Joliet penitentiary, where he is now serving a life sentence for murder. The father asked the board to fulfill that promise.

Young Perry's case became notorious five years ago when it became known that Small had commuted his charge to manslaughter and that the youth had been paroled. Perry went back to prison and the Illinois Supreme court ruled the commutation was illegal.

Tells of Promises Made.

This afternoon Perry Sr. told the pardon board that Werner W. Schroeder, Small's attorney; Chauncey H. Jenkins, former director of public welfare, and Will Colvin, ex-parole chief, all had promised him before his son went back behind the bars that he would be released again "in three or four months." Later on, he said, Small promised he would free young Perry—this conversation taking place just four days before the former governor went out of office.

He also revealed that Colvin is still on the state pay roll, serving as an assistant commerce commissioner at $5,000 a year salary.

"This case," began the elder Perry, "has become a political football started by newspapers when Chicago was in the midst of a crime wave." Perry was indicted for the murder of William Schaller, Chicago jeweler slain during a holdup in February, 1921.

Sentenced to Life Term.

The father employed the late Charles Erbstein as defense counsel and was advised by him to have the boy plead guilty, Erbstein claiming that he had bargained with the state's attorney's office for a sentence of fourteen years. The plea was entered, the lawyer not being present, and Judge McKinley gave young Perry a life sentence. The father said today that his son was not guilty of the murder and that he had consented to the admission only because he had been told that an alleged accomplice, Harold Sullivan, was about to turn state's evidence. Sullivan was given twenty years, and later died in Joliet. Speaking of the parole, Perry said, "The newspapers of Chicago cast reflections upon the officers in power and they did not hesitate to crucify the boy. They were out to get Small but one penny of graft was spent in this case."

Perry paid the late Charles Mansfield, Springfield lawyer, $3,100 of a $3,500 fee to present his son's case to the Small pardon board, he said. Colvin advised him to retain Mansfield, he claimed. In all the father has spent about $10,000 in the case, he told the board.

Durkin Evidence Started.

Late in the day a start was made in presenting evidence designed to secure clemency for Martin J. Durkin, now in Joliet for killing a government agent, Edward C. Shanahan. William C. Rotchford, Chicago attorney, presented Harlow George of Chicago in an attempt to show that the agent fired upon Durkin first. This was ruled out because the board cannot hear new evidence until the state's attorney is present.

VICTIM'S WIDOW PROTESTS.

A telegram was sent yesterday to the state board of pardons and paroles at Springfield from the widow of Edward C. Shanahan, federal agent, who was fatally shot by Martin J. Durkin, urging the board to give no clemency to Durkin.

The widow, who remarried a year ago, and is Mrs. Louise Lavine of 12526 South Western avenue, said yesterday that the short notice she was given of the hearing and the illness of her son Dennis would prevent her appearance at Springfield. The boy is a son by her first marriage. He will be 6 years old today.

DROP GUN CHARGE AGAINST MORAN IN LAKE COUNTY

George "Bugs" Moran, north side hoodlum, yesterday was freed of the last criminal charge pending against him in Lake county. The charge of gun toting was dismissed in the County court at Waukegan on motion of State's Attorney A. V. Smith, because the prosecutor feared he could not obtain a conviction.

The charge was based on the finding of a small revolver in a dresser of Moran's room in a resort in Bluff Lake, near Antioch, when he was seized as a vagrant. Moran was acquitted of vagrancy. Meanwhile, Moran and his wife are seen daily at Bluff Lake and Antioch, and reports are that the gangster plans to establish a laundry at the latter town.

HEIRESS FOUND ASLEEP AFTER KIDNAP SCARE

Hunt Starts When She's Missing from Home.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The whim of a 13 year old Denver heiress today started a state-wide hunt for her, but eight hours after she had mysteriously disappeared from the home of her millionaire parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Boyd Humphreys, she was found sleeping in the servants' quarters at the home of family friends.

The girl, Alice Lucille Humphreys, had left a note on her bed saying she had not been kidnaped, asking her mother not to worry, and saying she did not know when she would return.

Because the child's father less than a month ago had received an anonymous letter containing a threat to kidnap the girl, authorities were notified immediately and her description was broadcast to every city in Colorado.

Tonight the girl was unable to explain why she left home except to say she felt lonely, was worried and unhappy, and wanted to get away.

Attired in overalls, a polo shirt and light slippers, the girl walked several miles to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Lawrence, where servants, unable to learn her identity, put her to bed.

A tearful reunion between daughter and mother brought out that Alice, frightened after she had set out in the dark without a destination, feared to turn back "because I had written that note."

Her grandfather, the late Col. A. E. Humphreys, made and lost fortunes in oil development projects. From the Mexia and Worthan fields of Texas he took more than $23,000,000. He was prominent in the development of the Big Muddy oil field of Wyoming also, and at his death three years ago left a large fortune.

Smash Windows, Loot Two No. Shore Jewelry Stores

Window smashers looted two jewelry stores on the north shore yesterday. The first was Silvey's jewelry shop at 12 North Genesee street, Waukegan, where they stole 31 watches valued at $1,100. The next was the store of I. H. Nemeroff, 392 Central avenue, Highland Park. Ten rings, valued at $600, were taken.

Meeting of Shochtim Is Guarded by Police

Two hundred members of the Shochtim, the organization of kosher poultry killers, whose former officers were ousted a week ago on orders of the Chicago rabbinate in an effort to stop racketeering, held their first meeting under the new régime yesterday. Fifteen policemen were stationed in the Labor Lyceum at Ogden and Kedzie avenues as a result of reports that Joe Etkins, ousted business manager, was going to have himself reëlected with the aid of gunmen, but Etkins did not appear.

SEIZED ON JEWELER'S CHARGE.

The One Woman in the World Who Never Grew Old

Is On the Air Wednesday Telling Exactly How She Does It!

Famous Stage Star Who at Over 60 Has the Face and Figure of a Girl, to Broadcast Her Basic Secrets to American Women Over N.B.C. Blue Network in Special Youth Matinees—Next Appearance Wednesday, January 14th.

DO YOU ever wonder whether you're not beginning to look your age? A bit "middle-aged", perhaps, in the way you walk, the way your skin acts; in the broadness of your hips, of one of several other obvious ways? Well, then, here's your chance.

Edna Wallace Hopper is finally going to tell American women how she does it. And so that she can accommodate her vast audience, has chosen the radio to do it, where the crowd won't be too great. One time she attempted to do it at a San Francisco theatre, and then had to call the police to handle the crowd. 10,000 women tried to jam into the theatre that afternoon.

At over sixty she looks like a girl. Her skin is as unwrinkled and youthful as the average woman of 25. Her figure that of a girl of 16. When she walks down the streets of Paris or New York, boys of college age frequently try to flirt with her. At something past 60, she recently returned to America to present the difficult technique of the acrobatic adagio to American theatre-goers with her partner, Fernand Grip, famous dancer of the Casino de Paris.

To Tell Women 2 Basic Secrets Wednesday on Air

Now—on Wednesday, Jan. 14th at 3:00 P. M. Eastern Standard Time, 2:00 P. M. Central Standard Time, 1:00 P. M. Mountain Time and 12:00 Noon Pacific Time, Miss Hopper will broadcast the exact ways and means she uses from the roof of the famous New Amsterdam Theatre, New York City; under the auspices of the Affiliated Super-Features of the Air.

In this talk Miss Hopper will tell you simple ways to end two universal problems of women. (1) How to eliminate age lines and wrinkles from the face. (2) How to lose that "middle-aged walk" most women past 25 reveal to advertise their age to the world. Remember the date and time and tune in.

Introduction by William Morris, Famous Theatrical Figure and Head of Morris Theatrical Agency, New York.

Program sponsored by AFFILIATED SUPER-FEATURES OF THE AIR.

Strange But True

The two pictures below of Miss Hopper were taken exactly 31 years apart. No question, surely, whether or not she has found the secret of youth!

But They'll Disappear, He Tells U. of I. Parley.

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Surpluses, now the bane of the American farmer, will be wiped out within 25 years by forces now at work, after which crop acreages probably will be increased in order to care for the increasing population.

Dr. O. E. Baker, a senior agricultural economist in the federal bureau of agricultural economics, told this today in a speech before the thirty-third annual farm and home week at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. Registration during the second day reached a total of 1,350.

"Renewed expansion in crop acreage may not take place if there is a great increase in the use of fertilizers," Dr. Baker said. "There has been very little increase in total crop acreage or acre yield since the world war, while the amount of crop feed and pasturage has remained about stationary for 15 years.

Motor Age to Blame.

"The agricultural surpluses which have developed despite an increased population have resulted almost wholly from the large amount of feed released by the decline in horses and mules, from increasing production of meat and milk per unit of feed consumed, and as a result of shifts from the less productive crops and classes of farm animals toward the more productive.

"For at least the next ten and possibly twenty-five years, all four of these factors are likely to exert an influence. However, the saturation point in the use of automobiles apparently has been reached, and shifts from the less productive toward the more productive crops and farm animals are diminishing.

It seems probable, therefore, that the increasing population will require some increase in crop acreage unless a great increase should occur in the use of fertilizers.

"Soil resources of the United States are being depleted rapidly, and many millions of acres of land formerly cultivated are being abandoned, largely because of erosion. On the other hand, fertilizers and crop rotations, including use of legumes, can restore the elements of fertility lost by crop removal and leaching. Furthermore, there is much low grade land, now in pasture or forest, that can be cultivated to replace the land lost by erosion.

Means Increase in Costs.

"This depletion of resources, however, tends to increase the cost of production. The loss by soil erosion, particularly, will cause serious local and even regional declines in agricultural production and income. This will be accompanied, doubtless, by increases in production and income in other parts of the nation."

BRITAIN WON'T LET ISLAND "KING" PUT HIS PICTURE ON COINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Martin Coles Harman, self-styled sovereign of tiny Lundy island in the Bristol channel, lost his appeal in the King's Bench division today against a fine of $25 and costs for striking coins for what he terms his own private dominion. The island is 15 miles off the Cornish coast and belongs to Harman. Its residents do not pay taxes or experience any other rule but his.

Harman vigorously attacked the jurisdiction of the court which denied his plea to lay his case before King George and loyally accept his decision. The copper coins bearing a picture of a puffin bird on one side and Harman's likeness on the other are valued at one and two cents.

"Lundy is a self-governing dominion," Harman argued. "I am the sovereign and responsible for its law and order. I put down disorder with a heavy hand. My army is six feet four inches tall and weighs 352 pounds."

Red Cross Board Elects G. E. Scott as Member

Stresses Need of Relief in Drought Areas.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—President Hoover today issued an appeal to the public for contributions to the Red Cross $10,000,000 fund for relief in the drought stricken areas. The appeal follows:

"There must be a very material increase in the resources of the American Red Cross to enable it to bear the burden which it has undertaken in the drought area and smaller communities over twenty-one states during this winter. Within the last ten days the Red Cross has had to increase the rate of expenditures to an amount greater than during the entire preceding four months.

Ten Million Is Needed.

"The American Red Cross is the nation's sole agency for relief in such a crisis; it is meeting the demand and must continue to do so during the remainder of the winter.

"The disaster reserve of the Red Cross which was pledged to this emergency last August is not sufficient to meet the increased demand. It is imperative, in the view of the experienced directors of the Red Cross, that a minimum of at least $10,000,000 be contributed to carry the relief program to completion.

Urges Prompt Response.

"The familiarity of this situation, due to months of press reports of its progress, should not blind us to the fact that it is an acute emergency nor dull our active sympathies toward our fellow countrymen who are in actual want and in many cases will lack the bare necessities of life unless they are provided for.

"As President of the United States and as president of the American Red Cross, I therefore appeal to our people to contribute promptly and most generously in order that the suffering of thousands of our fellow countrymen may be prevented. I am doing so with supreme confidence that in the face of this great humanitarian need your response will be immediate."

Cities Also Feel Drought.

In making public his appeal President Hoover pointed out that the problem in the drought areas is connected with the general depression. Not only have the farmers been hit by the drought of the past season but the cities and villages in the agricultural area have felt the reaction of both the business depression and the drought.

Assurance was given by the President that the Red Cross and the department of agriculture will coöperate in administering relief work, the latter having authority over drought loans for seed and fertilizer authorized by congress.

5,000 MORE LICENSED AIR PILOTS IN 1930 THAN IN YEAR 1929

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—There were 5,065 more licensed airplane pilots, 1,369 more mechanics and 669 more planes in the United States at the close of last year than at its beginning.

Figures revealing a year's growth in aviation were published today by the commerce department, showing the totals on Jan. 1, 1931, to have been 15,280 pilots, 8,993 mechanics and 7,354 planes.

A total of 385 women held pilots' licensed and five were included in the group of licensed mechanics.

Police Here Seeking Band of Indiana Cattle Thieves

Meat stolen on the hoof at Huntington, Ind., by a band of up to date rustlers was the object of a police search here last night. Four live steers were stolen from the farm of Lloyd Jones, loaded on a motor truck taken from Jacob Liens, and driven toward Chicago.

COMPANIES AID SURVEY TO CUT NUMBER OF CABS

Representatives of taxicab companies and of independent drivers yesterday agreed to coöperate with a council subcommittee in a survey to determine if the number of cabs operating in the loop can be reduced and a fair return be assured the companies and the drivers.

"Cab drivers tell me that they are barely making a living," said Ald. Joseph H. Smith [32d], who introduced a resolution in the council calling for a study of the plan advanced by Mayor Walker of New York about a year ago. "The reason lies in the large number of cabs operating in Chicago, which are also responsible for the traffic congestion in the loop."

The aldermen were informed by Benjamin Samuels, vice president of the Yellow Cab company, that the commission appointed by Mayor Walker had made recommendations that the taxicab business be stabilized but that no action had been taken.

HOUSE UPHOLDS HOOVER AGAINST LOANS FOR FOOD

Expect Senate to Agree on Drought Relief.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—President Hoover's position in opposition to food loans to drought sufferers was sustained today by the house in a decisive vote. A motion by Representative James V. McClintic [Dem., Okla.] to instruct conferees to accept the senate amendment adding $15,000,000 for food loans to the $45,000,000 appropriated in a house bill for loans for seed, feed, and fertilizer in the drought area was rejected on a roll call by a vote of 134 to 215, with one recorded as present.

The action was regarded as definitely indicating that the present congress, with its large administration majority in the house to nullify radical measures of the senate, will refuse to sanction the invasion by the federal government of the field of relief occupied by the Red Cross.

Expect Senate to Accept.

Conferees on the drought loan appropriation were appointed by the house and later by the senate. The conferees met late today and announced a disagreement, due to the unwillingness of the senate conferees to abandon the senate food loan amendment without further instructions from the senate. The senate conferees will report the disagreement to the senate tomorrow, and there may be further controversy, but in the end the senate is expected to accept the bill in the form approved by the house. When an agreement is reached funds will become available for the drought loans authorized by legislation enacted before the holidays as part of the President's relief program.

Action in the house was taken after a lively fight, in which the administration forces held complete control at all times. Several roll calls were forced by the opposition, but the anti-administration group was unable to win many Republican votes.

Fifteen Republicans Switch.

In the roll call on the McClintic motion to instruct conferees to accept the senate amendment fifteen Republicans voted with the Democrats for the motion, while eleven Democrats voted with the Republicans against it. The fifteen Republicans deserting the administration were Representatives H. A. Cooper, James A. Frear, Hubert H. Peavey, John C. Shafer, Merlin Hull, and George J. Schneider [Wis.]; Victor Christgau [Minn.], J. H. Sinclair [N. D.], W. P. Lambertson and Charles I. Sparks [Kas.]; U. S. Stone [Okla.], J. D. Craddock, Charles Finley, and E. R. Langley [Ky.], and Guy E. Campbell [Pa.]. Representative P. J. Kvale [Farmer-Labor, Minn.] also voted for the motion.

Representative McClintic offered his motion after a motion by Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] to instruct the conferees to accept the senate amendment after eliminating all restrictions as to occupation and geographical area, thus making the food loans available to residents of the cities as well as to farmers, was ruled out of order as not germane.

Referred Under Special Rule.

Both the McClintic and La Guardia motions followed action by the house sending the bill to conference under a special rule, which ended the deadlock of the last week caused by objections to unanimous consent requests for this method of adjusting differences in the senate and house bills.

Representatives A. J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] and La Guardia advocated a broadening of the senate amendment to provide relief for residents of the large cities.

"Political arrogance" had held up the drought relief appropriation, Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.] charged on the senate floor, breaking in on the debate over the tariff commission nominations.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart [Ia.], Republican insurgent, interrupted to suggest that the appropriation for food loans could be made up by increasing tax rates.

Senate Confirms Brossard on Tariff Board; Radicals Split

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The radical Republican-Democratic coalition suffered from an epidemic of backsliding among its membership today, and the senate confirmed the nomination of Edgar B. Brossard of Utah to be a member of the tariff commission by a vote of 45 to 36.

Three members of the radical block—Senators Howell [Neb.], Norbeck [S. D.], and Schall [Minn.]—normally to be found aligned against the administration, and eight Democrats voted with the regular Republicans for confirmation. Even Senator William E. Borah [Idaho], usually at the head of the radical phalanx, though not voting, was paired in the affirmative.

No Opposition to Dixon.

Following the Brossard vote Lincoln Dixon of Indiana, the sixth and last member of the commission, was confirmed without opposition.

Brossard's name, because of his alleged part in advocating a high tariff during the controversy over sugar in 1924, experienced the most tempestuous voyage. He and his record furnished a target for vigorous attacks by Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader, and David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.], and a topic for painstaking speeches of defense by Senators Samuel M. Shortridge [Rep., Cal.] and Thomas D. Schall [Minn.], radical Republican.

Robinson Assails Brossard.

"The manner in which the tariff commission was operating was so disappointing," Senator Robinson said, "that a reorganization was brought about a few months ago on the theory that the commission was incompetent and that some commissioners were saving special interests rather than the public interest. Improper appointments were at the bottom of the controversies, not to say scandals, which marked the commission's service. The testimony shows that Brossard was not impartial and that he must take his share of the blame for the breakdown of the old commission."

Senator Schall's defense declared Brossard a just man and a man of integrity, a friend of the farming interests. In a lengthy speech Senator Shortridge voiced the cause of a high protective tariff, and said Mr. Brossard's views made him the sort of commissioner the country needed.

Just before the vote was taken Senator Walsh jumped into the debate with a fiery denunciation of those who criticized anti-administration senators for their opposition to appointees.

Serve Public Interest.

"Any person who is not aware that two political philosophies are combating each other is not aware of the true political situation," he shouted. "The issue is the control of the so-called predatory interests. On the one hand are the ultraconservatives whose political philosophy is based on the protection of private property and property rights. On the other are those who deem it their first duty to serve the public interest and to curb the greedy, self-seeking predatory interests.

"No man believing in a liberal government can vote for an appointee to a commission who by environment and political philosophy is hostile to the public interest. This is not a case of attacking the President; it is a controversy between two political schools, one of whom favors vested power and the other the rights of the common man, who asks nothing from the government except to be let alone."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

FIGHT OPENS ON $11,000,000 DRY BILL IN HOUSE

Wets Oppose Plan for 500 More Agents.

of $1,614,260 is for 688 new employés, 500 of whom will be prohibition agents.

Representative Tinkham in his minority report pointed out that there are 2,638 employés in the prohibition bureau as against 738 employés in the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, whose work covers all federal crimes except prohibition. He added that Director Woodcock stated under cross-examination "that he had not sufficient time to explain why this discrepancy in the personnel of the two bureaus should exist."

Mr. Tinkham, in assailing the move for an increase in the number of prohibition agents, enumerated a dozen different reasons which have caused the dismissal of agents during the last six months. This was the basis for his charge that the addition of 500 more agents will make for more corruption.

"In the appropriation bill for the department of justice for 1932 $20,-$10,728 is requested for the judiciary, an increase of $8,787,271, or about 75 per cent, over the corresponding appropriation of $11,723,457 for 1921," said Mr. Tinkham in continuing his discussion of prohibition enforcement.

$10,000,000 Due to Dry Law.

"It was estimated by the general agent of the department of justice that about 50 per cent of the appropriation requested for the judiciary, or about $10,000,000, was due to prohibition.

"On Dec. 1, 1930, the number of federal prisoners in federal and state institutions was 26,469, 49 per cent of whom had been sentenced for violations of the liquor laws. In 1921 the number of prisoners in federal institutions was 4,296. The number of federal prisoners in state and county institutions in 1921 is said to be unascertainable.

"Many of the prisoners sentenced for violations of the liquor laws, deprived of their liberty for acts to which is attached no moral turpitude, stamped with criminality, with their futures wrecked, are martyrs to the present maniacal, ecclesiatical domination of government as truly as were those who suffered under the Spanish inquisition martyrs to the ecclesiastical fanaticism of their day.

"From the above figures it is obvious that any addition to the prohibition enforcement force not only increases the appropriation for the bureau of prohibition but also will increase automatically the appropriations for the federal judiciary and for the maintenance of federal prisoners.

Some Additional Expenses.

"In addition to the appropriations for the department of justice for prohibition there are also very large sums for the coast guard, the bureau of industrial alcohol, and the customs service of the federal government and large expenditure under state and local governments, the past and future totals of which no attempt has been made to enumerate or predict.

"The only conclusion to be drawn from these facts is that ultimately a large segment of the American people will have become prisoners under federal and state prohibition laws and that enforcement of prohibition constitutes a bottomless pit for government expenditures."

Commenting on various forms of expenditure of prohibition bureau funds, Representative Tinkham criticized the use of money for the purchase of liquor and other unlawful acts. Of an item of $316,500 for special and miscellaneous expenses Mr. Tinkham said that $250,000 is for the purchase of liquor and other incidental expenses in obtaining evidence.

Fund to Finance Crime, He Says.

"This fund, assessed upon the taxpayers of the country, constitutes a federal slush fund for the commission of crime," said Mr. Tinkham. "It is a scandalous and indefensible expenditure."

Dealing with a $50,000 item for dissemination of information, Mr. Tinkham said that publications issued by the prohibition bureau have been filled with "false and misleading statements."

"Prohibition is a political question," said Mr. Tinkham. "It was one of the principal issues in 1930 and it now appears that it will become the principal issue upon which the next President and the next congress will be elected. Propaganda for such a political issue should certainly not be paid from money derived from all the taxpayers. Such expenditures are improper, unprincipled, and indefensible. A proviso should be added to the bill forbidding the expenditure of any money for political purposes."

Denounces Wire Tapping.

Mr. Tinkham advocated insertion of a proviso in the bill prohibiting the use of funds for wire tapping, which he said is "another example of the debasing and perverting influence of prohibition upon ethical and normal conduct."

Attorney General Mitchell, in his testimony before the appropriations subcommittee, said that at least 500 more prohibition agents are needed in addition to the 1,500 employed at present. He said that 500 new agents would be as many as could be trained and absorbed in the force during a year.

Representative Tinkham asked Mr. Mitchell if he had noted the fact that the states of Massachusetts, Illinois, and Rhode Island indicated in the last election a probable intention of repealing state enforcement acts and whether this would not mean that even more prohibition agents would be needed.

"There is no question but what the attitude of the state, if it declines to take any share of the burden, makes it more difficult," replied Mr. Mitchell, who went on to explain enforcement problems. He said: "We do not want so many federal agents that they tumble over themselves and trip on one another."

Tinkham Aks Him Another.

Mr. Tinkham asked the attorney general if he thought that in a country "which contains 122 million people, in a territory which includes 3,000,000 square miles, 2,000 men will fall all over themselves in the enforcement of this law."

"I do not take an attitude one way or another about that," said Mr. Mitchell. "I have not felt called upon to delve into that field, because it becomes hypothetical from the fact we cannot use more than that number to advantage in the near future. What is the use of crossing bridges until you come to them?".

Mr. Mitchell said he was trying to refrain from expressing opinions as to the controversial phases of prohibition.

"I approach this thing from the standpoint that the laws are on the books and it is the duty of the department of justice to use reasonable means and make reasonable requests for a force to enforce them," he said. "I think if congress wants to modify these laws it will go at it as a direct modification. I have not assumed congress will leave the laws on the books and scuttle them by refusing to furnish the money to make reasonable efforts to enforce them.

"I have never openly entered into any controversial field about prohibition, if I could avoid it. I think it would impair my usefulness as head of my department if I got into a discussion of these controversial matters. I do not think I ought to do it, and I will ask the committee to excuse me from going into things I really think are not relevant to the question of what is reasonably needed to make a bona fide effort under existing statutes."

Representative Tinkham persisted in asking whether "prohibition would seem to be effective and the enforcement efficient."

"I will take the position that it is not a matter that is relevant to the matter of appropriations and that I do not feel that I ought to enter into a public discussion of it under these conditions," answered Mr. Mitchell. "At a proper time and place, if a question of that kind were submitted to me, I would feel obliged to discuss it, although I doubt very much whether my opinion would change anybody's on the subject."

Mr. Tinkham vainly sought to obtain the attorney general's views on the sale of grape concentrate by a company which is represented by Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition cases.

Woodcock Questioned.

Prohibition Director Woodcock was questioned by Mr. Tinkham as to prohibition enforcement methods. Mr. Woodcock defended wire tapping as a means of gaining evidence. He said that he did not think that law violators had any right to use telephone and telegraph wires with impunity.

Mr. Woodcock said, in reply to a question, that he would be willing to have a proviso inserted to prohibit the use of funds for the payment of "stool pigeons."

"I personally do not believe in this type of enforcement, but I yielded my judgment to the men who have been actually doing the work," said Mr. Woodcock. "I do not think it is right for me to set up a theoretical judgment as opposed to that."

Mr. Woodcock furnished a statement showing that 140 of what he called "special employés," but which were referred to by Mr. Tinkham as "stool pigeons," had been employed from July 1 to Oct. 31, 1930, and paid a total of $36,036. Of these ten in the Chicago district received a total of $2,027.

80 OF 500 NEW U. S. DRY AGENTS WOULD BE SENT TO CHICAGO AREA

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—This is how Prohibition Director Woodcock proposes to distribute the 500 additional prohibition agents provided by the justice department appropriation bill for the next fiscal year:

New England states, 20.
New York, 90.
Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware, 70.
Maryland, District of Columbia, the two Virginias, and the two Carolinas, 40.

Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, 40.
Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana, 80.

Utah, Colorado, Arizona, and New Mexico, 15.
Washington, Oregon, Idaho, and Montana, 20.
California, Nevada, and Hawaii, 20.

This addition would bring the force to 1,900 agents on July 1, 1931.

ASKS MICHIGAN TO LEGALIZE BEER AND WINE

Resolution Cites Need of Change in Dry Law.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Representative Walter Brady of Detroit tonight introduced in the state legislature a joint resolution designed to legalize the manufacture and sale of 3.75 per cent beer and light wines in Michigan.

The resolution cites the present economic situation, the need for a new revenue source to relieve the tax burden and meet a large state deficit, to stimulate agriculture and to quiet the spirit of unrest in the state's populous industrial centers as justifications for a more liberal interpretation of the eighteenth amendment.

Under the resolution's provisions, a restricted number of individuals and corporations would be allowed to manufacture and sell beer and light wines which would be construed as "non" intoxicating under the terms of the prohibition amendment. A tax of 50 cents a barrel would be collected by the state on all beer so manufactured and of $1 a case on all beer sold. The state levy on wines would be 1 cent a quart for manufacture and 5 cents a quart on sales.

The governor would be empowered, under the measure's terms, to appoint a special commission to work out details of the plan for control of the traffic in beverages thus legalized.

Synakiewicz of Blue Island. Five girls arrested in the place were fined $25 and costs each and 15 men $1 each. The raid was conducted by the state's attorney's office.

ADVOCATES "OPEN REBELLION" AGAINST THE 18TH AMENDMENT

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Samuel Fordyce, attorney and president of the St. Louis Industrial club, addressing members of the Missouri branch of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, today advocated "open rebellion" against the eighteenth amendment.

"Some say we should live up to the law while it is a law," he said, "but in my opinion that attitude has no foundation. Does its presence in the statute books make it right? I cannot believe it does. Personally, I have been guilty of violating it, an action of which I am proud. I openly defy it; flout it in every way; I encourage open rebellion against it."

MEASURE TO REVISE COPYRIGHT LAW IS APPROVED BY HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The house today overwhelmingly approved the Vestal bill to revise the copyright laws. The eight year old proposal now goes to the senate.

A vote of 185 to 34 ended the long dispute over this first redraft of copyright laws since 1909. It followed an exchange on the floor between party leaders over a Republican charge that the Democrats filibustered against the measure yesterday.

The bill provides United States membership in the International Copyright union, now including about 40 other nations, and confers automatic and exclusive right to copy upon producers of creative work, with divisible copyright salable for separate uses of the product.

Representative Garner, the Democratic leader, called for an explanation from Representative Tilson, Republican, Connecticut, of a statement off the floor that the minority was conducting "an adroit, cleverly concealed filibuster."

"I thought it was rather cleverly concealed," retorted Republican Leader Tilson.

"If it constitutes a filibuster for the gentleman from Mississippi, Representative Busby, to oppose the bill as he did yesterday," Garner came back, "or if it constitutes a filibuster for the gentleman from Texas, Representative Lanham, to try to promote this legislation, then we certainly had a filibuster."

Tilson complained of repeated Democratic calls for a quorum, asserting "the facts in regard to the presence of a quorum fully justify all I said."

GIRL, 13, KILLED IN UNLIGHTED LA SALLE BLOCK

Pinio Kontos, 13 years old, 731 North Wells street, was killed last night when struck by a hit and run motorist while crossing an unlighted section of the newly widened La Salle street. The girl's body was found in the street in front of 740 North La Salle street. A broken piece of a radiator cap stained with blood was found beside the body.

According to the police more than ten persons have been struck while crossing La Salle street between Chicago avenue and Division street. The street was recently widened and the street lights have not been replaced. Several of the pedestrians have died of their injuries, the police said.

Fire Chief Finds Body.

The body of the Kontos girl was found by Fire Chief Jeremiah McCauliffe of truck company No. 3, who was driving with his spotlight turned on the pavement. The girl was taken to the Henrotin hospital where she was pronounced dead.

This death and two others raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 59. The victims:

Robert Cahn, 75 years old, 814 East 42d street. Died at the Chicago hospital of injuries received last Sunday when struck by an automobile at Drexel boulevard and 41st street. The driver was Mrs. Laura Rogers, 1651 East 67th street.

Eugene Wright, 77 years old, 444 West 71st street. Died at the county hospital of injuries received on Sunday when struck by a hit and run motorist at Normal avenue and 71st street.

Mrs. Minnie M. Taglin, 45 years old, 3316 Warren boulevard, was struck last night by an automobile while crossing the street in front of her home. The driver summoned a physician and together they took the woman to the Garfield Park hospital.

While the physician was attending the woman the motorist left without leaving his name. Two hours later he returned and identified himself as Martin Sheehan, 6348 South Francisco avenue, a stationary engineer.

GOVERNOR WILL SIFT LYNCHING OF NEGRO RAPIST IN MISSOURI

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Inquiry by Gov. Caulfield and other state officials into the lynching of Raymond Gunn, Negro, confessed rapist and slayer of a 19 year old teacher, at Maryville Monday got under way tonight.

Adjt. Gen. A. V. Adams, who was at Maryville with a National Guard company, awaiting a call from Sheriff Harve England, where the lynching occurred, returned to Jefferson City late today and conferred with the governor. Gov. Caulfield asked him to make a written report, which probably will be ready tomorrow.

Gov. Caulfield said Adams confirmed reports from Maryville that he had conferred with Sheriff England prior to Monday and it had been agreed the National Guard troops should remain in the armory and the sheriff would call them if they were needed. No call for the troops was received.

The house of representatives today refused to entertain a resolution condemning the lynching and Nodaway county officials for not resisting the mob more stoutly.

Representative William Job of Nodaway county was loudly applauded when he spoke against the resolution.

Moneypenny Issues His Annual Statement.

Arrests for crime are on the increase among the younger element within Cook county, according to the annual report issued yesterday by Warden David Moneypenny of the county jail. The report discloses that the groups classified at under 21 years of age and between 21 and 30 years of age showed a market increase, while the older groups showed a decrease.

The jail handled more prisoners last year than in the previous period, and the entire increase was shown among the younger groups. The prisoners passing through the jail in 1929 numbered 13,014 as compared with 13,726 for the year of 1930. A tabulation of the prison population for 1930, according to groups, follows:

	White Males.	Colored Males.	White Females.	Colored Females.
Under 21 years	2,199	604	94	80
21 to 30 years	3,505	1,314	290	287
31 to 40 years	2,121	760	158	138
41 to 50 years	1,093	307	61	37
Over 50 years	448	106	20	14

The total number of prisoners in the under 21 years of age group for 1930 is 3,067 as against 2,734 in the preceding year, an increase of 333. In the 21 to 30 year age class a rise of 515 is shown by comparison of 5,396 in 1930 as against 4,881 in 1929, while the 31 to 40 year group showed a decrease from 3,205 in 1929 to 3,177 in 1930. The 41 to 50 year group showed a drop of from 1,509 to 1,498, while the over 50 year group dropped from 685 to 588.

Executions Show Increase.

Actual carrying out of the death penalty showed an increase in the last year as compared with 1929. During 1930 the electric chair was put in operation against six murderers as compared with only two executions in 1929.

Prisoners held for crimes of violence also showed a slight increase during the last year, with the exception of murder. During 1930 only 201 accused murderers were held prisoners as compared with 213 during 1929. The report discloses that 1,502 prisoners charged with robbery were held in jail in 1930 as compared with 1,320 in the previous year; those charged with burglary showed an increase from 1,270 in 1929 to 1,385 in 1930, and larceny suspects jumped from 2,469 in 1929 to 2,663 in 1930.

The number of prisoners held for rape showed a decrease from 345 in 1929 to 317 in 1930.

Jail More Gun Toters.

The concerted drive of Judge John H. Lyle, State's Attorney Swanson, and Chief Justice John P. McGoorty against gun toting hoodlums is reflected in the jail report. The statistics show that 306 gun toters were jailed in 1930, as compared with 171 during 1929.

Another charge which showed a decided increase in prisoners was that of false pretenses, which jumped from 84 in 1929 to 254 in 1930. The jail authorities say this is due to the unemployment situation and shows that some of the unemployed—hard pressed for money—have resorted to passing bogus checks. They pointed out, however, that crimes of violence have not shown the increase predicted by some as a result of unemployment.

FLAVOR OF FLAVORS! THAT'S WHAT HILLS BROS COFFEE BRINGS YOU EVERY TIME BECAUSE IT IS THE ONLY COFFEE ROASTED BY THE PATENTED, CONTINUOUS PROCESS—CONTROLLED ROASTING.

Evenly . . . continuously . . . a few pounds at a time—that's Controlled Roasting.

Notice how closely this exact process agrees with your rule in cooking. When you prepare foods in small quantities you control every step and achieve flavor, consistency and texture that never could be secured if you cooked "in bulk."

When you open a can of Hills Bros. Coffee it is as rich in fragrance and appetizing flavor as when it came from the roasters. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of the vacuum can in which Hills Bros. Coffee is packed. Coffee packed in ordinary tins, even if air-tight, does not stay fresh. Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

EIGHT SCHOOL TRUSTEES RIDE FREE IN AUTOS

$30,340 Is Provided for Cars in 1931 Budget.

An item in the $96,799,000 school board budget which calls for the expenditure in 1931 of $30,340 for chauffeurs and the maintenance of automobiles for eight members of the board was not changed by the finance committe during its week of secret sessions over the budget.

In seeking to keep the 1931 appropriations under $100,000,000, the trustees suggested reducing to $50 a month all automobile allowances in excess of that amount that are being drawn by employés who use their own cars in their work.

The budget makers granted $75,000 for the hiring of additional elementary school teachers to relieve overcrowded classes. Superintendent William J. Bogan had said that $300,000 was the minimum which would effectively relieve overcrowded conditions.

Free Autos for Eight.

It was learned yesterday from records in the business manager's office that eight of the eleven trustees are furnished the free use of an automobile and a chauffeur apiece throughout the year. The chief activity of the trustees is confined to the 10 months of the year that classes are in session.

Each chauffeur is paid $2,400 a year. A monthly expense of $27.50 for each automobile is incurred for garage space at the North Loop Motoramp garage, 78 West Lake street, and for another garage, either near the home or place of business of each trustee. About $2,000 is paid yearly for gas, oil, tires, and other supplies for the eight cars and $6,500 is allowed annually for repairing them.

Two Cars Recently Purchased.

Two of the cars were recently purchased at a combined cost of $4,264. They are assigned to Boleslaw Koslowski, recently appointed trustee, and James A. Hemingway. The other automobiles, of expensive makes, are assigned to Joseph P. Savage, law partner of former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe; H. Wallace Caldwell, former board president; Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, the only Democratic trustee; Walter H. Brandenburg, John A. English, and Oscar Durante.

Superintendent Bogan is also furnished a car, the expenses for which are $2,400 annually for the chauffeur's salary, $600 a year for repairs and supplies, and $27.50 a month for rent in two garages. Lewis E. Myers, president of the board, and Trustees William D. McJunkin and Carter H. Blatchford drive their own cars and do not draw allowances.

Prof. Nelson B. Henry of the University of Chicago, chairman of the school superintendents' advisory council, who helped to formulate the program of educational expansion which was whittled from $300,000 to $75,000, said yesterday:

"I cannot understand why the trustees could not use less expensive cars. I think they should have cars which are reasonably comfortable and adequate, but the item for the maintenance of trustees' cars alone is of too forbidding proportions."

Details Are Still Secret.

Harry H. Brackett, school auditor, said yesterday that the recommendations of the board's finance committee, of which Mr. Hemingway is chairman, would not be made public in detail until the budget is submitted for final approval by the board.

Auditor Brackett pointed out that no time should be lost in passing the budget, because a $2,140,000 pay roll must be met on Feb. 1. An enabling ordinance for the school budget must be passed by the city council at the same time that similar action is taken on the city budget, which already has been presented to the council. The school board's treasury contains enough money to meet the next pay roll, which is due tomorrow, Brackett said.

NEW LABOR BILL CURBS POWER OF MEXICAN UNIONS

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—The provisions of the new Mexican labor law bill, for discussion of which congress was called into special session, were revealed here today. The bill, if passed, would reform the labor laws drastically and take from the labor unions the great power they exercised during the administrations of Alvaro Obregon, Plutarco E. Calles, and Portes Gil.

Labor then dictated who should be employed and who not, and frequently in what capacity, allowing no nonunion men to work. Labor then decreed holidays when they were convenient. The new labor bill declares only three legal holidays yearly—Labor day on May 1, Independence day on Sept. 16, and Christmas.

May Hire Nonunion Labor.

The new bill provides that only in cases of agreement with the employer may the labor unions require the employment of union members only. The bill effectively ends the contention of labor that union members may work only under a collective contract.

The bill also kills the contention of labor leaders that labor shall share in the profits of all business. This contention was backed by Luis Morones when he was minister of labor, and was enforced upon concerns employing numerous laborers in several Mexican states, notably Puebla and Vera Cruz.

In effect, the bill has made illegal any pressure by the unions to force employers of labor to sign collective contracts and employ inefficient laborers merely because they are members of the unions.

Discipline for Workers.

The bill provides that laborers are entitled to one day off each week, but only three additional days each year. Under the old law laborers reported for work when it was convenient and left when they pleased, without the employers having any power to discipline them. The new bill provides that employers may fine laborers for coming late, for the loss of time and for spoiled work up to 30 per cent of their salaries.

More than 75 per cent of the clauses in favor of labor contained in a bill presented by former President Portes Gil, which congress refused to pass as a whole, have been thrown out of the new bill, which consists of only 309 articles.

GAS relieved

WHAT most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. Food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention, it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate with no harmful after-effects.

Once you learn this perfect way you'll never deal in any other manner with the headaches, gas, bloating, nausea, dizziness, indigestion, biliousness, etc., due to an over-acid stomach and bowels.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips'. It is always a liquid; never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips on the bottle. All drug-stores—25c and 50c.

wet feet breed SORE THROAT

reduces mouth germs 98%

WET feet, sudden changes of temperature, over-exposure, fatigue, all are predisposing causes of colds, grippe, sore throat and kindred infections.

They weaken body resistance so that germs in the mouth get the upper hand.

Reduces mouth germs 98%

As an aid in guarding against these troubles, medical authorities recommend the morning and night gargle with full strength Listerine, the safe, healing antiseptic and germicide.*

Listerine actually reduces germs in the mouth 98%. Kills them by millions, outright! Repeated tests following the methods used at famous universities and laboratories of international repute prove its amazing germicidal power.

Gargle every 2 hours

Under ordinary conditions of health, the night and morning gargle is sufficient. But when you feel a cold or sore throat coming, or are already in the grip of either, increase the frequency of the gargle. Every two hours, authorities urge. Hold the liquid in the mouth as long as possible so that it reaches germ-ridden surfaces.

Gargle every 2 hours

Such frequent gargling aids your body, weakened by the cold or sore throat, to overcome millions of disease-producing organisms in the oral cavity.

Intelligent men and women everywhere use Listerine as both a precaution against and a treatment for colds, sore throat and allied infections. Keep a bottle handy in home and office and use it at the first symptom of trouble. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U.S.A.

*Listerine, though safe and healing in action, is one of the most active germicides known. It kills even Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) in counts ranging to 200,000,000 in 15 seconds (fastest killing time accurately recorded).

GOOD FELLOWS MEET COLD WITH GIFT RESPONSE

Weather Increases the Woes of Needy.

With the freezing weather continuing, bringing added suffering to families made destitute by the temporary employment slump, Good Fellows hastened their gifts to THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow fund yesterday.

Most of the checks received were installments of pledges made by Good Fellow clubs and individuals, but many were contributions from new Good Fellows to help along in the maintenance of a family through the severe months of the winter.

One check was for $600, representing the third monthly installment from one large Good Fellow club. Another gift of $200 came with the notation, "To help people in need." The girls of a small firm sent $1.25 "to be used as you wish." This will be used with other small gifts to complete the monthly budget of a needy family. A group of girls in Oak Park sent $2.75 for United Charities case No. 45.

The accompanying coupon may be used in mailing your contribution to the Good Fellow fund. Every cent contributed goes to needy families who have been investigated and found worthy by the United Charities, the Catholic Charities, the Jewish Social Service bureau, and the Salvation Army. THE TRIBUNE pays all administration costs. Your gift will help tide a family over until it can regain financial footing.

WOMAN POISONER OF HUSBAND DIES ON THE GALLOWS

SZOLNOK, Hungary, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Marie Kardos, the first woman to be hanged in Hungary in many years, went to the gallows today for the murder last year of her husband and her 22 year old son. Seventy persons watched the execution at dawn.

The woman had lost all the composure which had remained with her during the period of her imprisonment, and she was on the verge of collapse when she was led from her cell to the scaffold.

Frau Kardos was one of forty women who were tried together last spring and summer after their husbands and other relatives had died mysteriously of poison. Most of the crimes were traced to an old woman called "Aunt Susie," who, it was established, incited most of the murders.

CHANGE OF VENUE GRANTED IN GARY GIN DEATH TRIAL

Virgil Kirkland, former Gary football player, was granted a change of venue yesterday when arraigned with four co-defendants before Judge Martin Smith at Crown Point, Ind., on charges of murder in the death of Arlene Draves, 18 years old, at a gin party in Gary on Nov. 30.

The others—Leon Stanford, Henry Shirk, Paul Barton, and David Thompson, at whose home the party was held—were given separate trials. No dates for their trials were set. Kirkland's case was assigned to Judge Grant Crumpacker of Valparaiso.

WOMEN LAWYERS GIVE UP BANQUET TO HELP NEEDY

For 16 years the principal social event of the Women's Bar Association of Illinois has been the annual banquet. This year, however, the affair will not take place. A committee of the association, meeting last night in the City Hall square, decided that the money ordinarily spent on a banquet to entertain celebrities of the bar and the bench will be used this year to care for needy families.

The money will be raised, according to Miss Helen M. Cirese, president of the association, by a charity card party to be held at the Chicago Bar association rooms, 160 North La Salle street, on the evening of Jan. 24. The bench and the bar of Illinois have been invited to attend.

Members of the charity committee include Mary G. Kelly, chairman; Zita J. Stone, Anna D. Johnson, Elizabeth Buchhalter, Elsa Beck, Irene V. McCormick, Bess Sullivan Heptig, Beatrice Hayes Podell, and others.

Dean Thomas Arkle Clark Will Leave Hospital Today

Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of men at the University of Illinois, today will leave the Presbyterian hospital, where he has undergone two major operations since he was admitted last Nov. 25. Dean Clark, who is 68 years old, has been under the care of Dr. Edwin M. Miller, a member of the hospital staff.

Does Your Automobile Insurance Policy Say What YOU Think It Does?

Most motorists believe that if their car should be burned or stolen, their insurance company will pay them the amount stated in the policy. The fact is, however, that the amount named in the policy is a valuation used to determine the cost of the insurance, the rate for fire and theft insurance being a certain price per hundred dollars of valuation.

The policy says that in the event of a total loss you will receive an amount not to exceed the actual loss sustained, the settlement to be agreed upon by you and the adjuster for the insurance company. If you fail to agree, the claim will be arbitrated. This is the usual policy, which is known in the insurance world as the "non valued" form.

Then there is the "valued form" policy. Under the terms of this policy you are paid the face value of the policy, the amount on which you have paid premium, should you suffer a total loss.

The Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club issues a VALUED FORM POLICY.

This policy also covers loss of spare tires and accessories, without additional charge.

Subscribers who have claims deal directly with the home office. There is no delay in waiting for authorization for payment of a claim. Red tape forms no part of the organization. It is not necessary for the motorist insured with the "exchange" to wait for the decision of a "higher up" in a far distant city. Home office service makes for speedy settlements.

During 1930 the Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club sold automobile insurance amounting to $3,989,791.62, which is more than any other company, stock, mutual or reciprocal, writes in Illinois. During the year the "exchange" returned cash savings to subscribers amounting to $798,030.12. This service, as well as other services rendered, is available only to members of the club. The policy issued covers you anywhere in the United States or Canada.

Other services of the club are: Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night, home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed; accident prevention work which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering schoolboy patrols; travel service, which provides you with maps, logs, and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions; and bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases, where a bond not in excess of one hundred dollars is demanded.

AMERICAN RELIEF.

The appeal of the President for ten million dollars for Red Cross work for relief in the drought stricken districts will not, we think, fail of prompt response. The American people have always responded quickly and generously to similar appeals on behalf of people overwhelmed by calamities of one kind or another either at home or abroad. Millions of lives have been saved in Russia and in China, in Belgium and other war stricken European countries, to speak only of the greater ventures in relief, and our own people will not find their countrymen wanting.

In Arkansas, as Mr. Kinsley's articles vividly reveal, and in other agricultural districts which have felt the effects of the prolonged drought, intensified by other misfortunes such as the boll weevil in the cotton fields, the failure of banks and business depression, there is need apparently beyond local resources to supply. There is a demand upon the federal government for money for food and other necessities, but these needs should be supplied by the private agencies for which the President is asking funds. Certain general financial conditions, if clearly established, may justify federal aid, but the relief of individual suffering for lack of food is a matter to be reached by private giving and by nonpolitical agencies.

This is the American method which avoids the evils inevitably attendant upon government—that is, political—action. The clamor for government money, which now includes a demand for relief for communities like New York, which are well able to supply their own needy, should not prevail. It is chiefly politics and a desire for self-advertisement. It ignores proper methods and if yielded to would set up vicious precedents. We are not communists and can meet our problems in the American way.

THE MINNESOTA GAG LAW.

Gov. Olson of Minnesota asks in his inaugural address for repeal of the statute providing for the suppression of newspapers as nuisances, the so called gag law. As attorney for Hennepin county, before his election to the governorship, Mr. Olson not merely prosecuted and suppressed two newspapers under this act but resisted the effort to have it declared unconstitutional and now reiterates his opinion that it is constitutional. As governor, however, he feels that he has a different status and declares that the possibilities for abuse make it an unwise law. He now asserts roundly that "the freedom of speech and the press should remain inviolate, and any law which constitutes an entering wedge into that inviolability is unsafe."

This is, of course, the essence of the contention against the constitutionality of the law. If the guaranty of freedom of speech and of the press does not prevent the enactment of laws which are easily abused—which, in fact, are certain to be abused—and are "entering wedges" into an inviolable right, it is no guaranty at all.

We can well understand why after the airing of this sinister legislation a demand for repeal should be successful. It was not creditable to the political foresight of Minnesota that it ever should have been put upon the statute books. The challenge of the law in the courts has had at least that desirable effect.

THE SNOOT-KICKERS' BUDGET.

The board of education's budget was prepared in secret by the finance committee, and now that the preliminary figures have been revealed the reason for secrecy is apparent. The job has been bungled.

The primary purpose of the public schools is to educate the children. That principle has not been overlooked by the finance committee; it has been deliberately flouted. With more than $96,000,000 to spend, the committee has found it possible to give only $63,700,000 to the educational fund, less than 66 per cent. In New York 77 per cent of the annual income of the school system is spent on education. The corresponding figure in ten cities of over 500,000 population is stated by educational authorities to be 77.3 per cent.

In Chicago the taxpayers pay more proportionately and the school children get less proportionately than they do in other large cities in the United States. The classes in our elementary schools are too large. Supt. Bogan and a group of distinguished educators who constituted his advisory board recommended the appropriation of an additional $300,000 for teachers. More teachers would have meant smaller classes. Even with the appropriation of $300,000 classes would have remained much too large, but at least a start would have been made in the right direction. All that the finance committee could find for the purpose was $75,000, a fourth of the desired increase. Mr. Bogan characterized the $75,000 as a "drop in the bucket," and he did not overstate the case.

No serious attempt seems to have been made to reduce fruitless overhead expenditures. Indeed, the committee seems to have given almost as much attention to a proposal to provide each member of the board with a secretary-investigator at $5,000 a year as to the demands of the educational system itself. This provision alone would add more than $60,000 to the budget. Fortunately it was not adopted, but neither has it been rejected. The author of this scheme is Mr. Joseph Savage, Mayor Thompson's appointee. He pleaded that he did not understand many of the matters upon which he was expected to vote, and he wanted some one to make investigations for him.

Mr. Savage's assumption seems to be that a man who is insufficiently informed on educational problems and has no time or inclination to study them has to accept appointment to the school board if it is offered to him. The fact is that a man in the position Mr. Savage describes ought never to have accepted the appointment, or, having accepted and having found himself unable to do his work conscientiously, he ought to resign.

It is precisely because the board is constituted as Mr. Savage says it is that the committee has prepared the budget under examination. A competent board would be ashamed of it.

FOR A BETTER COUNCIL.

The Municipal Voters' league can find only four aldermen who meet its standard of competence or character. While the judgments of the league are not infallible, and differ in this instance in some respects from our own, they are painstaking and conscientious and deserve the consideration of voters. The point of greatest moment in this report is not the exact validity of each judgment, but the fact the report emphasizes that our council represents a general level of competence and devotion to public interest much lower than it ought to be. We need better service in and from the council, more aldermen of ability, integrity and force.

This is a very serious consideration as we approach the mayoralty election. If the demoralizing régime now in control of the city hall is replaced by a better administration, the new mayor and his aids ought to have the support and cooperation of a better council. If the present city hall crowd is not thrown out or if it is replaced by another régime which, if better, as it can hardly fail to be, is not as competent and faithful to public duty as it ought to be, we need a better council to protect the city's right and interests.

The selection of aldermen should have the serious attention of voters.

SHOWING UP GENEVA.

Sugar producers the world over have come to an agreement on limitation of output for the next few years. The initiative in the negotiations was taken by Mr. Thomas L. Chadbourne of New York, representing American and Cuban sugar interests.

The fact should prove of interest to Americans who have been told repeatedly that formal international agencies like the league of nations and its world court offer the largest hope of effective international action. As America has not joined either of these organizations the conclusion is reached that America is shirking its duty to the world, whatever that may be.

As a matter of fact, we have in the international sugar cartel another instance of the effectiveness of conferences called for a particular purpose in contrast to the ineffectiveness of negotiations under the auspices of permanent organizations such as the league. The league has been trying for years, now, to bring about disarmament; its efforts have not resulted in the scrapping of a single cannon or the discharge of a single conscript. The league has been debating methods of controlling the trade in opiates and has achieved no tangible results, though it should be much easier to restrict opium manufacture than sugar manufacture. And so on. The league, far from encouraging a spirit of international good will, seems frequently to have the opposite effect. The sugar negotiations were entered upon in the hope that an agreement might be reached. Difficulties were encountered, but the will to overcome them triumphed. Negotiations at Geneva are conducted in the traditional atmosphere of European diplomacy, an atmosphere of grab, suspicion, traditional enmity, false pride and diplomatic hocus-pocus. The odds are as heavily in favor of the informal negotiations as they are against the formal ones.

Europe recognizes the impotence of the league. When Europe wishes to accomplish something it flees from league auspices, as it did in the organization of the international bank.

America outside the league can accomplish much, as Mr. Chadbourne, Mr. Traylor, Gen. Dawes, Mr. Young, and others have shown in bringing about international agreements. If we were in the league we should be impelled to use that agency of frustration for adjusting our international contracts with loss to ourselves and incidentally to the rest of the world. Professional altruists who are forever complaining that our potential influence for good in a wicked world is being dissipated because we will not go to Geneva might well consider how little the league has done and how much has been accomplished outside the league, largely through American efforts.

Editorial of the Day

ARRESTS AND CONVICTIONS IN CHICAGO.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

A record of 352,000 arrests and only 25,000 convictions in Chicago last year leads Acting Police Commissioner Alcock of that city to cast about for ways and means of reducing the number of so called "needless" arrests.

The situation, plainly enough, is one which may well inspire some official concern. The ratio of one conviction to every 14 arrests in Chicago, or anywhere else, can only indicate glaring structural weakness in the machinery of law enforcement, criminal apprehension and justice. There were apparently arrested in Chicago, over a period of 12 months, some 327,000 persons who were either innocent of any crime or misdemeanor or who could not, for one reason or another, be convicted where guilty. In either case, of course, there is suggested an unwholesome and thoroughly deplorable condition which is evidenced, to a greater or less extent, in every large city.

The failure to convict the guilty is only part of this unpleasant story; the other part may be found rooted in the almost childlike belief on the part of our officers of the law that police efficiency is in some mysterious way related to the volume of arrests. This belief leads, inevitably, to such an absurd state of affairs as now worries Mr. Alcock in Chicago. To say that more convictions and not fewer unnecessary arrests constitutes the only constructive and worth while approach to this situation is to take a much too superficial view of things. The truth of the matter probably is that the Chicago police department, in common with other police departments, looks upon the arrest as an end in itself, rather than a means to an end. The view is a pernicious one and its importance is not to be overlooked when a ratio of one conviction to every 14 arrests is to be accounted for.

KILLING OFF FLIES.

In the Canal Zone garbage and other waste is disposed of by dumping it on low ground. They select some area of swampy, mosquito breeding land within easy reach of the city and fill it with garbage and rubbish. This saves the expense of keeping the marsh oiled to prevent mosquito breeding. Incidentally, it makes new fills on which houses can be built eventually. This stone, having killed two birds, does not stop until it has annihilated the block. It is far cheaper than any other method of garbage disposal, it does not call for separation nor for long hauls. It does not breed flies nor attract rats. With this introduction, we proceed to the method.

All household waste is put into one container. There is a daily collection service. There is none of the insistence on a peculiar type of expensive wagon, about which we hear so much back home. Very gross rubbish, such as boxes, straw mattresses, and broken furniture, is not put in the garbage box, however. Such inflammable rubbish is burned. The garbage pile is well policed and managed. All dumping on a given date must be on a designated sector.

A dated sign shows the dates on which filling was done on a given sector. Trained men level the garbage. A man goes about shooting fly and rat repellent on to the garbage by means of a knapsack spray. This repellent consists of 8 parts crude oil, 1 part creosote, and 1 part kerosene. This mixture is cheap and it is very freely used. When the day's fill is completed it is covered with matting, oil cloth, cloth, and dry paper, all of which have been removed from the waste and set aside for the purpose.

This covering is to make the garbage inaccessible to flies, fly larvae, and to rats. It is then covered with six inches of dirt and that ends the matter. The garbage immediately begins to ferment and heat up. This kills off all fly eggs and larvæ. When Col. Siler and Dr. Curry were asked the secret of success with this method their reply was: "Competent supervision by trained men devoted to making a success of their work."

DIFFICULT BREATHING.

J. C. writes: I am incapacitated for my regular office work through chronic bronchitis and emphysema. I am 54 years old. I cough up mucus profusely day and night, have difficult breathing, and cramps at night. I become breathless after slight physical exertion of any kind. I am not tuberculous.

REPLY:

You are justified in trying to do something. Have you been examined for those organic diseases that sometimes cause asthma? Also for the other conditions which cause it? If these can be ruled out, consider change of climate. Where there are bronchiectatic cavities with asthma, operation should be considered.

PREVENTION OF CROUP.

Mrs. J. K. writes: My 4 year old child has croup all winter. She chokes and get black in the face. Several times we have thought she was dead. What can be done for her?

REPLY.

A full dose of sirup of ipecac will give temporary relief. Vomiting induced in any way accomplishes that purpose. A child subject to repeated attacks of croup has a spasmophilic diathesis. Back of that is rickets, and back of that is deficiency in vitamin D.

To prevent these attacks give your child viosterol or cod liver oil. Keep her in the open air and sunlight as much as possible. Harden her by cold baths and vigorous rubs.

USE DISCRETION.

M. W. writes: My father has had a break in his leg between his hip and knee. The cast was taken off two weeks ago and it is very stiff as yet. He cannot bend his knee. Will you kindly give me a remedy to help break the knee in once again?

REPLY.

PROTESTS DOCTOR BILL.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A doctor has threatened to sue me for $150 which I refuse to pay. Have already given him quite a large sum of money and feel that he has been very unfair with me. My only asset is a vacant lot here that is paid for. Can he take this through his attorneys? M. B.

If he brings suit the result will depend on whether you can prove that you have already paid him all that you owe him. If you fail to make such proof, he can secure a judgment under which your property could be sold. The amount that you owe him depends on what was said when you employed him, upon the nature of his services, upon whether there has been an expressed or implied agreement as to the amount due, and on other facts that are not before us.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

VALUES HIS IDEA.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.] — I know of an advertising scheme which could be copied by any one. It is not a design but more of a selling proposition. Is there any way that I can prevent others from using the same idea for advertising? L. S.

Ordinarily, business schemes cannot be protected by patent, copyright, or trade mark, but, since you have not given us your facts, it is possible that your idea may involve details which could be protected. In order to secure advice of any value you should disclose the full facts to a reliable patent attorney.

WIFE'S OWN PROPERTY.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A woman has property in her own name before marriage. 1. Has the husband any right to the wife's property? 2. If the husband and wife separate can the husband claim any part of the wife's property? M. W.

1. Yes, in the sense that in the absence of a divorce or of a conveyance joined in by the husband he would have an interest if he survived his wife. No, in the sense that he has no present right or control over the property.

2. The property allowance in case of divorce proceedings is largely discretionary with the divorce judge. Ordinarily the husband is not given a part of his wife's property unless there are exceptional equities.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

WE SET UP AN ALIBI.

Great Scott! We missed reading a grand book for a long time and we've just got hold of it. And while we've read only half of it so far—well, it's immense, that's all. The rest of you have probably read it, because we notice the inscription in the front records it's already gone to sixty-three editions. Doc Butcher probably talked about it a long time ago and it's been the rage over in England and a best seller here. But we declined to read it or read anything about it, because from the title, "The Story of San Michele," we thought it was another book about the war and we were fed up on war books. This here column conductor assisted materially in the capture of San Michele during the war, he alone and single-handed capturing a French etape, full of boocoo van rooge, and so "The Story of San Michele" meant but one thing to him. But it has nothing to do with the late guerre. It's everything else but that—autobiography, fancy, dogs, ghosts, women, men, Italy, France, Sweden, Germany, life, death, health, disease, love, despair; oh, so many things, and yet about none of them in particular. But you've all read it; no use in telling you. But for the benefit of the two or three people in Gary, Ind., who skipped the book because they thought, as we did, that it was another war book, we'll tell 'em to get the book right away. Why, the chapter about the Leichenbegleiter is simply priceless. We'd say more about "The Story of San Michele," but perhaps we'd better wait until we finish the book. Sometimes a book that starts out fine sort of wanders off and disappears in a swamp towards the end. But even at that the first half of this book is so well worth while that it really won't make much difference what happens to the second half.

SONGS FOR LYNN.

Surprise is a tap
Sure to turn sudden, bright lights on
In your eyes.

But I would be pharmacist indeed,
Could I mix elixir
Any sweeter, any neater,
Or more potent
Than your smile.

For that, if you please
Is a delicate, mystical, magical matter.

Slowly it distills itself . . .
Seven minims of something
From somewhere on your face,
Three ounces of joyance
From another secret place,
Spirits of frumenti
In a final nonsense measure,
And lo! The mixture is complete.

Lucky am I to drink that smile

LYNNETTE.

JOHNNY RASKOB writes an open faced letter indignantly denying the imputations that he is the owner of the Democratic party. Well, almost anybody might get sore at being accused of owning the Democratic party right now, but after 1932 maybe he'd be proud of it. Or if not the owner, at least the lessee and manager. One never can tell.

WE WERE BUYING an apple in the loop from a veteran. He stepped out to offer an apple to a man in a wealthy fur skin overcoat rushing towards an imported automobile that was waiting for him. "Git out of my way," yelled the well dressed gent. And some eleven or twelve years ago this very gent probably stood on the sidewalk as this veteran marched away to war and yelled, "March on, brave boys! Givem hell! We're right behind you!"

CLARA BOW is to appear as the chief witness in the trial of her former secretary at Loz Onglaize, and, gee, how she dreads it!

JOHN Q. TILSON, G. O. P. floor leader in congress, has procured a Connecticut auto license plate bearing the number Y-91 which tells all and sundry that he graduated from Yale in 1891. It would be a great help to the police if gangsters would adopt this pretty innovation and have their license plate stamped J-'21, or A-'18, or L-'24, and so on, depending, of course, whether they were students at Joliet, Atlanta, or Leavenworth, and the year they graduated.

GENERAL DELIVERY.

I wonder what's become of shy Raymonde,
The little girl I met in St. Nazaire;
I promised I would write her poste restante,
As soon as I got back from Over There.

I recollect a night, a crooked street,
When January rain dripped from the sky,
She seemed so much concerned about my feet—
I laughed because they never had been dry!

(For ships arrive as ships are wont to do);
And now I often wonder did she cry
Because I never kept our rendezvous?

A dozen years are gone, I don't know where,
And times there are I plan a little jaunt
To see if she is still in St. Nazaire—
And waiting for my letter poste restante!

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES yesterday voted down the $15,000,000 senate bill for a food loan to hungry farmers. A food shortage or famine in China or Armenia seems to draw more American sympathy and gold than they do when they're in Arkansas or Kentucky.

A BIG OPPORTUNITY FOR THE RIGHT MAN

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 14, 1915.

ROME.—Twelve thousand persons were killed by an earthquake which spread destruction throughout central Italy early this morning. The number injured is estimated at 20,000. In Rome itself the quake was the most severe in history. There was an immense amount of damage done to many of the most famous structures in the city, but the loss of life was small. The suburbs, however, suffered severely, and it was estimated that at least 100 persons were killed. At least a dozen towns in the central provinces are known to have been destroyed or greatly damaged. From below Naples in the south to Ferrera in the north, a distance of more than 300 miles, and across almost the entire width of the country the movement continued for a considerable period. The temblor was severe around the neighborhood of Naples and over the whole of the province of the Abruzzi, where dispatches say hundreds were killed and more hundreds injured. Many places have been cut off from communication with the capital. In Rome the famous column of Marcus Aurelius was broken and is in danger of falling. The Palazzo Chigi, the Farnese palace, and the Palazzo del Drago, occupied by the American ambassador, were damaged. The famous colonnade decorating St. Peter's square was lowered four feet. More than 160 windows in the dome of St. Peter's were broken. Many other churches were damaged.

WAR SUMMARY—Berlin reports that German artillery has compelled the allies to evacuate trenches near the Belgian coast in the neighborhood of Nieuport. According to Petrograd dispatches, the Russian army has resumed the offensive in East Prussia. Petrograd also reports that a Turkish advance force occupied Tabriz, Persia, after the Russians evacuated the city.

JANUARY 14, 1901.

LONDON. — Lord Kitchener telegraphed to the war office from Pretoria: "Three agents of the peace commissioners were taken as prisoners to De Wet's laager, near Lindley, on Jan. 10. One, who was a British subject, was flogged and then shot. The other two, burghers, were flogged by De Wet's orders." These commissioners are presumably the representatives of the Kroonstadt peace party, which has been working for a truce with the British and doing all in its power to urge the Boers to surrender.

CHICAGO. — Fire traps abound in every section of Chicago. The laws governing public safety are flagrantly violated and the men who are paid by the city to see that they are enforced draw their salaries and are inactive. The panic in the West 12th street Turner hall cost five lives.

CHICAGO.—"Fashion has set the seal of approval on the punchbowl and the wineglass, and as a result the drink habit is on the increase among women," declared Mrs. Lenora M. Lake in a temperance address at Father Mathew hall, Taylor and Miller streets. She also declared that "poker in some families has taken the place of evening prayers," and that women play the game and otherwise gamble for high stakes.

JANUARY 14, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The house committee on military affairs decided that Brig. Gen. E. O. C. Ord deserves to be placed upon the retired list of the army with the rank and pay of a major general, and that Gen. U. S. Grant does not deserve to be placed upon the same list with the rank and pay of a general.

CHICAGO.—Another old and highly respected citizen of Chicago has passed away. Oscar F. Avery died at his residence, 1350 Michigan avenue, at the age of 67 years. He came to Chicago in 1849 and was long engaged in the wholesale grocery business, being a member of the firms Reynolds, Ely & Co., Williams & Avery, Williams, Avery & Thompson, and Avery, Upham & Co.

CHICAGO.—Yesterday was a surprise in the matter of weather. In the morning the thermometer stood at 38 degrees above zero and at midnight it was 2 below. A heavy snow fell.

MORE SUPERVISORS.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Recent reports of meetings of the board of education show that a number of projects have been submitted to that body, the adoption of which will mean added expense to the taxpayers of Chicago. One is the appointment of additional assistant supervisors or instructors of music, art, and physical education; cost, $24,000.

As far back as I can remember Chicago schools—and I am not young—there have been supervisors in these two studies. Girls of this city who have taken the necessary training for teaching have had eight years of study in music and art under supervision in the elementary schools, four in the high school, and three in normal college, fifteen years in all. If that fifteen years of study does not fit them to teach these subjects, if these supervisors and their assistants are still necessary for the teaching of these two things, it is to be clearly seen that the efforts to teach music and art in Chicago have been a failure.

Supervisors are not appointed for other studies, such as arithmetic, reading, geography, history, spelling, physiology, etc. Why these two? Is not the supervisor or special teacher of music and art a hand down from that other day when the regular teacher had not the necessary training, a hand down that ought to have been abolished when the instruction in these studies became general?

I understand that the number of supervisors in these subjects at present is such that there can be only one visit to a teacher during a semester. Even if teachers should be incapable of teaching their own music and art, what benefit can be gained from that one visit?

As long as there is such a deplorable financial condition in Chicago that the minimum number of pupils per teacher is forty-five or forty-six, it seems that the money paid to these supervisors could be spent to better advantage for our children. TAXPAYER.

NOTES ON KANSAS.

Elkhorn, Wis., Jan. 9.—The TRIBUNE editorial, "From the Heart of Kansas," was a "corker" and handed me a big laugh. I have played all the toughest gun toting towns in America in the past fifty years. In 1907 I played four weeks at a new summer park in Kansas City, Kas. I was playing with J. P. Brooke's Chicago Marine band. All the band boys bought real beer by the case from the wagons that peddled and sold it on the street right in the open, same as the milk wagon. I will say this for Kansas: She has the rottenest whisky and gum sticking mud in the world, but her prohibition law is humbug and always was. ARTHUR H. RACKETT.

THE LINOLEUM RACKET.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—A man came to [illegible] door offering me a bargain in linoleum. He claimed he had just finished laying linoleum for a 12 apartment building and had this remnant left which would be large enough for my kitchen. He claimed the quality was superior to the laid linoleum, and was now being used in its stead in the finest apartments. He scraped some paint off the pattern to show me how fast the color would and offered to send a friend of his around working hours who would lay it for me for $2. On account of matching patterns he was allowed so much extra per foot, and due to his skill he was able to save this piece; therefore, the less gain.

He said he belonged to the union, gave me the local number, his number address and telephone number, all of which were false.

I paid $10 for this bargain which was supposed to be worth $25, and I'm sure I could buy it for $3 or $4. Now I have to pay too high a price to warm my having it laid.

I spoke to several of my friends who were fooled just as I have been. The men are working all through the [illegible] Too Easy.

POLITICAL JOBS IN THE SCHOOL SYSTEM.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—It may be of interest to your correspondent, J. R., to know that civil service jobs in the city schools are not the only ones under political control. The public school system, for instance, has long been a grazing ground for the janitor's job to the teacher's position. "friends" of politicians. Candidates for teaching positions pass the examinations given by the board of education and receive certificates, only to be left high and dry on the waiting list. Meanwhile "friends" of politicians, lacking the required qualifications and also the certificate, continue to occupy positions sometimes over a period of years. Last year some schools had as many as 40 of these appointees at one time. Recently some of them were removed, but others still remain. F. D. R.

VISITING SOUTH AMERICA.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8.—It has been a source of great pleasure to read your fine editorial "Visiting South America" in your Jan. 4 issue. The intelligent and understanding attitude inter-American acquaintanceship expressed therein is most commendable. Allow me to extend my heartiest congratulations to you for your good work in favor of Pan-American good will.

GUARD VETERINARIAN WITH GUNS WHILE HE VACCINATES CATTLE

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 13.—(AP)—While Louis Witte, stock raiser of Washington county, protected his cattle herd from tuberculin vaccination, under shelter of an injunction suit filed here last Friday, word was received today that in Randolph county cattle of six owners are being vaccinated by force of arms.

Sheriff J. C. Knott and a force of his deputies are traveling with the deputy state veterinarian on a tour of six objectors, and protecting him while the serum is administered. This move was taken, it was announced, to place Randolph county on the 100 per cent list.

of Chattanooga—has in mind a survey, or political analysis of the whole state structure upon which a reorganization could be built.

Discuss Outside "Audit."

For such a comprehensive audit, it is privately agreed by the leaders, they should be out of the state. It is "nationally known" auditors that are wanted, according to Ed H. Crump of Memphis, who is in Nashville to see that the investigation gets a good start, and, incidentally, to smooth out the feelings of any legislators who may have been hurt by the activities of the Shelbyites.

Although Speaker Scott Fitzhugh opposed a resolution for outside auditors, it was merely because he did not want it to go into the record that the committee must go outside that state. He is, however, prepared to go to Chicago or New York for the sort of help.

As to the lawyers, while Mr. Fitzhugh mentioned ironically that if Tennessee auditors could not be trusted, neither could Tennessee lawyers, no one has really proposed going beyond the state line for such guidance.

Mr. Crump says he is not going to "dictate" after this investigation gets under way.

"The state has a governor and a legislature elected by the people," he said. "It would be poor taste on my part to even presume to try to suggest or dictate how state affairs should be run."

He would, however, like to see a resolution passed giving the investigating committee the authority to "observe" publicly, as it goes along, so that it can offer remedial legislation to the lawmakers on the sidelines.

Plan Reorganization Bills.

Mr. Fitzhugh said that within a few days a bill will be introduced to amend the reorganization bill of 1923, under which the late Gov. Austin Peay built up his powerful machine.

This bill would give the senate power to confirm or reject all appointments of department heads made by the governor and would prevent the discharge of a department head except for good cause.

"It would prevent one man from controlling absolutely the state government," said the speaker.

The report of the department of finance and taxation, made Saturday, reveals that Tennessee faces a serious financial situation outside of the money tied up in the Caldwell and company banks. A deficit on June 30, 1931, of $5,842,271 is forecast in the report, on the basis of estimated receipts placed against the budget. The biennium, on the same basis of estimated receipts, will wind up with a deficit of $8,571,558.

Whether the legislature will trim the budget or adopt one of the income tax bills, or a sales bill, both of which the governor has disapproved in advance, remains to be seen.

STORE AND WATCHMAN ROBBED.

While one robber held up Charles Fried in his delicatessen early yesterday a companion waiting in an automobile surprised a watchman who saw the robbery and was going to Fried's aid. The watchman, Richard Bonness, 843 Altzeld street, was disarmed and forced into the store with Fried. The two men escaped with $312.

FLOOD MEETING HEARS REPLY TO RANDOLPH JAB

Speakers Deny 'Ballyhoo' Descriptions.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph's allusion to the flood control and waterways conference at the Congress hotel as "ballyhoo" to promote Mayor Thompson politically brought protests yesterday from those attending the second day's sessions of the conference.

Col. Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and chairman of the "secret six" committee against crime, in a speech before the annual meeting of the New Orleans Association of Commerce Monday, called the parley a political rally and remarked that "the ballyhoo is being tried out again, and if you little boys didn't fellow the parade it would be a complete flop."

Hold General Discussion.

Thompson led the attack on Col. Randolph. Others who spoke on the subject were Mayor Semmes Wamsley of New Orleans, and A. D. Danziger, representing Gov. Huey Long of Louisiana.

Representatives Riley J. Wilson [Dem., La.] and U. S. Guyer [Rep., Kas.] spoke at the morning session on flood control and waterway plans. In the afternoon State Representative T. J. O'Grady made a wet speech, after which Representative Frank R. Reid [Rep., Ill.], chairman of the house flood control committee, conducted a round table discussion.

Criticize Jadwin Control Plan.

New Orleans delegates held the floor most of the time during the open forum, each of them condemning the Jadwin plan for flood control and advocating amendment of the flood control act to make the government pay in full for land taken for spillways. They also urged speedier expenditure of funds for the work and further appropriations.

Approximately 600 persons attended the main session of the conference yesterday, a part of them city hall employés. Former Gov. Arthur Weaver of Nebraska was the only important arrival yesterday. He is to speak tomorrow.

Returns Contents of Purse Woman Lost Last Spring

Last spring Mrs. Richard Thomas, 427 West Erie street, lost her purse, and notified the Chicago avenue police. Yesterday an unidentified man tossed a purse on the desk sergeant's desk with the remark he had found it. Mrs. Thomas later identified trinkets and papers in the bag but said the purse was not hers. The police branded the case a first class mystery.

HERE'S LATEST IN UPLIFT; 2 CARS IN SINGLE SHAFT

Neither Elevator Can Hit the Other.

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Details of an elevator of the future—and present—operating two cars in the same shaft, were announced tonight by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company.

One elevator is express, the other local. Some new safety devices keep them from interfering while one serves the upper stories of a tall building and the other the lower floors.

"This elevator," said H. D. James, consulting engineer of the company, "which is known as a dual elevator, is the first actual installation of its kind. It has been built and installed in the company's main office building in East Pittsburgh."

The lower car runs from the basement to the half way height while the express runs from the ground floor to the top.

Three Safety Controls.

They have three separate safety controls to keep them apart. One which is wholly new, operates through their counterweights—the heavy objects which travel up and down shafts in the opposite direction from the elevators.

In the single shaft these weights are placed so that should the two cars start to collide the counterweights would bump first, thus using the elevator cables to pull backward and hold the cars apart.

There would be no great shock in the meeting of the counterweights, Mr. James said, because each one carries a bumper sufficient to slow down and cushion the impact.

Another safety device uses magnets which in effect cause each car to push a series of buttons at it travels. These make an electrical block system which automatically slows and stops the cars if they approach each other closer than two floors apart.

Last Line of Defense.

The third safety system employs steep tapes, one attached to each car. These operate gears which slow and stop the cars if they get too close. The entire system is set so that while one elevator can approach the other, they cannot both be in motion toward each other simultaneously.

The announced object is to reduce the increasingly large elevator shaft space now demanded, especially for local cars, in the new skyscrapers.

Co-eds in Pajamas Flee Fire in Sorority House

Fire in the Beta Sigma Omicron sorority house, 715 Foster avenue, Evanston, early yesterday, sent co-eds scurrying to the street in bathrobes and pajamas and caused about $2,000 damages to the building and property of the tenants. The fire, which is believed to have started from sparks falling on a shingle roof, was discovered by Miss Florence Wright of Renssalear, Ind., who aroused the house mother, Mrs. E. C. Walden, and the other co-eds, Rosella Mattel, Joliet; Verneil Curtis, Macon City, Ia., and Helene Lawson of Forest Park.

BRIAND TO PRESS U. S. OF EUROPE PLAN AT GENEVA

Conference Will Open on Friday Next.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 13.—Preparing to face stormy days in parliament, which reopened today, Premier Theodore Steeg summoned a special cabinet meeting at which the government discussed important impending matters. These included the United States of Europe conference, which will open at Geneva on Friday; the league of nations council meeting, starting on Monday; the naval construction situation, and the new strategic railway, which is to run parallel with the coast line along the Riviera toward the Italian frontier.

Aristide Briand, minister of foreign affairs, outlined the development of the project for federating the continental powers with free interchange of commodities and unhindered transportation across the boundaries for the economic development of Europe.

Outlines Naval Policy.

Minister of Marine Albert Sarraut described the naval situation, following a tour of inspection of the navy bases, arsenals and navy yards in the Mediterranean, and announced his readiness to proceed with the execution of the 1931 plans for building the new units.

Minister of Public Works Edouard Daladier outlined the project which will be submitted to parliament for the construction of a new railway line from Avignon to Nice via Perthuis, thereby cutting off a long detour via Marseilles and providing mainline transportation inland from the coast, which would be protected by a range of hills from enemy gunfire. At present the line following the coast from Marseilles along the Riviera is an open target to hostile warships or raiding airplanes.

Besides the strategic value, the new line will reduce the distance from Paris to the Riviera by about 50 miles and cut the running time from 16 to 14 hours.

Berlin Set for Dispute.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—Because of the illness of Chancellor Bruening, Hermann R. Dietrich, finance minister and vice chancellor, today presided over a meeting of the cabinet for final discussion before the German delegation, under Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, leaves tomorrow for the league of nations council meeting at Geneva.

The unofficial summary of the Polish reply, handed over to the council at Geneva, concerning German complaints on Polish treatment of German minorities, has strengthened the impression in Berlin that Poland is seeking to shift the basis for argument. The German delegation has been instructed to hold the discussions fast to Berlin's original 30 protests over the terrorization under the toleration and partial participation of official Polish groups.

Poland Refutes Charges.

WARSAW, Poland, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Polish government has sent to the league of nations secretariat a note refuting charges contained in several German communications to the league regarding treatment of the German minority in Upper Silesia.

The note describes the German communications as of political character and denies the charge that the German minority was not permitted to exercise its full electoral right in the recent Polish election. The real causes of excitement during that campaign, the note said, may be found in the natural reaction of Polish public opinion against "terroristic methods" to which the Polish minority was subjected in Germany.

RECOUNT GIVES OLSON A GAIN OF 383 VOTES

Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court, who was defeated for reelection on Nov. 4 by the Democratic candidate, John J. Sonsteby, has made a net gain of 383 votes in the recount of ballots cast in 43 precincts, the board of election commissioners announced last night.

Olson has lost 25 votes in the recount, the figures show, while Sonsteby has lost 408 votes. Olson was defeated by about 15,000 votes.

Former Judge Charles F. McKinley, Republican, who is contesting the election of Judge George V. McIntyre, has made a net gain of 731 votes, having gained 76 votes while Judge McIntyre lost 665. The recount of the votes in the remaining seven precincts selected as a test by Olson will be resumed tomorrow.

U. S. HAS A NEW SIX INCH GUN, BEST IN WORLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Rear Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of ordnance of the navy department, told the house naval committee today that in his opinion the United States has developed the best 6 inch naval gun in the world. He said that the improved weapon would shoot farther and maintain a faster sustained rate of fire than 6 inch guns now in use on American cruisers. The rate of fire is increased, he said, by more than one half.

Nevertheless, Representative Carl Vinson [Dem., Ga.], ranking minority member of the committee, moved at the conclusion of today's hearing that the straight six inch gun cruiser now in the Britten $90,000,000 warship authorization bill should be eliminated as not fitted for American use.

The Vinson motion will be acted on tomorrow when the naval committee will take final action on the Britten bill.

Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] said again today that the 6 inch gun cruiser type, forced on the United States by the terms of the London treaty will not be recommended by his committee. As voted out the bill is expected to carry approximately $75,000,000 for six ships, one an aircraft carrier, four submarines and one 6 inch gun cruiser equipped with a special landing and takeoff deck for airplanes.

Rear Admiral George H. Rock, chief of the construction corps, spoke in the highest terms of the flying deck cruiser. He added, however, that within the limitation of 10,000 tons only 6 inch gun vessels could be equipped with flying decks.

Bill Asks Death for First Degree Murder in Kansas

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 13.—(AP)—One of ten bills introduced today in the first session of the 1931 Kansas legislature was a proposal to inflict capital punishment for first degree murder.

THREE PRISONERS ESCAPE ON RIDE TO COUNTY JAIL

Overpowering a bailiff, three youths who with twenty other prisoners were being taken to the county jail escaped from an auto patrol yesterday at Canalport avenue and 20th street. They are John Anselmo, 17 years old, 903 Cambridge avenue, and John Thomasello, 20, of 870 Townsend street, charged with robbery with a gun, and Benjamin Marcello, 18 years old, 1005 Larrabee street, charged with stealing an automobile.

The three had been arraigned in Boys' court before Judge Francis B. Allegretti. The cases of Anselmo and Thomasello had been continued until Friday, and Marcello had been held to the grand jury in bonds of $2,500.

Harry Coey, Municipal court bailiff, riding the back step of the patrol, was in charge of the prisoners. His story was that Anselmo and Thomasello complained that their handcuffs were chafing their wrists and asked him to remove them. As he leaned over to unlock the handcuffs they knocked him down, and fled with Marcello.

ITALY TO BUILD 22 SUBMARINES, LONDON REPORTS

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Italy is vigorously pressing the largest submarine construction program of any power since the war, pushing aside other naval armament projects in this concentration on submersibles, according to "private reports" reaching the correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph. He says it is not only a question of whether Italy means to match France gun for gun but whether she intends to convert the Mediterranean into an Italian lake.

Italy, the article says, had 42 warships completed or under construction at the end of last year. Distinct from this armament, a contract for 22 submarines has been placed by the Italian government, the largest order in ten years.

During the last year Italy launched seven cruisers. France launched one and Great Britain one, the Telegraph adds. Italian warships completed in 1929 numbered 16, totaling 59,213 tons. The vessels still under construction total 28.

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Chandos and his wife, Leonie, former grand duchess of Riechtenburg, are killed at their estate near Littal, in Austria, by George Hanbury, companion of Chandos in many adventures. Marya Salm, countess of Dresden, an expected guest, wires that she will not come.

Prince Paul, ruler of Riechtenburg, had hoped to marry Leonie and swore revenge. Fearing for Marya's safety, because of her friendship for Leonie, Chandos and Hanbury, with their servants Bell and Rowley, go secretly to Virgil, capital city of Riechtenburg, where Marya resides. A peasant, named Ramon, leads them through a secret passage.

Marya tells them that she sent no message. Realizing the telegram was a ruse to get them to Virgil, they are preparing to flee with Marya, when the prince appears. They escape and reach the border, but find it so closely guarded that crossing is impossible.

Asylum is sought and he hides. Marya and Carol, her trusted servant, hide in a nearby town, while Chandos and Rowley join a traveling circus. Marya sends Carol to take them to Bariche, across the border, in a car which they recognize as Grieg's, the chief of police. Arrived at the inn in Bariche they receive a message from Marya, stating that Grieg is to be pardoned, but she must remain in Riechtenburg and not communicate with them.

Knowing that Marya, endeavoring to save them, has made some impossible arrangement with Grieg, they return to the border. Hanbury and Rowley pass, but Chandos is captured. He reveals to the inspector that Grieg has betrayed his trust. Grieg arrives and leaves Chandos the prisoner for Virgil. Hanbury and Rowley, knowing their friend's plight, hold up and capture the chief's car. They drive to the estate of Baron Sabre where they find Grieg. Grieg they left, tied to a post along the roadside.

Hanbury, who is in love with Marya, is stunned when she tells them that she was ordered that morning to Grieg—her price for their freedom. Chandos sets out to find Grieg and go away with him—but Grieg has escaped. Chandos returns to Baron Sabre's home and overhears the prince who has arrived, arguing with Grieg. Grieg is forgiven when he informs the prince he has a trap set to catch his prey that evening at the secret border chateau, as well as Leonie, who is to meet them there. Lelia, a young peasant girl, leads Chandos to a mill where his friends are hiding. Marya has disappeared and Chandos sends Lelia and Rowley to follow her and be leaves for the border pass. Lelia, who has fallen in love with Chandos, at the risk of her life, finds him and tells him that Leonie has crossed the country an hour before. Grieg traps them and fires at Chandos, but Lelia throws herself in front of him and receives the bullet. Chandos traps Grieg at the brink of a gorge and forces him to fall to his death below. Chandos then surrenders to the police and in their company sets out to return the body of Lelia to her home. En route he is seen by the local coroner who demands the girl's body for inquest. He hears Chandos' story and promises to see that he is brought back the next day to testify. Chandos is being tried at Virgil before a special court, the coroner comes with summons for Chandos and the grand duchess. He is told that the grand duchess has arrived in Littal. Chandos is sent back to his cell, where the summons is served on him. He receives a visit from Sully, lord president of the council, who is devoted to Leonie. She has returned to the country at her request. The prince denies to Sully that Leonie is false, but Chandos is unconvinced.

STATED DEMANDS.

I found myself wondering for the thousandth time how it was that so fine a man could endure to bear the standard of so false-hearted a prince. Sully was not ambitious and would have been happy to give up his seals of office and withdraw to some simple life. It was easy to say that, having put his hand to the plow, so long as the breath was in him he would not look back. That, no doubt, was the way of his spirit; but what of the flesh?

His hand came to rest upon my shoulder.

"Chandos, time's getting on. Tell me your terms."

I clapped my hands to my head.

"Sully," I cried, "don't press me. Don't draw the one card I've got. Now she's here. I know it. If you could have heard——"

"Do you think that when the inquest is over I shall rest until she is safe? Do you think I could sleep——"

"Of what use will that be?" I cried. "The prince can dismiss you—banish you from the country by a stroke of the pen. If you are inconvenient he will. At the moment you are convenient. You alone can act as our go-between. Until the inquest is over he dare not move. But once I have killed him—once I have saved his face—my hands are empty and he can get you away."

"He would never do that," said Sully. "I do not pretend he loves me, but the council rules the country and rules it well. If he dismissed me——"

"If he has Leonie, he will. You're the fastest friend here she's got. Can't you see my point, Sully? At the moment my foot's on his neck. I can bring him, if not to ruin, to such disgrace and contempt that he will not dare to venture without his gates. He knows it—you've pointed it out. Very well. If I'm right, and he has Leonie, if I make any terms which are not based on her release, he will have won the rubber and got his way. Do you think he'll scrap his victory by keeping you on? By keeping on Leonie's champion, to cramp his style?"

In a desperate effort I brought my brain to heel and began to write.

"I will see him again," he said. "I know it is useless, but I will try."

I turned to the window and stood looking out upon the yard.

"I am sorry," I said. "I do not want to be unreasonable, and you have worked all night and have scarcely sat down. If you——"

The sentence was never finished.

The sight of the prison yard had set me thinking, and a fact which I had noted, but never discussed, now rose up, staring and pregnant, to hit me between the eyes.

I was round in a flash and trembling like any leaf.

"Sully, I'm right! I've got it! I've got the proof. Grieg ordered three cars to be in waiting from nine o'clock on. Three cars—on Tuesday evening. I heard his words. When I came here at dawn on Wednesday they were still waiting down there. I saw them. The drivers were asleep. But only two of them, Sully. The third was gone."

"You mean——?"

"Where was the third?" I shouted. "That's what I mean. Grieg never commanded it—unless he rang up from hell. I'm right, Sully. I told you. Ring up Grieg to the police station garage. Have every lockup open. But if you find him blank, I don't care. Three cars, he ordered. I heard him. 'To bring the prisoners in.'"

But Sully was gone.

Though I tried to make a show of tasting the excellent dishes which Sully's man had procured, after a little I laid my napkin down.

"I'm sorry," I said, "but I have no appetite. Bring me a cigaret."

Since pacing the room and staring out of the window afforded me no relief, I sat down at a writing table and took up a pen.

Time was short. It would be as well to be ready with such terms as I meant to impose.

By a desperate effort I brought my brain to heel and began to write:

[1]. The inquest to be held at Vardar on Aug. 8.

In consideration of Richard Chandos' undertaking to suppress my name and to lead the court to believe that Grieg was acting in these matters not by my express orders, as in fact he was, but solely on his own account, I promise:

[2]. To order and attend in person and in state a service of thanksgiving for the preservation of Leonie, grand duchess of Riechtenburg. The service to be held in the Cathedral church of Vigil on Saturday next.

[3]. Never to interfere with the liberty of the grand duchess again.

[4]. To post sentries drawn from her highness' regiment at the house of the Countess Dresden and to put a royal car at her highness' disposal until further notice.

[5]. To reinstate immediately the Countess Dresden of Salm and never to molest her or permit her to be molested again.

[7]. To make over to Richard Chandos my wolf hound called Aster.

[8]. To promote to the rank of inspector Detective Sergeant ——— and to maintain him in that rank.

[9]. To pay to the police of Sallust the sum of five hundred pounds from my privy purse.

[10]. To send to Ramon, the smith, of Gola, a letter of indemnity signed by my own hand.

Such was my agitation that the drafting of these conditions took me a long time, but the exercise had its value, for at least it fobbed off the emotions to which I was now a prey.

Fear, hope, impatience, and a shocking thirst for revenge fought between themselves for my possession as never before.

The forged telegram, the spy at Littal, the detention of the countess, the efforts to prevent my escape—these things were all of a piece with a fiendish and wicked attempt to bring Leonie into the land and into its ruler's power. I was a prize, certainly but the horrid excitement shown by his serene highness the instant that Grieg had hinted that Leonie was on her way was most significant, and his outburst the day before rammed home the truth. He hated me, but he hated Leonie more. She had declined to marry him because she could not endure to be his wife. And the country he ruled knew this—and I loved her no whit the less. He might be prince of Riechtenburg, but she would "always be the queen of our hearts." His subjects had fed upon these things for nearly a year. Then Leonie had come to Littal and Sully had gone away.

When I considered these things I entered that state of mind in which I could put Grieg to death. My strength seemed to be resistless, and I could have sought the palace, forced my way into the presence, and wrung the life from the fellow with my hands on his throat.

Some clock struck two.

Workmen Sent by Sally Please Hotel Manager

So He Provides a Job for Another.

A. N., the manager of an apartment hotel in Dorchester avenue has praise for the service being given by Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE to help find jobs for the unemployed.

"I have had paper hangers and electricians that I obtained by calling you," Mr. N. told Miss Brown yesterday, "and they were such excellent workmen that I would recommend them to any one in the city. In fact, I liked their work so much that I'm asking you to send me a man now who will install 11 in-a-door beds, at 75 cents an hour."

All offers for work received by Sally are turned over to the Illinois Free Employment service at 116 North Dearborn street, a state bureau. The agency passes the jobs to those seeking work.

As an illustration of the way in which readers are responding to Miss Brown's appeal for more jobs and better jobs for men, R. A. J., in Washington boulevard, Oak Park, called yesterday to say he wanted to give a man a job washing the windows in a hotel. There will be three days' work, for which the man will receive $15.

The first offer of farm work job which Miss Brown has received came in from Mr. J., who has a farm at Villa Park. The farm department of the Illinois Free Employment bureau has had numerous applicants for jobs, and almost no jobs.

Mr. S., in the 200 block on West Illinois street, said he would pay from $30 to $35 a week to a compositor.

Two jobs for carpenters were provided yesterday: by Mr. D., in the 2000 block on North Halsted street, who said he would pay 65 cents an hour, and by Mr. K. in a textile machinery company in the 300 block on West Madison street. Mr. K. wants a carpenter to make a bookcase.

Two plumbers' jobs were made by Mr. G., in the 1300 block on Estes avenue, and K. D., in the 6000 block on South Throop street.

A job for a girl typist was offered by the T. S. T. company in the 1100 block on East 63d street. S. P. Y., in the 6200 block on North Talman avenue, offered a woman some work waxing floors.

The N. P. company, in South La Salle street, offered a job to a girl who could serve in the company's cafeteria. The work will last at least a month, and there is a possibility that it may be permanent.

A laundry asked for a shirt ironer, the pay to be between $17 and $18 a week.

Women's Fashions to Draw from Eugenie, Victoria and Greeks

Not only the hoop skirt idea, originated and worn by the Empress Eugenie, but several fashion ideas inspired by Queen Victoria are due to grace the 1931 miss. Among these will be modern versions of the Victorian fitted jacket to be worn as jackets with evening costumes.

Other inspirations for spring have been derived from the ancient Greek godesses, whose costumes, Mr. Parrish explained, consisted of a piece of cloth draped around them in a very artistic, yet very simple way.

"Long straight flowing lines," he said, "peplums or short tunics on skirts, draped neck lines, cowls and scarfs, draped girdles, and sash ties are some of the important fashion details that are Greek design in inspiration.

"For general street and daytime wear," he said, "skirts worn by a majority of women this spring will be middle calf length; for the more formal afternoon wear the lower calf length will be most popular, and for evening wear, ankle length."

BEG YOUR PARDON!

The Zizook Hotel System, operating the Riviera hotel, 4900 Blackstone avenue, has asked THE TRIBUNE to correct a statement that Leo Brothers, held as the murderer of Alfred Lingle, maintained an apartment at that hotel at the time of his capture. Brothers was evicted from the Riviera hotel on Oct. 9, 1930.

ALICIA PATTERSON AND ELIZABETH CHASE FLY 1,900 MI. IN AUSTRALIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DARWIN, North Australia, Jan. 13.—Miss Alicia Patterson, American flyer, and Miss Elizabeth Chase of Chicago arrived here yesterday after a 1,900 mile flight from Sydney across Australia. They stopped off several days in the central Australian desert for kangaroo hunting, where they reported the heat to be intense, exceeding 110 degrees in the shade.

Houston Church People Hear Talkie Service; Own Pastor Only Prays

Houston, Tex., Jan. 13—(AP)—The talkie sermon has entered the field of religion. A church service mechanical in all save the prayers was conducted here last night.

Dr. William Chalmers Covert, formerly of Chicago, general secretary of the Presbyterian board of Christian education, and Dr. William Ralph Paul, director of the department of home and church, pleaded from the screen for the enlistment of youth in vacation activities of the church.

The service over, the Rev. A. B. Haynes, the pastor, whose sole function had been the offering of prayer, praised it as one of the most successful ever held in his church.

Coincidentally he announced he had been advised officially that 24 talking pictures, 12 on the life of Christ and 12 on missionary subjects, would be sent out first over the North Atlantic states and later all over the country.

The plan, he said, was "part of a movement that might revolutionize church educational work."

Tallulah Arrives Early, Hailed by Strangers, for Father Is Late

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Tallulah Bankhead of Alabama and London came back today a star to the land she left eight years ago an unknown.

As she walked down the gang plank of the Aquitania shortly after noon she was greeted by a delegation of Broadway royalty with the homage due an American girl who has become the most glamorous figure in the London theater.

Her most thrilling moment came when she was met by her father, Representative W. B. Bankhead of Alabama. The boat docked earlier than he expected and he arrived late. His blonde daughter ran from one end of the pier to the other frantically calling his name for twenty minutes before she found him.

Earlier in the day she had received a wireless from him telling her to prepare "to have your gizzard squeezed out when we meet."

Ozarks College Now Close to Starvation Line

Needs $50,000, Chicago Friends Are Told.

Four consecutive years of misfortune have brought the people of England, Ark., to the desperate situation described in newspapers throughout the country. The same causes also have precipitated a crisis at the College of the Ozarks at Clarksville, in the same region, prominent Chicagoans were informed yesterday by Dr. M. E. Frampton, vice president of that institution. Dr. Frampton is seeking to raise $50,000 with which to keep the college open this year.

"We are facing a double crisis," he assured friends of that school who have been contributing to its support. "We have a capacity of 400 students. There are now about 350 enrolled. It is impossible for us to keep these students without immediate financial assistance, and still more impossible for us to send them to their homes. Why? Because there is nothing for them to do there—nothing even to support or feed them.

"The College of the Ozarks being a self-help liberal arts institution, the students are kept busy when not in class, either tilling the 105 acres of soil to provide food for their tables, or in the print shop, the dairy, or the garment shop we maintain.

"Though their expenses are only $300 a year, few could afford to attend without the work they do and the wages they receive.

"The floods of 1927 and the three years that followed in which crops were complete failures in this region have forced this situation upon us. There were 93 days of drought last summer. Is it any wonder the farmers at England and other places are in the plight they are?

"With the $50,000 we hope to secure from friends in all parts of the country, including Chicago, we could start the erection of a girls' dormitory at the college that would give employment not only to students but also to the skilled artisans of the town. The sum means more there than it does here in the building line, you see, and it would solve our problems for a year, at least.

"Oscar C. Hagen, realtor at 111 West Washington boulevard, has accepted the chairmanship of a committee to be formed here to help us out in this dilemma. The need is beyond the realization of any one who has not seen that region with his own eyes."

SEARCHLIGHTS ON DIAMOND COAST WARD OFF PIRATES

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 13.—Powerful searchlights, sweeping a bleak and lonely strip of seacoast 50 miles long, tonight are protecting fortunes in diamonds which lie thickly in the sands along the shore of Alexander bay in the Namaqualand region of West Africa.

The streams of light, as they swing about, throw into relief miles of high fences and barbed wire entanglements. For many months a special detail of 200 policemen has patrolled this jealously guarded strip, running out bands of marauders and chasing persons who sneaked through their lines to dig frantically in the sand for the precious gems.

"The diamonds are there for the picking," a prospector explained. "All you need is a shovel and a sieve. Just scuff up the sand and you find diamonds—big ones, little ones, by the thousands."

The Orange river in the centuries it has run down its 1,000 mile course to Alexander bay, geologists declare, has washed with it thousands of diamonds from the inland and deposited them on the floor of the bay where, like gravel, they have been washed up onto the shore.

The coastal areas of Namaqualand are strewn with diamonds in such quantities that the government has been compelled to take action to restrict their recovery and their sale in order to save the diamond industry.

South Africa is the source of most of the world's diamonds, and, previous to 1927, when the rich Namaqualand deposits were discovered on government property, these diamonds came from the deep level mines at Kimberley.

With the discovery of the easily recovered stones, American and Belgian workers were imported and diamond cutting factories were established at Namaqualand. The government itself even engaged in recovering the diamonds, and is said to have accumulated a stock of them valued at nearly $75,000,000. But the world economic depression has hit diamonds and the industry is now at a standstill. Only last week the world's diamond conference at Amersterdam resolved to reduce the production of cut diamonds by 50 per cent.

THE STAGE

THE run of "Lysistrata" at the Majestic theater will end Jan. 31, and thus the bawdy classic of pagan feminism has only two and a half more weeks of life in Chicago. The play will then be sent on tour, heading toward the Pacific coast.

After "Lysistrata," what? Well, so far as the Majestic theater is concerned, after the light of ancient Athenian drama comes total darkness. The lease on the playhouse, now held by the Shubert Theatrical company, will expire on Jan. 31, and will not be renewed. No other tenant is in sight. The property is owned by the Lehmann estate.

A bit of good news comes from the Selwyn theater: "Berkeley Square," which was scheduled to end its engagement next Saturday night, will prolong its visit for several weeks. The play's popularity has caused Leslie Howard, its star, to ask for a stay of sentence in fulfilling a Hollywood contract. Metro-Goldwyn, the film company, gracefully agreed to the arrangement. So Chicago will not have to part with this beautifully acted fantasy until some time in February.

The Theater Guild's staging of Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing," announced for a New York première last Monday night, has been delayed for several weeks. Alfred Lunt, Lynne Fontanne, and several others found that the task of playing "Elizabeth the Queen" at night and rehearsing a Shakespearean comedy in the afternoon was too arduous. "Much Ado About Nothing" wasn't ready; therefore it was postponed. Which is additional proof that the Guild regards acting as a fine art, not to be practiced without thorough and prayerful preparation.

Word comes from New York that George Kelly's new play, "Philip Goes Forth," staged last Monday night by the producer of "The Green Pastures," is another comedy about a country boy who came to Broadway, saw his error, and turned his back upon it all before it was too late. The play has a Greenwich Village setting, and Philip, the hero, aspires to glory as a dramatist.

The Theater Guild will send Lynn Rigg's "Green Grow the Lilacs" into New York Jan. 26. It will be placed at the Guild's home theater, whose present occupant, "Midnight," will be moved elsewhere. In spite of its graceful horticultural title, this work deals with the days when Oklahoma was a range for long horned steers.

Booth Tarkington's new play, "Colonel Satan," has been given a warm reception on Broadway. To veteran playgoers it recalls the romantic charm of Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire." This is Mr. Tarkington's first play since "Magnolia," staged in 1923.

Fred Stone, Dorothy and Paula, his daughters, and all the other members of the "Ripples" company, now at the Illinois theater, will give a special performance of that extravaganza next Sunday night for the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America, the official charity of the theatrical profession. The Actors' Fund was founded in 1882 by Edwin Booth, Joseph Jefferson, Bartley Campbell, W. J. Florence, Daniel Frohman, Lester Wallack, and Louis Aldrich. In its first year it spent $4,000 for relief work. It now disburses $200,000 a year and maintains a comfortable home for aged players on Staten Island. C. C.

Washington Woman Plays Theramin for New Music

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Ralph Richards of this city is, so far as she knows, one of the two women in the whole wide world who owns and plays a theramin for home amusement.

This ether wave music, only a little more than a year old, can be coaxed into a tune by well-controlled fingers, she says, but "has very little future in its present form."

Not capable of a tempo swift enough to be made a vaudeville divertisement, it holds little inducement for the money seeking professional. And since it literally must be picked from the air, by the finest of motions in a magnetic field, it does not attract the amateur.

Mrs. Richards explained she had started to learn the cello when she was caught by the cello-like tone of the theramin and decided to experiment in an entirely new musical field.

Easton, Pa., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Announcement was made today by President William Mather Lewis of Lafayette college of the appointment of Arthur A. Houck as dean of the college. He will succeed Donald B. Prentice. Mr. Houck at present is assistant to the president of Vassar college. He is a graduate of Reed college, Oregon. Dean Prentice is resigning to become president of Rose Polytechnic institute, Terre Haute, Ind. He has been dean at Lafayette since 1917.

How to Invest Church's Funds Puzzles Pastors

Methodists Include Bonds for Wars in Debate.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

In what industries may churches conclentiously invest endowment or pension funds?

That question, according to the Rev. Dr. W. B. Farmer, general secretary of the board of pensions of the Methodist Episcopal church, 740 Rush street, continues to arise in meetings of trustees and other boards of Christian denominations. Dr. Farmer related the demands of President G. Bromley Oxnam of De Pauw university at a meeting of national boards of the Methodist Episcopal church, just concluded.

Dr. Oxnam pointed out, Dr. Farmer said, that by investment of funds in business enterprises, the investor becomes an active participant in the business, and not an absentee coöperator. Dr. Oxnam, according to Dr. Farmer, challenged the moral right of a church to invest its funds in a corporation "that will not deal with organized labor and insists upon 'yellow dog' contracts." The De Pauw president declared Christian institutions have no moral right either to invest funds in public utility corporations that lobby for special privileges.

"Is it right," asked Dr. Oxnam as Dr. Farmer quoted him, "for the church to invest funds in a public utility corporation that treats its employés fairly, meets the standards set up by the church for employer-employé relationships, but which maintains lobbies at Washington and elsewhere, secures special privileges, spends money to discredit municipal enterprises, and goes as far as to subsidize professors and universities and thus produce propaganda from so-called reliable sources to discredit enterprises that make for community welfare?"

Dr. Farmer added that the whole question of subscription to war bonds issued by governments was raised by Dr. Oxnam, whom he quoted as asking if present day Christian conscience permitted the church "to invest in the highly profitable undertaking necessary to the prosecution of a successful war. Or for that matter, has the church a moral right to invest in the less profitable, but very safe, bonds issued by a government to meet the expenses of conducting a war, particularly when the church is a world church and has properties and members in the enemy country?"

Dr. Oxnam pointed out, it was said, that the church is beginning to face a dilemma as a result of its search for ethical principles to govern the investment of its funds. This dilemma is coming to be of the first magnitude, it was asserted, when it is realized that the church "is pledged to the ideals of Jesus and must live its corporate life in the present, and as yet, but partially Christian economic order." He was quoted as pointing out that the church has no moral right to invest in an economic order based upon present day conceptions of competition, property rights and profit making.

Luther League Secretary to Quit to Take Pulpit

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Rev. Amos J. Traver of Philadelphia, for 5 years general secretary of the Luther League of America, today presented his resignation to the executive committee. He will become pastor of the Lutheran church at Frederick, Md. The resignation is effective March 1.

The executive committee decided here today to begin the erection of an educational building in Porto Rico, to cost $25,000.

Three Women Display Art of Varied Sorts

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue, have put on view a particularly delightful exhibit by three of our women painters. In the little room are sketches in oil by Ethel Louise Coe and these, while somewhat in the manner of a travel diary's notes, make pleasant seeing. Miss Coe has an inclusive vision and an instantaneous grasp of the points of a locale. She whips the imagination with a sudden bit of vivid color and stimulates it by the atmospheric quality which each picture wears.

In the larger room are seen paintings by Elizabeth K. Peyraud and Anna Lynch. The difference in manner and technique of these two women is curious. It is almost dramatic. On the one hand is Mrs. Peyraud's straightforward, excellently habile; on the other is Anna Lynch, painting with a deft lightness of touch, a lilt in her colors and arrangements, an almost magical skill with brushes large and small, for her work goes from the most exquisite of miniatures to the large landscape in oil.

Elizabeth Peyraud is at her best when she handles interiors. A breakfast porch with seated figures and a glimpse of landscape through the uncurtained window, a studio with figures, just a room and a quaint old fashioned lady sitting waiting. Such things carry conviction and impress us with their charm. In her flowers, and there are a number of flower still lifes in her group, the touch is a bit heavier, the flowers more mechanical, a little hard.

Anna Lynch in her paintings of flowers possesses the heart of a lyrist. The flowers are alive, perfumed, vital. They glow with the essence of spring. Marvelously decorative, they are more than that, they are episodes, each one complete in a continued chant to Pan. Anna Lynch also is at her best in her miniatures, and of these there are several cases. Her touch is sympathetic, gentle and just as well as sure. In her larger portraits she also is worth watching and in the Spanish figure paintings she is thoroughly charming. Also in those landscapes and paintings of the Spanish coast does she carry us with her body and soul.

The exhibition will continue through January.

New York Shop Starts Reshaping the Silhouette

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's a great world we live in, all right. Every day there is something new and exciting to make the living worth while. Some new cream that promises youth to the fading cells. Some new eye shadow that promises an intriguing glow to the dull eye. Some new something, anyway.

But something newer'n that, even, is the departure found in one of our Fifth avenue shops recently by which you can have on your charge account the treatments that reshape your silhouette. An affiliation with a dancing and calisthenics school makes the scheme possible, and a suggestion from your attendant, who is trying halfheartedly to wiggle you into a 16 when your requirements would make an 18 less seam splitting.

Instead of hearing that you really ought to take a full sized 20, you may learn that with a bit of struggle, physically, on the dance and gymnastic floor you can eventually get into a 16—perhaps. And that's progress from a plumping lady's point of view, is it not?

Is there ever a time in the days of the week when one feels her excess five, or six, or ten, or twenty quite so aggravating as when they are taken on a shopping trip with you? In this year's models, especially. Women are just ripe at that moment to be taken in [silhouette-ly and the other way]. Anyway, that's the latest bit of news we have to offer you.

But speaking about silhouettes, how's yours? Are the winter foodstuffs crowding you out of your perfect 36 home? This is the time of year when you've got to keep the scale eye on that figure of yours, for pounds come on unawares with the appetites born of brisk walks on cold days.

And there is that indoor ennui that others have to reckon with, when it is easier to put off till a warmer tomorrow the going out that should be done today. That way lies a potential extra tire for the waist and hips.

Better get the weighing habit, if you haven't done so already. There's nothing like those cold, relentless figures to tell you the truth in time to catch the extras at their youngest and most pliable.

Junior League Plans Recit on Next Mond

BY THALIA

[Illegible] the Junior league wo[rk]. Really, I'm quite sure [the] membership, replete with [ability] and industry, could—and [would] in case of necessity—be equal [to the] task.

The arts and interests co[n]cerned a season or so ago [for the] purpose of inducing the leag[ue] to be active at their respective a[rt]. Secular forte, has now planne[d a] recital to take place next Mond[ay] afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the [Ar]. It's to be open to league membe[rs], their guests, and the program [is] terribly intriguing.

Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord, who [is] chairman of the A. and I. committee [of] the League, Dorothy Schmidt, an[d] Mrs. Alfred Wolfe all chimed in [to] boast it at the luncheon Mrs. [Ar]. Winterbotham Jr. and Miss [Ma]. Bambleton gave at the Arts c[lub] Monday, although the luncheon [itself] was to inform the soceda [sic] [so]ciety editors] about the new [Ch]icago symphony concert lectures. [They] to begin on Jan. 23 and to co[ntinue] until April 24, and there will [be] other lecturers besides Felix Bo[rd]. who gave the first series all h[im]self].

But to revert to the progra[m] next Monday, it will be given by [the] Pools, who is reported to be a [wi]z while at the piano; Janet Fai[r], Jean Adams, who sings blue[s] torch songs; Helen Rend, who [will] play some of the compositions [of] hers for the children's plays; [Mr]. Merrill Hubbard, who is to s[ing] French and Russian; Mrs. W[ill] Westlake, who will do some [of] solos; Sarah Wood and her [sis]. Anne Wood Tullis, who do a [dan]ce number; Elizabeth Warren [will] accompany some of the s[ing]ers besides doing solos, and Louise [Ma]ow, who will accompany her [sis]. Isn't that an imposing [list] of music for you?

Mrs. P. A. Valentine Revives "At Homes"; They're Success

It's interesting to learn . . . [that] Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine has [been] giving "Saturday afternoons" [of] that, reviving a bygone custom. [The]mes, they are most enjoyable [and] successful occasions (last week's [was] third, I think) . . . that Mr. [and] Mrs. J. Gleasner is to have his 88th [birth]day a week from next Monday [and] that there will be no celebration [in] honor most of the Gleasner fam[ily] and other parts of the world, [as] Gleasner is not very well, and [the] Gleasners don't care particularly [for] celebrations . . . and that Pres[ident] of Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchi[ns] the University of Chicago leave[s] Chicago tonight for a three weeks' [visit] in the southwest, going fir[st] to Tucson, Ariz. (Mrs. Hutchins h[as] been in her studio much lately bec[ause] of various other matters demand[ing] her attention.)

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman was elected honorary president of the [Ch]ic White, and Blue club on Monday [at] other reelections include Mrs. Ed[ward] E. Finfeld, president; Mrs. Ch[arles] King Corsant, treasurer, and [Mrs.] James R. Offield, assistant treasu[rer]. Bertha Palmer has been appoi[nted] chairman of junior organizations, [recently] a new department, and An[na] Johnston is to do publicity. Mrs. V[ic]an Ripple and Mrs. Roy D. K[ing] are first and second vice presid[ents]. Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, recor[ding] secretary, and Mrs. George Ras[mus]sen, corresponding secretary. Be[sides] its regular club work, the Red, W[hite] and Blue has been doing exte[nsive] charity work among the poor P[oor] families on the near northwest [side]. It has established a kitchen at [1800] Wade street where the children of [the] community are fed twice a day [and] adults are provided with food [and] clothing.

Mrs. Cabot Brown to Visit Her Father, James Keeley.

Mrs. Cabot Brown is coming [from] San Francisco on the 23d or the [24th] to visit her father, James Keeley, [of] the Ambassador for three weeks. [Mr.] and The John Lowries have arrived [from] New York City and are getting [set]tled in their apartment at 1242 [Lake] Shore drive.

A tribute not to be laughed [at] when Helen Tieken, who manages [the] Junior League's children's plays, [will] take a few days off recently [be]cause of fatigue and a cold, the s[tu]dents at the Selwyn sent her a [big] basket of flowers.

Affairs of one kind and another [for] the Midland Authors' special lunc[h] today at their new club rooms in [the] Sherman for Katherine Krug. . . [The] Hinsdale Infant Welfare society's [annual] tea and election of officers to [be] at the residence of Mrs. Donald [Ray]mond [the Stuyvesant Peabo[dy] former place], with Mrs. Walter [Sh]eldon in charge of the hostess [com]mittee. . . . The Vocational Society [for] Shut-ins' annual meeting and lunc[heon] at the Casino next Monday, with [the] program by Fanny Cole Sample, [Mrs.] Laird Bell [an active member of [the] Shut-in board], and Lillian Nico[l] accompanying the luncheon. . . . [The] Chicago Drama League's Sunday [night] supper at the Casino on the [Mrs.] Gordon Laing, LL. D., dean o[f] Humanities at the University of [Chi]cago, whose lecture, "From an [Ar]mchair," will be followed by [an] open discussion.

Highland Park bits—The Georg[e] Hardis and Mr. and Mrs. Georg[e] Schofield have departed on their [bri]dal trip to California. While [they] are gone Miss Charlotte Yoe and [her] sister will have the Schofields' h[ome]. . . . Marianna Ruffner, the Willi[am] Withers' daughter has returned [from] a short trip to New York, and [Mrs.] Wells, who went, too, is staying [for] a bit of eastern visits. . . . The G[eorge] Lamkins have come in from [the] Geneva farm, and are occupying [one] of the Mosely houses on Green [Bay] road for the winter. Mrs. Mo[sely], her daughter, Mrs. Earle W. Spencer, [is] also staying.

Hearers Cheer Schipa In "Mignon" Revival; Cooper Is Conductor

BY HAZEL MOORE.

The return of Tito Schipa to the Chicago Civic Opera has brought joy in more ways than one, not only for his golden voiced self, but also for the fact that his coming has unleashed an entire section of the répertoire hitherto held in abeyance. That this répertoire has entirely to do with tunes, scores written with an eye to the pause for applause, and so regarded b ythe audience, to judge from last night's reception of the revival of Ambroise Thomas' "Mignon."

Primarily revived for the company to take on tour, its tryout in the home town last night proved such a success it should be repeated. From Conductor Cooper to the tiniest ballet girl and from box to balcony, there was an unholy joy in the brazen display of melody. Artists anu adiences frankly reveled in singing and hearing something simple.

Not that the fine old crusted tunes of Thomas are simple from the singer's standpoint. But the frills are all in the singer's throats. And there was plenty of good singing last night. The applause punctuated by cheers, and more than once the show was literally stopped.

So sincerely was the performance sung that to name the cast is to record the success of each. But next to the beauty of Schipa's singing [that he sang in Italian to the French of the rest of the company mattered not a whit] one must name the glory of voice and person of Coe Glade. So perfectly does she fit the rôle of Mignon that she recreates it. Add the attractive person and flexible voice of Margherita Salvi Filina, the not too gay but superb Lotharlo of Chase Baromeo, the diminutive but amusing Frederick of Jenny Tourel, add also Desire Defrere and Eugenio Sandrini, a pleasing ballet—all conducted by Maestro Cooper as though he believed in the good old score—and you have listed the evening's successes.

Eric DeLamarter led the Chicago Symphony orchestra again yesterday. The program had both charm and novelty.

Mischa Mischakoff stepped from his newly accustomed place at the concert master's desk to that of soloist. A program note stated that he was playing for the first time a rare Stradivarius loaned for the occasion. Whether the violin was of particular brilliancy or whether Mr. Mischakoff was unusually inspired, the result was a performance of the Vivaldi-Nachez concerto for violin, string orchestra, and organ that far exceeded any previously accomplished by him. Both in this and the later played "Tzigane," by Ravel, for violin and orchestra, he was given superb assistance from Mr. DeLamarter and the orchestra.

Two novelties added zest to the program, a symphony for wind instruments by Darius Milhaud of the Parisian insurgent "six" and a "nocturne" by Pedrotti. The latter proved melodious and orchestrally expert. The former, in three parts, labeled "rude-lento-violent," was in the Milhaud metier.

Johns Hopkins Plans to End the System of Totaling Course Credits

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 13.—(AP)—It was announced today that Johns Hopkins university will drop the American college custom of grading and graduating students by totaling the number of points awarded for attending certain classes and passing certain examinations.

The new plan provides that an undergraduate student shall major in a specific subject at the end of his sophomore year. It is based on the so-called Gilman plan in use at the university from its founding uhtil a decade ago. It is to become effective in 1932.

A set of comprehensive examinations in the spring of the year when the student presents himself for a degree is provided, but otherwise the daily grind of the student will not be affected to a great degree, for there will be course examinations also.

Marriage Isn't All Beer and Skittles, Doris Remarks

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Sometimes you wonder what on earth women expect from marriage, anyway. Is it to be all play and no work for them? Is money to be shaken off a Christmas tree just for their wanting it? Haven't they any idea that they are entering into a state of living that is going to call for fortitude, sacrifice, tolerance and a great deal of happiness if they bring the proper requisites with them?

The ignorance about what is expected of a woman who marries a man of average salary is appalling. One wonders how girls escape observing the lives of women already married in similar financial circumstances. It is always the idea that "things are going to be different with us," I suppose, that sets young people off on the wrong foot.

If one marries into a certain financial setting, things are not going to be different except in the spirit in which the necessary things that must be done are done. Rents have to be met just the same, milk bills, grocery, meat, doctors, dentists, insurance, etc. Where the income is moderate, the wife has to put her shoulder to the wheel and keep it there for a few years, at least.

She is not going to escape responsibility. She is not going to escape work. She may even have longer hours of work than she had before marriage when she was holding down a job. She may have to give up those evening jaunts she used to enjoy with her suitor. She may have to be content to turn on the radio and do her dancing at home. For a while, as has been said.

If her husband's hours are long, she may have to readjust her ideas of a full day to his. If he has a night job (as some of my complainants report) she has still more compromise to make. And all of these things are her job. They're simply part of the duties she takes on with marriage.

While there is no intention of making marriage out a lifelong sentence, still it would be better did more young women enter it with that understanding than with the flighty, fragile, unwarranted picture of a carefree, easy life many of them seem to have.

Food Talk.

Tripe is as common a meat product as is heart and liver. It is the inside lining of the stomach of the cow and ox. Yet it is not so well known as heart or liver. Neither is it so available. Not many meat shops will carry tripe, because they have difficulty in selling it. It goes begging just like sweet breads and often is a loss to the butcher. This is not because it is an inferior food with few possibilities. It is due to the fact that many housewives do not know how to prepare it. They are overlooking a real delicacy.

German cooks prepare tripe in many delightful ways. Tripe comes in two forms—the pickled and fresh. For the preparation of most dishes I prefer to use the fresh product. However, either the fresh or pickled may be used. Long boiling usually eliminates most of the sour flavor due to vinegar in the pickled product.

The best part of tripe is that part known as the "blanket" or "double," because it is folded with fat between those parts called "honeycomb" and "monk's hood." One pound of tripe yields 261 calories, of which 212 are protein and 49 are fat. Its water content is considerably higher than that of other meat, but much of this may be extracted by heating in a slow oven, as is suggested in the receipe for Lyonnaise tripe.

BROILED TRIPE.

Wipe fresh tripe as dry as possible, dip in fine cracker dust and salad oil or melted butter. Drain off all fat possible and again dip in cracker dust. Place in greased broiler and broil 5 minutes, cooking smooth side of tripe the first 3 minutes. Place on hot platter, honeycombed side up, spread with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Broiled tripe is at its best when cooked over a charcoal fire.

TRIPE IN BATTER.

1 egg, well beaten.
1 teaspoon salad oil or melted butter.

Mix flour and salt. Add cold water gradually. When smooth add egg, vinegar, and oil or butter. Cut tripe in pieces for serving. Dip in batter, saute (fry) in small quantity hot fat.

2 tablespoons butter.
Salt and pepper.
Chopped parsley.

Cut tripe in pieces 2 inches by ½ inch. Put in pan in a slow oven to draw out the water. Drain. Brown onion slightly in butter, add tripe and cook 5 minutes. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, and parsley.

STEWED TRIPE.

Wash carefully 1 pound of tripe that has not been pickled; cut into inch squares. Put it into a stew pan with ¼ teaspoon each of salt, sugar, and prepared mustard, with water enough to cover—about 1 pint. Boil up and skim carefully, then set back to simmer for 3 hours, watching closely lest it stick to the bottom of the pan. Skim if necessary. Mix a tablespoon flour with a little cold water, stir it in, simmer ½ hour longer and serve with more seasoning, if desired.

Mothers Can Make Real Contribution to Child Study

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A Mothers' and Fathers' Litany, signed by Mrs. Bevans, will be sent as her greeting on receipt of a 2c postage stamp.

Once, long ago, a technically inclined correspondent criticized me for using the letters of mothers in my column when I wished to make a point, instead of quoting from learned psychologists.

Here is a letter from some one who realizes the value of first hand, everyday, home experience that comes to mothers, and who knows that a presentation of it is helpful to others who read. And encouraging too—because it does help us to know that many of our problems are universal ones.

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: I like to read the articles you prepare on the training of children, as they appear each day in the paper. But, I'm sure if we could read all of the letters you receive from parents and others regarding their problems and perplexities it would be still more interesting. Thank goodness for the sympathetic understanding and the desire for intelligent direction of our children of today, by young parents and older ones.

"I took advantage of the answer you wrote for the 'Father of a Small Son' the other day and copied your list of good books for parents. After I have read them I shall know better if I need more. My own baby is now twenty months old and resembles the 'young Indian' of that age.

"Will you please send me the booklets on toys, play, sex education, and the children's bookshelf.

"I am anxious to get him a good toy or two. He loves to play ball and is good at playing games. I suppose all little children are observant. It seems to me he never misses anything, but tries out all he sees. After he sees his father shine his shoes—he brushes his. He plays golf with a curtain rod and a ball. He always calls attention to airplanes and to the small balls on the top of flagpoles. There are so many things small children know that a grown person cannot possibly appreciate unless they live with them in a sympathetic and sensitive attitude.

"It's too bad mothers have to be so many things besides. At any rate where there's a desire for better things something must come of it."

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This dress is designed especially to aid in giving an appearance of slenderness, and it is a charming and thoroughly wearable one. The deep V front reaching to the waistline and the softly falling jabot revers both contribute to a slender appearance, while the deep hipyoke of the circular skirt is the smartest depth to give the matronly figure slenderness. Canton crêpe, crêpe marocain, the wool crêpe and velvet are suitable materials.

The pattern, 2859, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ¾ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Chic Depends on the Correct Accessories

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—There is nothing so important to the art of chic (for it is an art, you know) as having all your accessories right. You may wear the smartest costume from the greatest couturier in the world and still look dowdy if you clutter it up with too many, too fussy, or in any way inappropriate accessories. And common sense accessories with afternoon ensembles are equally fatal. A satin afternoon frock has been defeated by a pair of brogues.

Sketched here are some of the latest Paris accessories that will help you to make the most of your afternoon effect.

The hat's from the great Reboux. It combines the new, back-to-the-crown movement with a charming directoire air. It is in black felt and the aspiring brim is made of a moss green ostrich quill wired to keep its smart shape. Its profile is shown on the small figure to the right.

The Chanut gloves are brand new, that is, in 1931 styles, for I seem to remember wearing something like them in the dim past. They're of moss green suede—you know, colored gloves are going to be worn more and more this spring. They are six button length and they really do button with four green pearl buttons. They are trimmed simply by a band at the top with a pinked edge.

I saw the handbag carried by the smartest girl in the Ritz the other day. It was of moss green antelope—perfectly round like a doughboy's canteen bottle and closed by a zipper at the top.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Elderly Man Needs Overcoat.

"I am an elderly man without a family or relatives and am out of work. I have been trying to get a position as night watchman or a similar job for months but haven't been able to find anything, so I cannot buy the clothing I need. Do you think your readers would have any for me? I need an overcoat, size 44, and a pair of rubbers, size 10. M. C."

Looking for a job during the cold weather takes on added difficulties when one hasn't sufficiently warm clothing. Can you make it a trifle easier for this elderly man by supplying the overcoat and rubbers he needs?

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Complimenting the Boss.

I had obtained a new position in a rather large office, and had been working there for about a week when one morning, without looking up I said to the person who was standing near me, "Gosh, I smell rubber burning." The person hesitated a bit, and then answered, "I guess it's the nickel cigar I just bought."

Imagine my embarrassment when I looked up and saw my big boss.

Take Early Lead; Fail in Scoring Opportunities.

St. Louis' rejuvenated Fliers scored their second victory of the American league hockey season at the Chicago stadium last night when they defeated the Shamrocks, 2 to 1, with a goal by Bill Kendall, spare wingman, in the latter part of the third period.

Excellent opportunities to score were missed by both teams during the first period, in which the passing of Peewee Wiseman and the offensive play of Jack Riley stood out. The Shamrocks missed the best chance to score when Clark tripped Donnie MacFayden in front of the net where he was coming in fast with a clear shot.

Two stops by Timmins of shots by Jackson, on a pass from Hill, and Kirk, on a pass from Jackson, prevented what looked to be sure goals. Herb Rheaume, new St. Louis goalie, saved two fast shots, one on a pass out from Riley to Brydson and another from Wiseman to Burns.

Shamrocks Break Tie.

With Goyer in the box serving an unexpired penalty at the start of the second period and Creasey joining him on the first play, the Shamrocks took advantage of the Fliers' weakened defense to break the scoreless tie when Brydson beat Rheaume on a well played pass from MacFadyen in 33 seconds.

When Goyer and Creasey returned to the ice the Fliers launched a spirited offensive. Creasey took the puck down the side, past the defense, and passed out to Goyer in front of the net. Headley engaged Goyer in a mixup for the puck, but the Flier center flipped it over to Cameron, coming in on the opposite side, and the latter pitched into the far corner of the net as Timmins came out. The shot evened the count after 3 minutes and 42 seconds.

Chicagoans Miss Passes.

The Shamrocks played the greater part of the third period in front of the Fliers' goal, but the evening's great failing, missing well played passes, prevented consummation of excellent scoring opportunities. The greatest disappointment came when Riley missed Brydson's pass right in front of the net when Rheaume was pulled out and the goal stood entirely unprotected.

Kendall's goal came in 15:53 when Cameron passed short to him during a scrimmage in the mouth of the net and Bill shot just at the instant that Wiseman and Timmins collided and went down together at the side of the mesh. The score:

Student, Cage Star—That's Marie Curtin

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Playing with the best girls' basketball team in the United States a couple of nights a week, studying days for a degree of bachelor of philosophy, or working on an average of five hours a day as instructor at a municipal playground—any one of these appears to be a sizeable assignment for any young woman of 24.

Well, it appears that one Marie Curtin of the Taylor Trunks quintet, De Paul university and McLaren Municipal playground, has not stopped at achieving one or two of them, but has succeeded in handling all three capably for at least three years.

Pick on Boys' Teams.

Any one who has seen the Taylor Trunks play will remember Marie as one of the most consistent factors in the success of this girls' team, which has become so good that it has taken to picking on boys' church teams and such outfits as the bewhiskered troupe from the House of David.

Undoubtedly Marie's ambitious program would have remained a secret as far as the basketball public is concerned but for the fact that a few days ago the public relations department of De Paul university ventured a sly suggestion that a De Paul senior named Marie Curtin was not only a good basketball player, but an excellent student as well.

Confronted with this statement at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Curtin of 2644 Seminary avenue, yesterday, Marie broke down and told all, even going so far as to reveal her hitherto unreported duties as playground instructor.

Specializes in Languages.

Marie said she started playing basketball about eight years ago at the Lake View Community center in the neighborhood of her home. Following her graduation from Waller High school she attended the American College of Physical Education for two years, having been interested in that work at the time.

She then entered De Paul, specializing in languages, with a view to becoming a high school teacher. Two years ago she carried 16 hours of work at the university, but admitted yesterday that it was almost too much, what with playing with the Trunks and her playground work. She entered that field three years ago and has been stationed at the McLaren playground, Polk street and Ashland avenue, since then.

Last year in the five subjects she took at De Paul—psychology, Spanish, English, history, and economics—she had a record of three A's and two B pluses.

LEVINSKY MEETS SLATTERY TO END FANS' DISPUTES

Which Will Be the Better Fighter Tonight?

Tonight's Card

Jimmy Slattery vs. King Levinsky, 10 rounds.
Charlie Retzlaff vs. George Neron, 8 rounds.
Barney Ross vs. Henry Falegano, 8 rounds.
Gary Leach vs. Mickey McFarland, 6 rounds.
Ralph Lenny vs. Dick Landig, 6 rounds.
Charlie Crocker vs Billy Gladstone, 4 rounds.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the night King Levinsky comes back to the boxing wars. And Jimmy Slattery, who has had two months to regain composure since he watched the King's hand lifted in triumph last November after his first battle with Levinsky, has an opportunity to convince his partisans the decision was incorrect.

Levinsky and Slattery will fight ten rounds at the Stadium. Probably no match ever was made which had reasonable basis for so many conjectures. Consensus yesterday was that the fight would result something like this:

1. Slattery will win the decision. Levinsky, so this division of fans say, can't box. He'll swing himself into exhaustion chasing the Buffalo Irishman, and all he'll get for his perspiration is a flurry of jabs to his face.

"Hasn't a Fighting Heart."

2. Slattery will knock out Levinsky. The King hasn't a heart for taking a punching, so these fans believe. Slattery can't hit, but the King will accept his punches in the spirit they are tendered and go down just to get the bout over. It is rumored Al Miller, deposed manager of the Ghetto boy, favors this outcome. Al always has said that the King fought in the ring because he was afraid he'd get more punishment in the dressing room afterward if he ran away.

3. Levinsky will jump out of the ring before the third round. It must be admitted that only a few of the ticketholders predict this outcome, and presumably the wish is father to the thought. Strangely, Miller does not believe this will happen. For one thing, he is quoted as saying, since the commissioners have ordered all seats moved back four feet from the ringside, Levinsky will be afraid to land on the stone floor.

See Slattery Knocked Flat.

4. Levinsky will knock out Slattery. The King's most enthusiastic adherents, including his sister-manager protem., Mrs. Lena Levy, are certain Brother Levinsky will throw his big right fist smack into Slattery's face. Diagrams of the King's technique against Leo Lomski have been circulated as proof.

5. Levinsky will outbox Slattery. The only person known to believe this is Ray Alvis, who accepted the job of tutor to his Kingship after Miller was deposed. At various times Red Mason and Barney Fury, who will hold the smelling salts and water bottle in the King's corner tonight, are said to have concurred. It was rumored yesterday, and with a fair degree of authenticity, that since both gentlemen are directly paid by Mr. Alvis, and thus are indirect employés of Mr. Levinsky, they have not spoken their true sentiments. Mr. Alvis continues with outspoken candor to insist the King is a great boxer, notwithstanding, admitting also that this dormant greatness was discovered by Mr. Alvis.

Slattery Is Favorite.

Slattery's opinion is he will whip his opponent in a fashion creditable to an Irishman. This, of course, is prejudiced. When Levinsky was asked to express his ideas he smiled quizzically and vacantly, permitting his directors to break into conversation with their versions of the outcome.

It has been circulated openly among representatives of the press that Slattery is a 9 to 5 favorite tonight. Surepitious investigation has failed to reveal the basis of the odds, since no one has confessed wagering.

The Walton A. C., which leads its nearest rival, the Norwegian-American A. A., 795 points to 470 in the race for the season's skating trophy, has entered a team of 100 in THE TRIBUNE Silver Skates Derbies at Garfield park Jan. 24 and 25. The Walton club has won five team trophies in the six meets in which its skaters have competed this season.

"We will have exceptionally strong skaters in five of the seven TRIBUNE races," President Dan Canaday said yesterday. "I believe we will be a leading contender for the Walter Eckersall team trophy in the Silver Skates tournament."

Schroeder Tops List.

The Walton team is depending on the following stars to win Silver Skates: Eddie Schroeder, men's senior; Wilbur Marks, boys' intermediate; Leo Friezinger, boys' junior; Eleanor Thiele, girls' senior, and Merle Newman, girls' junior.

The Norwegian-American A. A. submitted its entry list of 50 yesterday. Oscar G. Lundgoot, the manager, filed the entry. Twenty-three will compete in the men's senior race while ten girls will seek first honors in the race for those over 16 years of age.

Henry E. Traub, manager of the Elgin, Ill., Lakeview Athletic association, also submitted his team's entry yesterday. Eddie Gathman, who won the boys' intermediate Silver Skates race last year, will race in the senior division. Fred Baker is the other entry in this group. Fourteen skaters will compete in four divisions.

Old Star Trains Sons.

Escanaba, Mich., will be represented by four boys. Daniel Gallagher, Ray and Leo Dube are entered in the senior division, while Michael Gallagher Jr. will skate in the intermediate group.

BASKETBALL STALLING.

BASKETBALL stalling has been the subject of discussion with widely varying views concerning the strategy and sportsmanship of such practice. Whatever the strategy, it was agreed the tactics aroused crowds to demonstration, especially if the visiting team was the staller. In one or two isolated instances contests became the veriest farces.

This question has been determined for the Big Ten, we are informed, by a so-called gentlemen's agreement among the coaches not to practice the deliberate stall to protect a lead. Differentiation is made between deliberate stall and tactical stall to spread out the opposition and prevent the massed defense against which a quintet with a slight lead near the end of the game hesitates to hurl itself. Of course, the prevalent delayed, then quick breaking offense is a variation of the stall, but not objectionable.

At Columbus we had opportunity to observe the working of the new agreement. Wisconsin was the general favorite to win. Ohio State obtained a lead about the middle of the first half which it held until the finish. At one period in the second half it was threatened. Ohio State could have gone into a deliberate stall, in all probability, and protected that lead to the finish.

Instead, the Buckeyes were a little more deliberate, perhaps, in the back court and a little more careful in their passing, but when the opportunity came they went down the floor and tried for the hoop, risking possession of the ball. The offense was not as frenzied as if they were behind, but it was not even close to stalling. Soon they had a commanding lead again.

Observers inform us that Northwestern, in its game against Michigan, evinced a marked fondness for possession of the ball after its scoring spurt in the second period established a good lead. It was a form of stalling but not construed by Purple adherents as deliberate stalling under the agreement.

We suspect the team leading, with only a short time left to play, and the team behind may differ in opinion concerning deliberate stalling at some time during the season. At any rate, the experiment is well worth trying.

Maizie, the Alchemist.

Is Maizie a myth? I would rather guess
She were a sprite or an elfin thing,
Free to rove within a realm
Where sunbeams dance and wild birds sing.

Maizie or Jo—sunshine or shade—
Buds are roses when they unfold.
And the alchemy of a cheery heart
Gives to the world a wealth untold.

Maizie or Jo, as the case may be,
A business maid with courage strong,
Interlaced with haunting melodies

CAN'T BAR GARDEN HERE

Madison Square Garden is incorporated in Illinois and has paid its yearly fees, George Getz, member of the state athletic commission, who promoted the Tunney-Dempsey fight in Chicago in 1927 for Tex Rickard and the Garden, said yesterday. According to Mr. Getz there is no legal bar to a Schmeling-Stribling bout here in June under the promotion of the New York corporation.

"I have looked up the Illinois incorporation of the New York Garden," Mr. Getz said. "Madison Square Garden can promote a Schmeling-Stribling bout in Chicago at any time."

Mr. Getz is planning a trip to New York within a few days and it is that time he expects to ascertain whether the bout will be brought to Chicago.

Jacobs Wires Comish.

Joey Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, yesterday telegraphed the Illinois commission he will call in person within a few days to post a $2,500 forfeit binding the title match with Stribling which was signed in New York yesterday "in N. B. A. territory." This does not commit Jacobs on the location of the fight for, as it was pointed out at the commission offices, the bout might be held in Detroit, Cleveland, Jersey City or Chicago. All are in states affiliated with the N. B. A.

Rather, it is thought Jacobs wishes to forestall possible forfeiture of Schmeling's title by the N. B. A. Twelve states, in the poll conducted by Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the N. B. A., have voted to forfeit Schmeling's crown, since he has not defended it within six months.

Nate Lewis, matchmaker of the Chicago Stadium, which offered $500,000 for the title bout, and Pa Stribling, his son's manager, are expected to arrive this morning.

"The Stadium will fight to prevent promotion of the bout in Chicago by outside interests," Sidney Strotz, president of the Stadium, said yesterday.

WINNER TO MEET PRIMO CARNERA IN SECOND BOUT

Fail to Fix Time or Place for Battle.

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Max Schmeling of Germany will defend his heavyweight title against W. L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., next June and the winner will face Prime Carnera, vast Italian carpenter, in September, under terms of a contract signed by the interested parties late today.

The contract was signed on behalf of Schmeling, Stribling and Carnera with the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois.

Briefly it calls for Stribling and Schmeling to meet in June for the Illinois corporation with the milk fund as the beneficiary, and the winner to battle Carnera for the Illinois corporation alone. A third verbal stipulation was that the ultimate survivor of these two matches would defend the title for the milk fund alone in 1932.

Neither the exact date nor the site for the Stribling-Schmeling bout was fixed but it was understood the third week in June had been decided upon and that the site would be either Jersey City or Detroit.

Detroit Second Choice.

Selection of Jersey City as the place for the battle depended, it was said, upon whether a new stadium to seat aproximately 100,000 persons would be constructed in time. In the event that it is, the second match of the series, Carnera against Stribling or Schmeling, also might be held there.

If it is found that Jersey City can not be selected Detroit was understood to be the second choice. Some experts clung to the belief that before the selection is finally made Chicago would be suggested as the logical place.

One odd quirk in the contract was insisted upon by the Carnera representatives, Leon See and Billy Duffy. They had inserted in the agreement a provision granting Carnera the right, should he win the championship, to fight at intervals of thirty days should he so desire. See and Duffy asserted the big Venetian would want to fight often even should he capture the title.

No More Bouts.

The entrance of the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois into the negotiations may bring down upon the New York garden the official wrath of the New York state athletic commission. Both Schmeling and Carnera are under suspension in this state and a commission rule provides for the suspension of any promoter or organization which deals with a boxer on the ineligible list.

Bill Carey of the Madison Square Garden Corporation of New York took no part in the negotiations. He has maintained that the Illinois corporation is a separate organization with a perfect legal right to deal with any boxer so long as it obeys the rules and regulations of the Illinois boxing commission.

Another of the interesting angles to the heavyweight situation was the complete exclusion of Jack Sharkey, Boston sailor man, from the picture. The New York commission, when it recently relieved Schmeling of his title in this state, designated Sharkey as the outstanding contender and announced it would recognize as champion the winner of a match between Sharkey and Stribling.

CHICAGO HORSE GROWS HORN AND STIRS KENTUCKY

BY FRENCH LANE.

At least the winter racing season is producing some of the best turf yarns that have been told in many years.

Fred Burton of Chicago, who owns the once noted race horse Wise Counsellor, now a successful sire, received quite a shock yesterday when he was sent word from Kentucky that Wise Counsellor had sired a young thoroughbred which has a horn growing out of his right ear.

"I've often contended that if anyone tells a good story about a thoroughbred horse some Kentuckian will come right back at you and spin one that will knock your story off the boards," Mr. Burton said.

Burton Goes South.

Yet he hurried down to Kentucky to take a look at this freak son of Wise Counsellor, which is owned by Billy Smith, vice chairman of the Kentucky state racing commission, whose trainer is the veteran J. T. Weaver.

"The colt has just turned 2 years old and is a son of Wise Counsellor-Dum Dum, and has been named Wise Talk," read the report which caused such a hubbub in the Burton Michigan avenue offices. "The horn is shaped like the horn of a cow," continued the report, "and it is now about an inch long and as big around as a good sized fountain pen, and is growing rapidly.

"Wise Talk is not an ordinary colt. He is one of the most prepossessing youngsters quartered at the Churchill Downs track; he is put up almost perfectly, and has displayed exceptional speed in all his trials, traveling faster than most of the young horses quartered in Kentucky.

A Rugged Colt.

"He is a big rugged fellow and has splendid bone and conformation, and a very easy way of going," concluded the message which the Chicago turfman received.

This is probably the first thoroughbred in recent years to grow a horn resembling that of a cow of moose, but it wasn't at all uncommon back thirty and forty years ago, according to Charley Bowman who has been in and out of the racing and breeding industry about as long as any man you can name.

"An old turfman from Texas, his name was Eugene McCafferty, came up to St. Louis from down in the Panhandle country 35 years ago to race his band," Bowman said.

Horns in Both Ears.

"Three of his 2 year olds not only had horns growing out of one ear, but they had horns growing out of both ears. These colts could show you an eighth in :11 any time, they could turn a quarter in :22 and round out a half in right around 45 seconds, but that was as far as they could go and they would quit to a walk at the end of five furlongs."

A noted Chicago veterinarian who cares for many race horses each year says the growth of a horn in Wise Talk's right ear need not cause any alarm. He doesn't believe the horn will become very prominent.

SKATERS TO HOLD TRYOUTS TODAY

The final Chicago Olympic skating tryouts at the 1,500 and 10,000 meter distances, postponed from Sunday, will be held today at 10 a. m. on the east lagoon in Humboldt park. Skaters will report at 9 a. m.

Unusually fast ice is ready for the 25 participants, among whom are several of the fleetest skaters in the middle west. These stars will seek the remaining places on the Chicago team which competes in the national tryouts at Lake Placid later in the season.

BRUINS TO PLAY TONIGHT AGAINST FT. WAYNE FIVE

Borgeman reported to the Bruins yesterday. With Nat Hickey as his running mate Borgeman should show to best advantage against the Hoosiers. Ralph Miller, formerly of Fort Wayne, is the second star signed by the Bruin management. Miller is regarded as one of the game's leading guards.

Because of the dashing play of Mike Wickhorst in recent games Manager Halas has decided to keep him in the starting lineup. He will be paired at guard with Ray Kennedy. Charley Murphy will start at center.

Fort Wayne always has been the Bruins' most bitter rival. The Hoosiers have a powerful team with Saunders and Husta at forwards, Chadwick at center, and Shimek and Meyers at guards.

The Edgewater Presbyterians play the Chase A. C. in a preliminary at 8 o'clock.

Harrison dealt McKinley a pair of defeats in a west section doubleheader on the Harrison floor, the heavies winning, 40 to 14, and the lights, 31 to 18. Eddie Odron, Jim Sisulak, Dave Smoler, and George Sima were the victors' stars.

Hyde Park and Tilden divided a pair on the Hyde Park floor, the former's heavies winning, 24 to 17, while Ballinger led the Tilden lights to a 24-17 decision. Al Johnson starred for the Hyde Park heavies.

Senn and Schurz also split a doubleheader, Senn's heavies taking a 34-18 battle, while the Schurz, led by Schneider, won, 17 to 16. Ritter made 14 points for Senn heavies.

Marshall Routs Medill.

Marshall invaded Medill's floor for a double victory, the heavies winning, 34 to 22, and the lights, 36 to 19.

Roosevelt hung up a double victory on the home court by defeating Waller heavies and lights, 31 to 10, and 28 to 14, respectively.

CITY BOARD OF HEALTH
CITY HALL
RENO, NEVADA

September 23, 1930.

The American Cigar Company,
New York, New York.

Gentlemen:

Your very effective campaign in the newspapers against "spit-tipping" by some cigar manufacturers is decidely in the interest of the public health and in my opinion you are to be commended for this public service.

The use of the word "spit" forcibly calls attention to the evils of the "spit-tipping" methods and no other word could as effectively get over your message to the public.

Our health department is interested in those campaigns which tend to improve general health conditions and in our opinion your present campaign comes within this classification.

Therefore since I consider your campaign to be in the interest of public health since it directs attention to a bad sanitary condition in some cigar manufacturing plants, you have my permission to use this letter if my statement is of value to you.

Sincerely yours,
A. F. Adams
City Health Officer.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Adams' letter.

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Becker Tells a Fish Story of the South

BY BOB BECKER.

When a northern fisherman invades the south this winter and hears a native talk about the fine brim fishing in a certain lake, there is no need to get excited. The brim [bream] is not a southern species of game fish which requires particular attention with fly or bait casting rod. It's either a bluegill or a sunfish.

Both are called brims below the Mason and Dixon line, especially in Florida and along the gulf coast. Among fishermen who want meat and use a cane pole, hook, line and bait to get it, the brim is a prime favorite. For the bait caster or fly fisherman who is after good sized specimens of the finny tribes, the brim will hardly fill the bill.

Black Bass of 18 Lbs.

However, this much is true of the southern brim business. In the south they attain good size when compared with northern forms, but with large mouth black bass growing to a weight of anywhere from two or three pounds up to 10, 12, 15 or even 18 pounds in southern waters, a northern bait rod or fly rod fisherman is not going to fool around with brims.

There is only one way to get a lot of sport with southern brims—at least it appeals to us as the one and best way. That is with a very light trout rod and small flies. You can have a lot of fun with them on such tackle. The fish, being so deep bodied, can get a good purchase on the water and offer considerable resistance. The southern fishermen whom we have watched fishing for brims invariably used cane poles and bait to catch them.

Speckled Perch Is Calico Bass.

Another fish name which may fool northern anglers who go into the south for fresh water bass fishing is speckled perch. This is just one of the names applied to the calico bass.

Last winter we fished a lake which was well stocked with large, dark colored specimens of this fish as well as large mouth bass. We were casting for the latter but finally came to one place among the cypress trees, stumps and vegetation where apparently speckled perch and bass or "traout," as they call bass down south, were sticking close together.

Using very small, floating, single hooked wooden lures and fishing them like a dry fly on a fly casting rod, you never could tell whether a large mouth bass or a calico bass was going to strike.

De Paul Tops St. Thomas' Five, 35 to 25

De Paul university cagers swept on to their seventh victory of the season last night when they repulsed St. Thomas of St. Paul, Minn., 35 to 25, before a capacity crowd in the De Paul gym.

The visitors revealed amazing speed but were too small to cope with the Blue Demons, whose rapid passing attack again proved the deciding factor.

St. Thomas snatched an early 4 to 1 lead in the first quarter, but this soon dwindled when John Ascher, rangy De Paul center, converted five goals and gave the Demons a 17 to 12 lead at the end of the first half. He had a total of six goals for the game.

An airtight defense in the scoring zone forced the visitors to resort to long range firing. Lineup:

GOV. MURRAY OF OKLAHOMA HITS COLLEGE SPORTS

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 13.—(AP)—College sports received a vigorous blow today from Gov. William H. Murray in his first message to the Oklahoma legislature.

"The most deplorable thing of all our educational errors is the placing as the shibboleth and slogan of institutions, the subject of 'ball playing,' and other sports," the governor asserted. "It is but giving reward and applause for physical strength."

MILITARY RADIO CUT; COMMERCE GETS CHANNELS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Wave lengths valued in the aggregate at millions of dollars soon will be freed for commercial use as the result of an investigation of army and navy radio activities by a special commission.

This commission, which was appointed by the President to eliminate duplication of radio services by the army and navy and work out plans for better coördination between the two national defense services, has recommended that eleven of the wave lengths used by the army and navy in communicating with Alaskan points should be released for private use.

It is probable that several other wave lengths now utilized by the army and navy in the near and far Pacific will be released for commercial purposes.

May Curtail Domestic Service.

Another possibility, it was learned today, is that the army's radio net, which has grown at a tremendous rate during the last few years, may be sharply curtailed in the United States proper and the business it now transacts for the various government departments permitted to go to commercial companies.

One high member of the commission said today that it was virtually assured that the navy's radio station at Great Lakes, Ill., one of the oldest in the service, would be taken out of the hands of the navy and possibly closed down. Some of the business it transacts will be taken care of by the army radio net, while the rest will go to private communication companies.

Protests by private radio corporations that the government was transacting business which rightly should be given to them played a part in the decision to call the investigation. Specific protest had been registered against the rapid expansion of the army radio net in the United States and the use of this service by other government departments. The first problem taken up by the commission was that of Alaska. The decision there was to turn the two big navy radio stations at Sitka and Kodiak over to the army, leaving but three shore stations for the navy.

Goes Into Effect Soon.

The next problem considered was that of the army-navy duplication of radio service in the Pacific. Originally the navy had the only service between the Pacific coast of the United States and Hawaii and the Philippines. In recent years the army established radio communication between San Francisco and Hawaii, and between San Francisco and the Philippines, as well as Tientsin in China. The installation of the new army service, which army officials asserted was needed for effective national defense, necessitated the taking over of additional wave lengths and caused new friction between the two services.

Indications today were that the commission will recommend that the army give up its radio wave lengths in the far Pacific and transact its business over the navy's radio. Special time for each service to use the service will be allocated. The army, of course, would be able to take over private radio communications in event of war.

REPORT RECEIPTS FOR ESTATE OF S. M'CORMICK

The first accounting by the board of conservators of the estate of Stanley McCormick, 54 years old, multimillionaire, was filed yesterday in the Probate court and approved by Joseph H. Lisack, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. The financial statement covers the period from Feb. 8, 1929, when the conservators were appointed, until Dec. 31, 1929.

The conservators are Mrs. Katherine Dexter McCormick, wife of Stanley McCormick; Harold F. McCormick, a brother, and the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company. They were named after Stanley McCormick had been adjudged incompetent.

The estate has been estimated to be worth between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 by attorneys who recently filed an inventory of Mr. McCormick's holdings. Based on current market prices of securities, however, the total value is considerably higher than $30,000,000.

Receipts for Estate $2,802,214.

Receipts collected for the estate during the 11 month period amounted to $2,802,214, the statement shows, while total disbursements were $2,728,488, leaving a balance of $73,726. The income from investments was $2,197,777. Dividends paid on Mr. McCormick's holdings in the International Harvester company represented the largest item.

The common stock—298,556 shares—paid $559,792.50 during the 11 months, while 32,976 shares of preferred stock paid $230,832 in dividends. Interest on United States treasury certificates and notes totaled $541,860.

The income from Mr. McCormick's real estate holdings in 1929 was $604,437, the statement shows. During the eleven month period, the conservators paid $560,220 in real estate taxes and $134,038 in federal income taxes.

Listed under disbursements were 10 investments totaling $1,919,283. Of the total $870,375 was invested in United States treasury certificates and $564,578 in First Liberty Loan bonds.

Monthly Payroll Is Listed.

The conservators paid $393,835 for the upkeep and improvements of Mr. McCormick's real estate holdings. The monthly payroll for the 57 persons attending Mr. McCormick on his Santa Barbara, Cal., estate, ranged from $7,727 to $8,358.

On the pay roll are a physician, nine nurses, three musicians, a manager, a secretary, a housekeeper, a cook, a waitress, two housemaids, three kitchen helpers, a janitor, four chauffeurs, a car washer, five watchmen, seventeen laborers, five gardeners, and a dairyman.

During a one month period the conservators paid $1,029 for provisions, $288 for laundry, $30 for telephone service, $1,123 for motion pictures.

The statement reveals that a fee of $100,000 was paid the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company as co-conservator.

FIND PNEUMONIA CAUSED DEATH OF STARVING MAN

A coroner's physician decided yesterday that pneumonia had caused the death last Sunday night of Jacob Pfeiffer, 79 years old, in the county hospital, where he was admitted as a patient last Saturday from his home, 4948 Gunnison avenue. Dr. S. O. Mayerson reported Pfeiffer in a desperate condition because of a lack of nourishment, while his inheritance of $2,300 and his house and lot were tied up, due to his mental condition.

Judge Henry Horner issued an order immediately on learning of Pfeiffer's needs, putting at his disposal the $2,300 cash on deposit in the Kaspar American State bank. Otto Ring, attorney for the bank, visited the unheated and foodless home and directed the removal of the patient to the hospital.

DR. JOHN W. RUST, WILLOW SPRINGS PRESIDENT, DEAD

Dr. John W. Rust, president of the village board of Willow Springs for the last 14 years, died yesterday after a long illness at his home on Archer avenue, in the suburb. He was 60 years old and for many years had been active in political and Masonic and Lions club activities. He is survived by his widow, Rachel, his mother, Sarah, and two children, Mabelle and John W. Rust Jr.

Dr. Rust was known as a vigorous and at times turbulent political campaigner and on June 3, 1921, while campaigning, he shot and wounded Deputy Sheriff Otto Tischner in a saloon at Archer and Keene avenues. He was acquitted of a charge of assault with intent to kill.

RECITE DEEDS AS BEST TRIBUTE TO NATHAN STRAUS

Great Crowds Attend Funeral Rites.

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Thousands of men, women and children stood today in the cold breezes of upper 5th avenue, outside of Temple Emanu-El, where other thousands attending funeral services for Nathan Straus heard the great Jew spoken of as one who even in his lifetime had become almost a legendary figure and who now, as he passed to another world, will be raised to a kind of "sainthood" among his own people.

The service was simple, although impressive. A feature of it was that the speakers violated the wish expressed by Mr. Straus that there be no eulogy at his funeral. If it was not an intentional violation it was a recital of Mr. Straus' deeds, which amounted to praise. Prof. William Lyon Phelps, close friend, for example, reading a sketch of his life, commented:

"Although Nathan Straus saw in his long career many instances of ingratitude, evil, and treachery on the part of men and women, he never lost his faith in humanity.

"He had a genius for friendship. He loved horses; he had the final grace of civilization—a respect for the dignity and personality of animals."

Dr. Nathan Krass, Temple Emanuel, also spoke of the nobility of the life of Mr. Straus. Dr. H. G. Enelow recited the Twenty-third psalm. Dr. Stephen S. Wise of the Free synagogue, read from the Hebrew prophets and there was choral and organ music.

The pine coffin, of plain white, was unadorned by flowers, and there were no flowers at the side of it in the temple.

AL CARNEY, 33, RADIO ORGANIST, TAKEN BY DEATH

Al Carney, 33 years old, a radio organist who broadcast over NBC and from WCFL, died yesterday from pneumonia in the Columbus hospital. Funeral services will be held Friday at St. Patrick's church, Dubuque, Ia., where the body will be taken for burial. He is survived by his parents, Edward Carney and Mrs. Winifred Carney. He lived at 659 Wrightwood avenue.

James P. McElherne, Bank Auditor, to Be Buried Today

James P. McElherne, 54 years old, 8033 South Green street, assistant auditor of the First National bank of Chicago, who died Monday, will be buried tomorrow in Holy Sepulchre cemetery. The funeral services will be held at St. Leo's church. Mr. McElherne had been with the First National for 36 years. He was a member of the Illinois Athletic club. He is survived by his widow, Laura, and a daughter, Mary Teresa.

EDWARD WALLER, PIONEER REALTY DEALER, IS DEAD

Edward C. Waller, 85 years old, pioneer real estate operator and a leading developer of Chicago's earliest skyscrapers, died last night at his home in Auvergne place, River Forest. He was a member of one of the city's oldest families.

Born in Maysville, Ky., Mr. Waller came to Chicago in 1860, and later established a real estate business which he directed actively for 65 years and up until he became ill last summer. He was president of the Central Safety Deposit company, which he founded, and which built the old Home Insurance company building. This, with the old Tacoma building, was the forerunner of the modern skyscraper. He was president of the North American Accident Insurance company.

Mr. Waller, in addition to city realty interests, was a strong proponent of reforestation, and replanted hundreds of acres of his own land in the Charlevoix district, with pine trees. He was a member of the Union League, Saddle and Cycle and other clubs, and belonged to the association of commerce, and real estate board.

Surviving Mr. Waller are his widow, Mrs. Mary Kirk Waller, and six children, Mrs. Robert W. Eckert, Miss Elizabeth Waller, Edward C. Jr., Henry, Mrs. E. W. Connell, and Mrs. George T. Langhorne.

STOP BOBBY'S COUGH

Before It Weakens Him to the Danger Point!

Never take a child's cough lightly. You can't tell where it will end. Many a serious sickness has started with "just a cough." For a cough is not only distressing, but weakening as well. At the first sign of a cough or chest soreness in old or young, always give good, dependable old "Piso's for Coughs."

Piso's does the five things necessary to stop cough and repair the damage done. It checks the cough spasm, loosens the mucus, opens the air passages, soothes the inflamed tissues, and at the same time, has a tonic value that tends to build up what the cough tears down. Only Piso's supplies these five vital effects and it contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. Safe to give, even to babies. All druggists sell Piso's in 35c and 60c sizes. • Neglect Here • Leads to Colds • Eat Yeast •

Catch COLD easily?

Look out! That's often a sign your resistance has been weakened by Intestinal Fatigue

YOU don't need to be told. You know what's at the bottom of those frequent, nasty colds. You know . . . but what are you doing about it?

Intestinal Fatigue not only weakens resistance so that we catch cold easily, but it underlies over half of all our commoner ills.

Then don't neglect this condition. Act on the advice of world-famous specialists. For years they have advised a simple food, fresh yeast, in cases of Intestinal Fatigue.

Eaten regularly, fresh yeast has a truly remarkable effect. It softens accumulated wastes and gently stimulates normal elimination. Your whole intestinal tract is toned up and cleansed. Poisons that were making you so subject to colds, headaches, etc., are swept away.

Besides this, every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast is very rich in three health-building vitamins—vitamins B and G and the remarkable "sunshine" vitamin D so essential for indoor workers.

So if you really want to get at the principal cause of colds, start eating Fleischmann's fresh Yeast today! Just place a standing order with your grocer and eat three cakes regularly every day. Directions are on the label. You can get it at restaurants and soda fountains, too.

Eat FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST for Health . . 3 Cakes a Day!

Always ask for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast "irradiated" to give it the Sunshine Vitamin D! Rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

Reviews Electric Power and Light Industry's Progress

BY SCRUTATOR.

An occasional brief review of the progress of the electric power and light industry is always in order, especially in view of the fact that this industry seems destined for a radical ride in legislative bodies within the next year or two.

In most lines 1930 was a dismal year. It was so in the electric industry only if a large increase in business from year to year is normal. Estimates by the National Electric Light association indicate that the gross revenues from sales of electricity in the United States last year were just short of two billion dollars and were greater by about fifty-nine millions dollars than in the boom year 1929.

Sales for power purposes were off, reflecting the lowered tempo of manufacturing. The deficit was made up by the addition of 500,000 new customers, mostly in the domestic and commercial fields. Commercial consumption was figured at about 9 per cent greater, and domestic use 14 per cent greater than in the preceding year.

Adds to Capacity.

During 1930 the industry added, according to its estimates, about 800 million dollars in plant capacity, making the total investment near $11,800,000,000. Indications are that 700 million dollars or more will be expended in capital this year.

The most significant trend, apparently, is that each domestic customer is being persuaded year by year to add to his consumption. It stands now at 550 kilowatt hours annually per customer, an increase from 502 in 1929 and only 339 in 1920.

This additional use is in itself becoming an incentive to those who are pushing the fight against the so-called power trust and demanding lower rates as well as the curbing of management. The monthly bill, even with the cuts that are being made in rates, grows bigger and more worth while scrapping about.

There is a good deal of the artificial about such demand as is being made for the further socialization of electric service. The industry, in order to expand, has had to show earnings large enough to justify the investment of large sums each year. From an engineering standpoint, it can hardly be claimed that utilities have lagged behind in getting and using the best and most modern methods. In ten years it appears that coal consumption per kilowatt hour generated has fallen from 3.02 pounds to 1.61 pounds.

Future Development.

Claims have been made and are still being made that over-capitalization is forcing consumers to pay exorbitant rates for what they use. Methods of accounting are so intricate that it is and will always be difficult to determine to what extent this is true. It is certain, however, that the electric utilities are not over-capitalized in the sense that railroads are; they earn dividends on their capitalization and in the power field meet all the competition that is offered.

The question just now is not whether the public is getting the positively lowest rates under which the electric utility can exist. It is rather whether a far stricter regulation on a national scale would or would not prevent the further development of the industry. It is noteworthy that the railroads reached the height of arrogant power twenty-five years ago before effective curbs were put upon them.

It will not be so bad, from the public standpoint, if the restrictions are held off until a point of fuller development is reached. Any regulation that would tend to discourage the investment of more money in this business or would destroy the initiative of the pioneers who still are in it probably would have effects not to be balanced in the scales of the public good by any rate reductions that would be made.

NEW FINANCING OF $100,000,000 WEAKENS BONDS

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—New financing amounting to $100,000,000, the largest day's offering in many weeks, coupled with the softness in shares, influenced a reactionary trend in the listed bond market today.

High grade investment issues were fractionally lower, and second grade and stock privilege issues followed the trend of stocks to lower levels. There was some inquiry for Latin American issues, but most of the foreign loans were soft. United States government were quiet and firm.

The bond market is facing the first real test of its new found strength The day's offerings brought the two day total to $165,000,000 and offering houses were understood to have many additional issues groomed for appearance this month. Estimates of the volume of new financing in prospect vary from $250,000,000 to $350,000,000.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Jan. 13.—Radical reforms are recommended to meet the fundamental changes the gold standard system has undergone in the gold delegation's draft report on distribution of gold prepared for it by the league of nations secretariat's financial section as a basis for its discussion.

The document, while thus not representing the delegation's final views, gives the first definite indications of the general lines whereon it is working It is considered especially important as showing the diagnosis and remedies which the secretariat's financial section, as the result of the delegation's previous discussions, evidently believes represents a basis of agreement.

The main thing whereon the draft report insists is the need of legislation giving central banks greater power and freedom of action—above all, liberty to coöperate. It gives an important rôle to the International bank at Basle as a means of carrying out the gold policy.

The draft report also recommends that gold movements should normally be allowed to make their effects felt, that artificial movements should be avoided, that imports and exports of gold should normally be unrestricted and not rendered difficult by the operation of the gold exchange system, and that countries employing that system should avoid creating a fictitious demand for gold by converting foreign assets into gold.

May Wage Oil Price War to Force Down Production

BY O. A. MATHER.

Failure of the petroleum industry to control production is likely to bring about further cuts in crude oil prices. Although various means have been tried to remedy a long standing condition of overproduction, including pro-rating laws and agreements and government conservation measures, these have been only partly successful.

With the constant discovery of new oil fields and extensions of older fields, leaders in the oil industry have about concluded that the only real remedy for overproduction is to make it unprofitable. Therefore, Wall and La Salle streets were agog yesterday with rumors of imminent price reductions. But whether the movement would be initiated in California or in the mid-continent fields was uncertain.

Reports from Texas were that independent refiners are buying oil for less than the quoted prices of the larger companies and so are able to sell their gasoline at lower prices. Reductions in crude oil prices in the southwest would naturally be followed by similar cuts in other fields east of California.

Estimate Conflict.

Uncertain conditions in the petroleum industry are further illustrated in conflicting estimates regarding current production. For example, the American Petroleum institute yesterday placed the country's output last week at 2,084,900 barrels a day, marking an increase of 2,800 barrels a day over the preceding week. On the other hand, the Oil and Gas Journal estimated production at 2,081,010 barrels a day, a decline of 8,427 barrels a day from the previous week. So, whether output increased or declined is a matter of conflicting estimates.

Refiners last week increased their takings of crude oil and operated at 60.1 per cent of capacity, compared with 58.7 per cent in the preceding week. But stocks of gasoline declined 197,000,000 barrels, although the current total of 39,583,000 barrels still is unseasonally large.

Car Loadings Report.

The lull in general business at the year-end is reflected in weekly report on the movement of commodities by the railroads issued by the American Railway association last night.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended Jan. 3, which included the New Year's holiday, totaled 615,382 cars, an increase of 76,963 cars over the preceding week, which contained Christmas, but a decline of 160,373 cars from a year before and also a reduction of 183,300 cars from the same week in 1929.

The largest declines, compared with a year ago, occurred in miscellaneous freight, merchandise, coal, and forest products.

SCHWAB, GRACE, OTHERS ASKED TO RETURN BONUSES

Newark, N. J., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Four common stock holders of the Bethlehem Steel corporation today brought suit in Chancery court for the return of $36,493,668 alleged to have been paid out in bonuses to officials of the company since 1911.

Attorney George W. McCarter of the law firm of McCarter & English brought the action for Camillus Berendt, James E. Reilly, Ben Glickfeld, and David Talt. Vice Chancellor John Backes was asked to grant an injunction restraining the company from paying further bonuses until the suit is settled.

Those named in the complaint as defendants having received bonuses are Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel company; Eugene G. Grace, president; William E. Corey and Percy A. Rockefeller, and sixteen other past and present directors of Bethlehem.

R. J. Reynolds Co. Profit Sets New Record in 1930

A new high record in net earning reported by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company for 1930 shows a net after all charges and federal taxes available for dividends amounting to $34,256,665, equal to $3.42 per share on the capital stock, compared with $32,210,521, or $3.22, in 1929. Cash dividends for 1930 totaled $30,000,000, or $3 per share, on 10,000,000 shares of common stock. This compares with the rate of $2.55 per share in 1929 The cash position of the company on Dec. 31 was $33,458,341 or more than three times all indebtedness.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 13.—Stocks settled lower today. The losses were nothing to cry about, amounting to less than a point in the vast majority of cases, and there was little evidence either of large scale short selling or liquidation. Trading was almost entirely professional.

There were indications that the bears were feeling out the market with a view to dislodging such fresh liquidation as might have been in the offing. Selling pressure with that end in view was directed mainly toward a scattering of the most prominent industrial and specialty descriptions, such as United States Steel common, Bethlehem Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Union Carbide, Vanadium, and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

To Lower Levels.

All of these issues were forced back to new low levels for the movement on relatively moderate volume of offerings, but it rarely took more than a point's change in price to negotiate the new bottom. Also the bears appeared loath to extend their operations in any case to any marked extent. The various drives folded up in rather tame fashion at the first sign of support.

The bull professionals, on the other hand, were just as disinclined as those committed to the decline to start anything of an aggressive nature. Both sides, in fact, seemed to be waiting for something to turn up.

There seemed to be a pretty general belief that something was brew-

A STATEMENT TO HESITANT INVESTORS

THE number of people in this country who have attempted investment has greatly increased in recent years. Much confusion between speculation and investment was a perhaps natural result.

The inevitable deflation of speculative security prices, when it came, involved a chain of disturbing consequences. Not the least of these was the shattered confidence of many investors. Some have felt more inclined to hold money than to invest it in the outstanding and sound investment opportunities which are known to exist today.

Timid money is quite as retarding to the return of prosperity as careless money is instrumental in destroying it. Well-founded confidence is the substance of truly good times. But where may the investor who distrusts his own judgment find the basis for such confidence?

No responsible investment house can assume to predict what will happen from one period to another. It can, however, have a policy which it believes will afford the most protection to its customers and itself under the varying conditions which affect investments.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., from its very beginning, has confined its business to bonds (which as a classification include also notes and debentures). Simply stated, the purpose of this house is to serve those who recognize that the essential purpose of investment is well-secured INCOME. Bonds fit that purpose. While not immune to fluctuations in market value—reflecting economic conditions and the state of the public mind—sound bonds remain, as always, the most dependable source of investment income.

The present, we believe, is one of those infrequently recurring periods, when cool judgment of values and courage to act may secure to bond investors a rate of return for years to come—such as is commonly expected only from less conservative investments. We shall be glad to suggest bonds which we have approved—from among the outstanding values in today's market—to fit your requirements.

BONDS TO FIT THE INVESTOR

CHICAGO STOCKS END DAY WITH MINOR LOSSES

Traction Issues Improve in Bond Market.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Operations of professional traders and a moderate amount of outside selling induced general weakness in the Chicago stock list yesterday and a majority of the leading shares wound up the day with minor losses. The market was headed down when the final bell halted trading. The firming up which developed around noon was short lived and stocks resumed their earlier easy trend.

Sharp gains in some of the traction issues featured the bond dealing, which was the heaviest in several days. Purchase of these issues was apparently based on the information that Mayor Thompson had signed the ordinance previously approved by the city council extending the time in which the new transportation company may accept the indeterminate franchise. The action is regarded as favorable to the traction interests and it is believed will remove the question as a major issue in the mayoralty campaign.

Two Issues Up 7 Points Each.

Chicago Railway 1st 5s were marked up 7 to 70 on a turnover of bonds with a par value of $13,000. A similar gain was chalked for Chicago City Railway 5s on small sales. Northwest Elevated Railway 5s sold up nearly 6 points while Metropolitan West Side Elevated 4s were quoted around the previous closing price.

Dismissal of the receivership suit against Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company in federal court here because of lack of jurisdiction was reflected in the market action of the company's stock which edged up a fraction. The petitioning stockholders were citizens of Ohio and the pipe line firm and its distributing organization, Frank P. Parish & Co., which also was named, are both Delaware corporations. Complainant counsel filed another bill in behalf of an Illinois stockholder of the concern following the dismissal. The second bill contains essentially the same charges as appeared in the first petition.

Watch Steel Reports.

On the whole the market performance yesterday was inclusive. News due today, especially the steel reviews, was expected to have considerable influence in determining the trend of the market in the next few days. Opinion was divided on how long the reaction which set in Monday will continue.

The weekly survey of the iron and steel trade was generally expected to reflect a favorable increase in plant operations during the week.

There was some evidence of an increase in short operations yesterday, but the volume of trading here continued small, with only 143,000 shares changing hands. Bond sales amounted to $140,000.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railway, said yesterday the road will report net income of approximately $8,400,000 for 1930, equal to about $4.51 a share on the common stock. Net operating income for December showed an increase of $1,000,000 over December, 1929, some of the savings being due to the charging in of about $800,000 of unusual retirements in the December, 1929, operating expenses he added.

Preliminary estimates indicate December net operating income of the Burlington railroad will be $1,601,000, against $2,536,036 in the like month of 1929. This would bring net opergting income for the year 1930 to about $28,100,000, against $35,357,963 in the previous year.

Engineers Public Service company's electric output in December was 177,995,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 5.8 per cent over December, 1929.

The City Bank of Miami Beach, Fla., which closed Dec. 28, was reopened yesterday.

The New Haven Clock company has shipped a $1,500,000 watch order for the William Wrigley Jr. company. It was described as the largest order in the history of the watchmaking industry.

President John J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, estimated net income for 1930 at approximately $7.32 a share on the 1,571,179 outstanding common shares. In 1929 the company reported consolidated net income of $22,296,268 and a balance for the common stock equal to $11.72 a share.

Firestone Tire and Rubber.

I am interested in some type of rubber stock. Will you please give me your opinion of Firestone common? Would this stock be advisable for a long pull investment? I want to thank you for this information.—C. W.

Firestone Tire and Rubber company is one of the world's largest manufacturers of rubber tires and, through subsidiaries, makes rubber boots, shoes and heels, automobile rims and accessories, brake lining, and electric storage batteries.

Firestone distributes its products through a worldwide marketing system which includes several hundred branches and warehouses in this country and abroad. With the coöperation of dealers it has recently established a chain of more than 400 retail service stores, in which it has invested approximately $25,000,000.

On a 1,000,000 acre tract in Liberia, which was leased in 1926 for 99 years, the company is developing rubber plantations. More than 43,000 acres have already been planted.

The greatest difficulty experienced by Firestone and other companies in the rubber industry is the wide fluctuation in the prices of its raw materials—rubber and cotton. This condition was particularly severe in the last fiscal year. The price of crude rubber dropped more than 70 per cent and the price of cotton more than 35 per cent. In order to fortify itself to some degree against such occurrences the company sets up reserves out of profits in good years and draws against them to cover inventory losses.

In the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1930, net sales were $120,015,662, against $144,585,804 the year before. The drop in prices for raw materials, together with excess manufacturing capacity and general business depression, have caused unusual price cutting in the industry.

Net profit in the year ended Oct. 31, 1930, was $1,541,034, which was less than half the amount required for dividends on the 578,633 shares of 6 per cent preferred [par $100] outstanding, and left nothing for the 2,154,861 common shares [par $10]. In the preceding year net profit was $7,726,870, equal, after preferred dividends, to $2.74 per share on 2,239,860 common shares.

Financial position is strong. As of Oct. 31, 1930, current assets were $56,445,390 and current liabilities were $4,214,767, leaving a working capital of $52,230,623, against $79,918,110 a year before. Surplus dropped from $47,453,508 to $41,984,249 during the year.

In October, 1930, the annual dividend rate on the common was cut from $1.60 to $1 per share. This stock is speculative.

Railway Tankers In Huge Oil Field Help Build New Prosperity

Nation's ample energy supply and the means to transport it are best guaranties of prosperous times ahead.

BY HARPER LEECH

(Note—This discussion of the problems of oil supply and distribution is by the well known economic writer Harper Leech, who was commissioned to inspect the Oklahoma City Oil Pool and the transportation facilities serving it. Much has appeared in the news dispatches in respect to this epoch making oil discovery, but it is believed that this is among the first if not the first comprehensive description. Mr. Leech was formerly a Chicago Tribune writer. This is one of a series of reports on this situation which will appear in American Newspapers.)

There has been a temporary over-production of oil.

Well, what of it? Has America ever failed sooner or later—and usually sooner than later—to use all the oil drawn from the earth?

We all recognize that business depressions follow mass brain storms in the speculative and commodity markets.

That depressions continue to breed delusions, until they approach their end, is proved by the fact that at the bottom of the business cycle there is always a widespread confusion as to the real difference between riches and poverty.

They forget, what they boast of in times of brisk business, that the wealth and prosperity of a country depend upon the amount of wealth in the country and our ability to get it out and use it.

All wealth must come out of the earth. When we find more of it, our confidence in the future should be strengthened, because our future prosperity can only be based upon the very abundance and productivity, which every now and then force drastic business readjustments, when price and credit relationships become temporarily distorted.

Oil, a Basis of National Wealth

Some of the recent discussion about the oil industry would lead a visitor from another planet to the conclusion that the way to be ruined is to be rich.

How slight are the effects of temporary over-production may be realized by a very little use of hind sight. The amazing prosperity of the American people in the post-war period was accompanied by an increase of our annual oil production from 442,929,000 barrels of oil in 1921 to 1,006,000,000 in 1929.

It is hardly necessary to point out that this oil was not only produced but nearly all of it was consumed, and that the oil itself was a most important cause of the prosperity we enjoyed while we were producing and consuming it.

Our kind of a civilization is based on mineral fuel, and the more fuel we have and the better fuel we have the richer we will grow, despite an occasional jam when the machinery for producing wealth fails to mesh gears with the financial and sales machinery for distributing it.

At this time we are not really liquidating past prosperity. We are clearing the ground to build up a greater prosperity.

The extent of the new prosperity is going to be determined very largely by the size and availability of our fuel supply.

While America's oil production was gaining at a tremendous rate, coal production made little progress. Today oil and natural gas are supplying about one-third of the energy from mineral fuels consumed in America. In pre war days our industries and trade drew most of their energy from coal,—oil and water power supplying but a trifling per cent.

Oil as a Factor of Prosperity

There is much evidence that this revolution in fuel use was to a considerable extent responsible for the prosperity which marked conditions generally from 1923 through most of 1929, because of the efficiencies and economies which liquid fuel made possible.

In 1923, in the beginning of our post war prosperity, more major oil pools were discovered than in all the years before. Prospects of oil famine had added gloom to the depths of the 1920-1921 depression. The discoveries in 1923 had a tremendous effect upon the automotive industries, and gave the steel industry a vast new market in the construction of tankage, manufacture of pipe, and the building of rail and marine tankers.

For this reason, the phenomenal discovery and development which have recently taken place in the outskirts and suburbs of Oklahoma City—an exploration and enterprise which, in a year's time, has revealed a single oil field which probably could, for a short time at least, supply as much oil as all of the other fields of the United States combined,—is one of the happiest auguries of our business future, however much it may complicate the affairs of some oil companies and some oil men at the present time, when sales and outlets are temporarily a pressing problem.

Importance of Gas Pressure

Of course, maximum production from the field would in a short time lower its gas pressure and reduce daily production. This would later require the investment of more capital and the employment of more labor to provide for air lifting or pumping systems. But with all that taken into account the discovery of the Oklahoma City Pool gives American industry and trade an additional assurance of the continuity of cheap and abundant supplies of liquid fuel and energy in the period of the new prosperity, which we are about to enter.

Under the restricted production of the field today only about 85,000 barrels per day are being produced—hardly the capacity of several single wells in a field where hundreds of big producers have been proved up. No matter what comes out of the present controversies over proration policies, production of this field will be substantially increased as the present stock in tanks declines and as the flow of other fields diminishes.

There is no argument about that—such is the unfailing precedent in oil history.

Despite all the large statistics and larger talk about stored oil, an industrial system like ours, always devouring fuel, cam empty tanks in quick time when business speeds up. We have never had in any year more than a fraction of a year's supply of oil ahead.

There is empty tankage today—also obsolete tankage and pipe lines which have nothing to pipe.

The proved capacity of the Oklahoma City field and the impressive geological evidence of its much vaster extent, therefore, forecast ample fuel supplies and plenty of work for transportation facilities like tank car lines, and renewed demand for steel, all kinds of other materials and employment for much labor.

What Veterans Say

A Geyser of Energy

The well was only allowed to flow, after the gas pressure had been lowered enough to make it safe to flow at all, for fifteen minutes, in which time 759 barrels were gathered in tanks. This is a rate of flow better than 72,000 barrels a day. But the real "initial capacity" of the well was probably in excess of that, because it had not gained full momentum before it was shut down.

The deafening and awe inspiring blow-off of gas, seems to the novitiate in oil lore a terrible waste, but it looks worse than it is. No devices so far developed by human ingenuity can handle such pressures as are encountered when a well of this kind first comes in.

Such wild energy is a menace and Oklahoma City has had some thrilling experiences in recent months with runaway gas and oil.

Chas. E. McSweeney, well-known Chicago millionaire. Mr. McSweeney is at the present time devoting most of his attention to the transportation of oil products.

Panorama view of Oklahoma City oil pool. This pool—In the outskirts of this great American city—probably could be drilled successfully throughout the very center of its business district and under the Oklahoma State House itself if such a thing were economic. It is one of the most interesting and heartening contemporary scenes in this vast American drama through which we live our nights and days.

These men with oil spattered working clothes and muddy boots are the kind of fellows who literally radiate determination and veracity. To the layman they are more impressive even than geologists and engineers, especially if the layman has some knowledge of how oil history has consistently "kidded the experts" by furnishing chapter after chapter of discoveries which have led to constant revisions upward of the oil resources of the United States.

Such a figure is A. D. Spears, a drilling contractor, who brought in a big gusher shortly before Christmas. In the game 35 years, from his native Ohio to California and from Alaska to Venezuela, he expressed the opinion to this writer that the field is simply in another class from any heretofore discovered.

Spears is selling service, not oil. His work will always be in demand, regardless of what this or that field proves to be, but his convictions about this pool are white hot in intensity and backed by a life of know how and know where.

An Historical Irony

The very fact that this great reservoir of power and wealth lay unsuspected in the deep sands, while a mighty city was built over it, is a hint of how the little pessimists of a passing day ever fail to recognize the vast riches of this favored continent and the bold, energetic people who have taken it and live on it.

So striking, so complex and so vast are the facts and implications of this oil exploration that it is almost impossible to catch them and put them down on paper, to say nothing of defining them. But the whole thing conveys an overwhelming impression of power, vitality, wealth and prosperity to come.

The first view this writer and a party of Chicagoans had of it was unique indeed. At the very moment we drove up to a large, modern school building vacated recently to make way for oil drilling, there came a mighty roar as natural gas rushed from the sands a mile and a quarter beneath our feet at a rate of 75,000,000 cubic feet per day, and shot into the air with a noise as deafening as any park of artillery could produce, but entirely different. It was a roaring, reverberating hiss as if the earth were a cosmic reptile expressing its wrath.

The story of a gusher coming in has been written many times, but rarely has such a gusher erupted in such a place, from such a depth, and not often have these great man-made belches of earth energy come so frequently as in this Oklahoma field, nor have the results as a rule been similar because there was not only a minimum of waste but the gigantic resources can only be slightly tapped under the present system of regulation and pro-ration of oil production in Oklahoma.

Today the city fire department is on hand when the drillers get down to the oil sand, and announce that a well is about to come in. The presence of an up-to-date fire department at the bringing in of an oil well is one of the most picturesque features of this new oil field which, except for those around Los Angeles, is the only big one to be discovered where all modern conveniences are available.

After the initial blow-off of gas, in order to get pressure down to a controllable range, most of the gas from the wells is piped to establishments which convert "casing head gas" into motor fuel and other products.

This well, Wheeler No. 1, named after the school it displaced, was only a late comer among other giants, whose tall steel derricks could be seen as far as the eye could reach. Although it was one of the big ones, there are some bigger, and dozens of wells in the field have shown 20,000 to 25,000 barrels per day capacity. About six hundred wells have already been completed in the new field and from 150 to 160 are now being drilled.

To reach the deep Wilcox sand from which comes this Niagara of oil and gas, only the most modern drilling methods avail. Steel derricks, compared to which the wooden structures of an elder day are mere pygmies, tower skyscraper like in the air and rotary drilling tools driven by the most powerful machinery and high pressure boilers of the latest type are required, not to speak of the services of that most intrepid and intelligent tribe, the oil field workers of America.

Costly Wells Required

It requires from $150,000 to $160,000 to complete one of these wells. The bare equipment alone is often in excess of $95,000 and months are required to get to the oil. In drilling alone there has been an investment of more than $90,000,000 in this new field since the discovery well came in in December, 1929.

This is a pretty good index of the undaunted spirit of American enterprise in a year of depression, and when one thinks of all the piping, tankage and other equipment required in addition, appreciation of the magnitude and courageous foresight of the whole enterprise is vastly enhanced.

It is of special interest to Chicago, the country's railroad center and manufacturer of railway equipment, to know that the transport servicing of this great new field of energy and oil has been made possible largely by the railway tank car lines, and especially by one Chicago managed line.

Despite the fact that Oklahoma today is a vast network of oil and gas pipe lines where you can hardly throw a stone without hurling it over a buried pipe, tank cars have carried away half of the production of this largest and biggest oil field.

One of the most impressive sights of the field are the great loading racks where oil piped from wells to storage tanks and then from storage tanks to rail side is piped into hundreds of tank cars daily. The long lines of these cars on sidings or being moved by flocks of locomotives strolling about the field give an impression of high trade tempo.

On the day of the visit of our Chicago party, long lines of American Steel Car Lines tankers were loading and being moved out.

Every normal American who was reared near a railroad and loves to look at a locomotive or a train, (and who does not?) gets an added thrill when he reads on a freight car the name of a familiar railroad or city, and we got that kind of a kick out of this interesting exhibition of Chicago's great participation in the development of this most significant oil pool, which means so much to American business generally. Next to meeting a man from the home town, meeting one of its products is the most agreeable sensation which the man away from home experiences.

Flexibility of Tank Car Service

Of course, the services of tank car lines with their ability to reach any point on our 250,000 miles of railroad main line and our half million miles of railway trackage and switches which connect with all of our major industries and serve nearly all our communities, are not limited to taking crude refined oil products away from producing fields.

As a matter of fact, it is a question if the extension of pipe lines does not actually increase the demand for tank car service because, as the uses of oil fuel multiply, the secondary distribution of the product to an ever-widening circle of final consumers becomes of greater importance.

With respect to the transport of finished petroleum products, the increasing demand of the public for motor fuels of special characteristics, the growing discrimination of gasoline buyers who demand anti knock products, ethyl compounds and gasolines of various brands, gives the flexible tank car, which can carry different products at various times a great advantage over pipe distribution, which suffers from all the limitations of mass transport of a uniform product.

In recent years this handicap of uniformity in the face of a public demand becoming ever more varied and exacting has been felt in many industrial lines, and far sighted men already vision it as the big obstacle to pipe distribution of refined oil products.

Forward looking investors who note how modern capital goods to endure must be flexible and adaptable, are also aware of the short life of many fixed properties, especially transportation facilities designed to serve extractive industries developing natural resources.

The mileage of abandoned pipe lines from exhausted oil and gas fields is almost as impressive as the mileage of abandoned railway track which once served mines or forests which have been worked out.

The American Steel Car Lines, Inc., engaged in the business of leasing and renting standard steel tank cars to railroads and various shippers for the transportation of all kinds of liquid products, including those we burn and those we eat, is a Chicago company which has performed magnificent service in the Oklahoma City field.

This company from the first has been primarily, a Chicago concern, organized in February, 1928 by executives of railroads and refineries. Mr. Almer's management has contributed largely to the rapid growth of the company.

In no less measure representatives of the firm acting as general counsel of the company Petit, Olin and Overmyer have been active in its development.

What President McSweeney Thinks

The executive and operative management of this company are familiar with traffic affairs and have intimate knowledge of the transportation problems of producers and refiners.

Discussing the problems of oil and oil transport, President McSweeney of American Steel Car Lines says:

"The executive Vice-President and General Manager of this company, Mr. Henry Almer, is regarded as one of the most competent traffic officials in this industry, with broad and friendly connections with many executives of railroads and refineries. Mr. Almer's management has contributed largely to the rapid growth of the company.

Chas. E. McSweeney, President of American Steel Car Lines, Inc.

The Company has recently opened branch offices at North Kansas City, Missouri, Tulsa, Oklahoma, Fort Worth, Texas, and El Dorado, Arkansas, where district representatives are maintained.

"Since its organization, American Steel Car Lines, Inc. has increased its rolling equipment much over 1000%.

"During the yearly period ending December 1st, 1930 (last two weeks of December estimated) the company will have transported an average of two (2) solid train loads of petroleum products per day for every working day of the year 1930. Business in prospect for the year 1931 indicates that the company will maintain at least this proportionate rate of increase. During the present year, a year of drastic depression in almost every line of industry and of universal reports of losses by the railroads and petroleum industries, American Steel Car Lines, Inc. showed substantial gains in both its gross and net income, in addition to having retired a large amount of its outstanding Car Trust Certificates.

"The company at this date is operating at 100% capacity excepting only the few cars that are in shops for minor running repairs. The company, through its affiliated connection, the Kansas City Car Company, maintains new, modern car shops at North Kansas City, Missouri. With the completion this month of a large fabricated steel building fully equipped with the necessary electric welding and other shop machinery, the company will have one of the most complete and newest car shops in the southwest, designed to take care of the company's requirements in the southwest up to 3,000 cars annually and to make repairs for railroads and other car companies. Its ideal geographical location at a gateway through which a great volume of the oil traffic moves will contribute to the efficiency of American Steel Car Lines, Inc.

"The projected gasoline pipe lines and those actually under construction have caused much apprehension to holders of railroad securities, especially of those railroads whose main lines are paralleled by or whose territory may be invaded by pipe line competition.

"From the copious literature on this subject by well known and well informed writers, fortified with convincing statistical data, one may winnow from the contradictory viewpoints, convincing facts bearing on the superficial conclusion that these pipe lines may ultimately prove to be a serious menace to tank car distribution.

"The railroads in the past have faced a similar situation in this industry, when the situation was then, as now, visioned as a potential calamity. However, the railroads came through with flying colors.

"It is quite within the range of probability that the Interstate Commerce Commission will come to the assistance of the railroads if they are threatened by any serious loss of revenue from this competition, but this loss may be more than counterbalanced by the increased traffic revenue resulting from the increased demand for burning oils which must be distributed from pipe terminals to consumers by tank car. Burning oils for industries and homes are taking a tremendous tonnage to supply the requirements in cities, towns, and prosperous villages throughout the country.

"The statements of exploiters of Gasoline Pipe Lines, that in the very near future main consuming centers will be served with gasoline by motor tank trucks from bulk stations located at pipe line terminals and transportation crossroads, supplied by pipe lines extending directly from the refineries, and that distribution costs will be very materially reduced, are not substantiated by any acceptable facts of proved efficiency.

"The only efficient distribution today, is by railroad tank cars, a transportation problem of considerable effort. Any new plan to take the place of railroad tank car distribution by constructing large pipe lines with lateral lines, and motor tank trucks would require a staggering amount of invested capital, in a large measure duplicating and over lapping the huge capital investment already made by the railroads, all for the ultimate purpose of lessening the transportation cost of a single product of the refiners. It would appear that the earnings necessary to pay interest alone on such a huge competitive enterprise would necessarily have to come out of the pockets of the consumer through increased prices of gasoline. The successful payment of interest on such an investment is decidedly a debatable question."

"Losses and gains to the railroads from pipe line competition cannot be estimated with any degree of mathematical accuracy. It is impossible to quote any reliable facts regarding the general good or bad effects of these pipe lines.

"The result of future operations is all in prospect. Predictions in this field are necessarily based on hypothetical situations and will only be definitely determined by actual results. When one utters pronounced opinions on the subject, the best yardstick by which to measure his sincerity is how much money will he put up to back up his opinions.

"In this connection, American Steel Car Lines' preliminary authorized expenditures for 1931 call for the purchase of 1000 tank cars to be added to our fleet, an expenditure upwards of $1,750,000. Our attitude regarding the future of business may be summed up as follows. We have no misgivings that impair our confidence in the rapid recovery of business generally and the continued success of American Steel Car Lines, Inc.

"We have extended our operations to cover a growing empire from Prince Rupert in far-off North-Western British Columbia on the Skeena River to Lake City on the banks of the Suwanee River in Southern Florida. From Hell Gate to Golden Gate we take our toll in revenue from the railroads great and small gridironing this vast empire. From the car windows of many cities, you may see our initialed tank cars 'A.S.I.X.', symbolic of American Steel Car Lines progress."

FIRM UNDERTONE SHOWN BY WORLD WHEAT MARKETS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

World wheat markets showed a firm undertone yesterday in the absense of any pressure of consequence. A slight change in the general situation was noticeable. Prices in all markets moved upward with net gains of ⅜@⅝c in Chicago where March closed at 82c, May, 83⅜ to 84c, and July, 67¼ to 67¼c, the latter future selling at the best figure since Dec. 20.

Winnipeg gained ⅝c for the day with a good class of buying reported, while Buenos Aires was up ⅝@⅞c in the face of a decline of ¼c in the exchange rate to 36c per paper peso, about the lowest figure on record. Liverpool surprised the trade by gaining 1@1¼d.

Aggregate trade in wheat futures was not large, but sufficient short covering and removal of hedges appeared to more than offset scattered selling. The buying of cash wheat at Kansas City credited to Farm Board agencies also had some effect. Minneapolis was strong and ¼@1⅝c higher the latter on July which finished at 76¼c, or about 9c over Chicago and a shipping difference. Under normal conditions July wheat at Minneapolis is an old crop month and deliveries of winter wheat cannot be made on future contracts there.

India Buys Cash Wheat.

Private cables from London claimed that India has bought 5 cargoes of Australia wheat over the week end, or about 1,000,000 bu. A New York message said around 4,000,000 bu. had been taken in November and December. As Broomhall in his first estimate on the probable world exports estimated India would ship 24,000,000 bu. for the season, the purchases of wheat from other countries was regarded as indicating a change in the world situation which might have some effect on the market ultimately. From July 1 to Jan. 10 India cleared 5,600,000 bu. for export. Drought continues in India and unless it is relieved in the next 6 weeks a small wheat crop is anticipated.

Trade sentiment as to what effect the Stabilization Corporation operations in the wheat market will ultimately have are decidedly mixed. B. W. Marx of Clement, Curtis & Co., believes that the only hope a short in the July delivery has is to secure new crop wheat to deliver, as he believes it inconceivable that the corporation will sell its old crop grain. He favors the purchase of July wheat in Chicago.

Sees Larger Carryover.

The Uhlmann Grain company, in a long summary of the domestic wheat situation, takes issue with Chairman A. A. Legge of the Farm Board as to how much wheat will be carried over at the end of the season. They figure that feeding operations will be materially less than anticipated, and expect that the carryover will be around 325,000,000 bu., or 50,000,000 bu. in excess of the quantity on hand July 1, 1930. As the Farm Board is credited with now owning around 130,000,000 bu. wheat and futures, they figure there will be 195,000,000 bu. of free wheat.

Export sales of 500,000 to 600,000 bu cash wheat and futures, they figure made in all positions. No rain of consequence was shown over the winter wheat belt, and a compilation of official reports made by R. O. Cromwell of Lamson Bros. & Co. showed a pronounced deficiency in moisture in some parts of the belt, as compared with normal, while in others the deficiency is not large. The deficit is largely in the area that suffered severely from drought last year.

Local Trade in Corn.

Aside from selling of March and May corn credited to a house with eastern connections, trade in corn was largely of a local character with prices holding within a range of around 1c, with the finish ⅜@⅝c higher. March closed at 70¾ to 70½c; May, 71⅞ to 72c, and July, 73 to 73¼c. There was little change in the general situation with country offerings to arrive small, and the shipping demand slow. Purchases of 25,000 bu. were made to come here from other markets.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

Foreigners continue to show considerable interest in Manitoba wheats, with sales of over 500,000 bu reported in all positions. It is understood that part of the wheat sold was to the orient. No interest is being shown in American hard winter at the gulf owing to the high price.

WHEAT CLEARANCES

Clearances of wheat from the United States, 662,000 in the last week, with no sign of any improvement, leads the Uhlmann Grain company to say that if we figure such clearances for 26 weeks, from Jan. 1, they would be only 17,000,000 bu, and last year from Jan. 1 to July 1, we cleared about 60,000,000 bu.

"We certainly cannot assume that so much extra wheat will be fed, and consequently we come to the conclusion that if there is more wheat left in this country now than in 1930 there will be more wheat left at the end of this season," the company says.

Mr. Uhlmann estimates there will be a carryover of 325,000,000 bu against 275,000,000 bu last year.

Deducting from this figure the farm board's holdings of about 130,000,000 bu in cash and futures, there would be left a bigger carryover than in most years, with the exception of the last few. Only a few years ago the visible supply at the end of June had run down to very low figures. For instance: In 1927, 22,000,000 bu; 1926, 12,000,000 bu; 1925, 27,000,000 bu. He believes that the visible supply is likely to be as large as on those dates, plus the farm board's holdings.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Cotton goods were steady today, with a fair demand reported for some of the print cloth numbers. Fine goods were in slightly better demand. Further rayod revisions were announced, in keeping with the base price established last week by the large companies. The demand has been better. More sales were reported of spring suitings and topcoatings, chiefly to metropolitan manufacturers. Burlaps showed little change. Silk goods were in improved demand, but prices were highly competitive. Raw silk was more active and prices abroad were firmer and higher.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

An impression prevails in the wheat trade that there is enough wheat coming out, presumably from government sources, to satisfy demands from shorts who are covering and from hedgers who are getting in on their cash wheat. The trade in all is disposed to even up and is gradually getting out of the May, which is showing more strength, owing to reports that the government agencies are picking up wheat in the southwestern markets at a better price. In the middle west there is more disposition to sell cash wheat on the part of the farmers.

With July wheat around 67c and No. 3 yellow corn at 67⅛@68⅜c it is said that farmers in the middle west are more disposed to sell their wheat and receiving houses reported increased offerings from nearly all the middle west states. At the same time corn is bringing more money for feeding purposes in the interior than it is in terminal markets. This may in a measure account for the increased marketing of wheat, as farmers are convinced that there will be no decline from the stabilized price and current conditions favor sales.

Kansas City and Omaha cash interests were said to be offering wheat to Chicago elevator interests at 3⅛c under May, against 3½c the previous day, but made no sales.

PLACES RUSH ORDERS.

The Pennsylvania railroad has placed rush orders for 46,500 tons of steel, to be used in building 1,500 gondola cars.

Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation

Gold Debenture Bonds, 5% Series due 1961

Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Trustee

Mr. Philip G. Gossler, President of the Corporation, has written us as follows:

Business

The Corporation, through its subsidiaries (substantially 100% owned), is engaged in the production, transmission and distribution of natural and mixed gas and the production, transmission and distribution of electricity. Operations also include a street railway and other related minor public utility services.

Gas or electric service is supplied to more than 1,200 communities in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky and Indiana, having an aggregate population estimated at 5,400,000, all such communities being so interconnected as to form one completely integrated operating System. The System has more than 1,300,000 gas and electric customers directly connected.

Substantially all of the oil and gasoline properties previously owned were transferred, as of January 1, 1930, to Columbia Oil & Gasoline Corporation. All of that company's preferred stocks, amounting to 675,000 shares ($6 dividend), are owned by Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation, and all of the common stock, in the form of voting trust certificates, has been distributed to the common shareholders of Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation of record May 24, 1930.

Expansion of Gas Business

Contracts have been made to supply natural gas at wholesale to the gas companies serving Washington, D. C., and York, Pa. A 20-inch pipe line to Washington from the existing lines of the System in southern Pennsylvania has been practically completed and will be placed in operation in the near future. This will be the first section of a large high pressure main pipe line system planned to be completed this year from the gas fields in Kentucky and West Virginia to Washington. This new line will supply the intervening territory in West Virginia, Virginia and Maryland and connect with the existing lines in southern Pennsylvania.

In anticipation of further expansion of the System's gas business in the near future, Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation has made advances to Columbia Oil & Gasoline Corporation to assist the latter in its acquisition of a substantial interest in a pipe line being constructed to transport natural gas eastward from the producing fields in the Panhandle districts of Texas and Oklahoma and in southwestern Kansas. In turn, arrangements have been made for the purchase of a substantial supply of natural gas from this pipe line by the subsidiaries of Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation.

Purpose of Issue

The proceeds of these Bonds are to be used to reduce the outstanding $66,044,636 bank loans of the Corporation incurred in making such advances to Columbia Oil & Gasoline Corporation and in providing funds for capital expenditures and other corporate purposes.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,500 cattle, 32,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep.

The hog market advanced to a 5@15c higher level on yesterday's trade, the top and general average prices touching the highest in two weeks at $8.35 and $7.75 and show gains of 20@35c compared with the low point of the season. A substantial reduction in supplies at Chicago was offset by increases in receipts at some of the other points. Large supplies at points farther west indicate a larger movement toward Chicago for later in the week, according to the trade.

All local packers bought at the strength, Armour, Swift and Wilson handling about 9,000, including 4,000 averaging around 260 lbs. at $7.60. Shipping demand was the smallest for Tuesday in four weeks. Yet only 5,000 were left at the close. Five western markets expect 84,000 today against 68,500 last Wednesday.

Hog Futures Unchanged.

Little change was noted in the hog futures market. Bids and offers in most months were too far apart for trading. March light were offered at $10.00, but the highest bid at the close was $9.00, which was also bid for April light. January light were offered at $8.40 and bid $8.10. February light were bid $8.50.

A decrease in cattle receipts yesterday strengthened the market. Most sales were made at slight gains compared with Monday's unsatisfactory trade. Quality continued plain and few sales were made above $10.50. One load of well finished 1,184 lb. long yearlings topped at $13.00. The next highest sale of the day was $12.00.

Cows and heifers were stronger. Calves advanced 25@50c.

Sheep Receipts Small.

The smallest Tuesday sheep receipts in six weeks failed to reverse the trend of the lamb market yesterday. Prices sank to the lowest level since the opening day of the new year. The shortage in receipts was general, 20 leading points showing a decrease of 15 per cent compared with the previous Tuesday. Only a scattering of closely sorted lambs at $8.60@8.65 held steady, the bulk of 85@95lb. averages going to local packers at $8.25@8.40, prime 94 lb. averages to shippers at the outside figure.

Aged sheep were strong to 25c higher, top ewes at $4.50 equaling the highest since last August. Yearlings were firm. Feeding and shearing lambs sold steady at $7.50@7.75.

TRUCK, BUS OPERATORS REMAIN SILENT ON FEDERAL REGULATION

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Motor truck and bus line operators met testimony by officials of four northwest railroads today with a blanket of silence, declining to present their side of the case in the railroads' request for federal regulation of interstate motor lines.

The fifth road, the Great Northern, read into the record data showing it was meeting truck competition in some northwest districts, breaking even in others, and losing in a few as Leo J. Flynn, interstate commerce commission examiner, adjourned the two day hearing.

The next hearing for the taking of evidence on the coördination of railroad, bus, and motor truck transportation will be at Seattle, Wash., Jan. 19.

NEW BUYING IN LARD

A little new buying of May and July lard, particularly the latter, coupled with changing from January to May and short covering, with scattered liquidation, featured the market yesterday. Pressure was not heavy and prices advanced and closed 12½ to 17½c higher, May leading. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d lower. Export clearances were 855,859 lbs and of bacon 526,000 lbs. Trade in bellies was small with prices unchanged to 12½c higher. Cash business was moderate. Hog prices were higher and receipts, although lighter than a week ago, were materially in excess of last year. Prices follow:

PLAN $150,000 STORE BUILDING FOR WAUKEGAN

Purchase by Clothiers Reveals Project.

BY AL CHASE.

Purchase of a small parcel in Waukegan's down town district yesterday by Durkin & Durkin, men's and boys' clothiers, disclosed the fact that the buyers contemplate erecting a five story building to cost in the neighborhood of $150,000 on the site of their present store at 13 and 15 North Genesee street. The property bought yesterday is 20x120, at 22 North Genesee street. It adjoins another parcel of the same size, thus giving Durkin & Durkin a site 40x120, both lots improved with old buildings.

These two buildings are to be occupied by Durkin & Durkin while construction is under way on their new building on the opposite side of Genesee street. This new structure will be five stories high. The owners will use the basement and two floors for their clothing business. The upper three stories will be given over to offices.

Sets New Realty Record.

The 20x120 lot at 22 North Genesee street was purchased from Josephine Marks for a reported $68,000 or at the rate of $3,400 a front foot. This is claimed to be a record for business property in Waukegan's loop district. Durkin & Durkin have not yet decided what they will do with the two buildings they will occupy temporarily while their new store building is under construction. These old structures may be torn down later on.

A wire comes from the realtor's special on its way to the midwinter conference at St. Petersburg, Fla. It is dated Atlanta and reads: "Bobby Jones defeated by realtors; game hotly contested to last hole. Bobby was matched against a foursome consisting of Mark Levy, George Nixon, Speed Warterfield and Earle Krumrine. Bobby didn't show up; result foursome won by default; they think Bobby was afraid of them."

Plan Englewood Building.

Plans have been completed by A. Epstein for a two story building to be erected by the Chicago City Bank & Trust Co. along the west side of its new banking structure, at the southeast corner of 63d and Green, directly across from the new Wieboldt department store. It will be of Indiana limestone exterior with provision made for a third story later on if needed.

The entire basement, two-thirds of the first floor and a small portion of the rear of the second floor have been leased for thirty years to the W. T. Grant Co. of New York, for use as a department store. The new building it is stated, will cost approximately $200,000. Edward F. Rogers represented the Grant Co.
